The charges that the committee had plotted to suppress certain evidence were worthy only of contempt. He hoped, declare by vote that they did not trust the word of its statesmen.

Sir H. Campbell - Bannerman, liberal member for the Stirling district, support ed the committee report. Mr. Chamberlain reminded the opposition that it was due to their insistence that the committee had been appointed, and that he himself had been made a member of it. He had been in a position, he said, in which he felt like judge, witness river. and defendant, and he thought he deserved the sympathy of the house from the fact that during the eighteen months of difficult South African negotiations he had been worried by constant irresponsible harges and suspicions, and he was glad that he was able to speak at last as a free contained was no evidence against the colonial He was convinced that, while Cecil Rhodes' fault was as great as a politician and statesman could commit, there was nothing that affected his personal character as a man of honor. It was said he had deceiv-

Mr. Labouchere, by bringing outrageous charges against Rhodes, Beit and Harris, had abused the privilege of parliament. The speaker contended that Rhodes had already been heavily punishferred upon him for his great service, and would alienate his loyalty to South Africa.
