NATIVE RULERS LOYAL.

They Offer Assistance To Quell the Disturbance.

A CAMPAIGN INEVITABLE.

WILL REQUIRE HARD FIGHTING TO PUT THEM DOWN.

No Recent Fighting Has Occurred, But Britain Is Preparing To Strike a Heavy Blow—Amers Discourages the Rebellion—Has Dispersed Some Ringleaders—Will Keep Tribesmen in Check—Rebellious Forts and Villages To Be Besieged.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Times publishes a despatch from Simla saying that further evidence has been obtained of the desire of the ameer of Afghanistan to prevent his subjects joining in the frontier disturbances. The British agent at Cabul submitted, at the ameer's request, a written statement showing the points upon which the government laid special stress. The ameer replied to this statement in his own handwriting, emphasizing his previous statements that his subjects do not dare openly to take part in the fighting, but had been drawn away secretly by the Mallahs, whose conduct he strongly condemned.

Not the least doubt is now entertained, the despatch says, of the ameer's desire to fulfil his obligations loyally. He has issued orders that his troops be withdrawn from the detached outposts so that they may be kept together under the control of officers who are able to prevent them from deserting and joining in the fighting.

SIMLA, Sept. 7.—The Satis, up to the present, have surrendered 2,000 guns, 1,000 swords and seventy breech-loading rifles.

The ameer has reminded the British agent of his public reputation of the complexity of his officials. The ameer also informed the agent that the Afghan officials at Nuigrabar had been instructed to secretly watch the suspected disciples of the Mullah in Afghanistan, and he asserted that the governor of Lughman recently attacked and dispersed 500 men who had been collected by the Mullah disciples and who were about to join the Mullah. The governor, the ameer asserted, had arrested forty of these men.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Times' Simla correspondent says that in addition to dispersing the Lughmanis, who had been collected by the Mullah's disciples and were about to join the Mullah, the ameer's troops also scattered a body of Shinwaris, who had assembled near Peshalhar, intending to enter and hold the Khyber pass for the Afridis. The ameer, the correspondent says, is plainly determined to keep the tribesmen in check, and measures will be taken by his orders that will cripple the Mullah's power and probably prevent further risings.

An important step has been taken by Maharaja, Sir Bir Shambher Jang Rana Bahadur, prime minister of Nepal, who has forbidden the circulation in the kingdom of native newspapers which he considers seditious and hostile to the British government. He has thus set a good example to the native states and to the government of India, which is still considering measures to check seditious writing.

The native rulers in all parts of India have offered the services of their troops against the frontier tribes, and the viceroy, the earl of Elgin, has accepted the services of four battalions of infantry and two companies of sappers from the Punjab rivers, and will also accept the use of transport trains from the Maharajahs of Gwalior and Jalpur, which did good service during the Chitral campaign.

The government has also sent its thanks to these rulers, whose unanimous action is regarded as being emphatic testimony of their loyalty. Gen. Dufour's column, sent to chastise the Mohomonds, is now at the Swat river, five days' march from the prospective scene of operations. It is intended to raise the rebellious forts and villages. Advice from the front indicate that the Mohomonds are alarmed at the strength of the punitive forces, and their gatherings, it is added, are already dissolving.

PESHAWAR, Sept. 5.—No fighting of importance has yet occurred between the government forces and the tribesmen who have taken part in the uprising. The enemy are concentrating at various points, and it is estimated that 17,000 of them are now on the Samos range, but they appear loth to attack the government troops. It is reported that the followers of Haddan Mullah in the Shabkadr district are deserting him, and the Afridis are returning to Khyber Pass. British troops are marching along the disturbed line, and several columns have been sent out in different directions.

A slight skirmish has occurred near Hangu, from which point a small column was despatched and scoured the districts of Atlagmir, Nawimela and Tari. They found the enemy's posts deserted. There was some firing, but they refused to be engaged at close quarters.

The Subadar commanding the Mallagori levies and forty of his company, which formed a part of the garrison at Fort Lundi-Kotal, arrived at Jamrud on Friday, and were given an enthusiastic reception; the entire garrison turning out and cheering as they entered the town. The Mallagoris cut their way through the enemy after the capture of Fort Lundi-Kotal, and marched to their own country, where they buried their dead and re-assured their friends. They then proceeded for Jamrud, which they reached in safety with their arms.

A Nerve Burglar Shot Dead. New York, Sept. 7.—While being pursued by Brooklyn police officers, Abraham Dorfman, the nervous burglar in Brooklyn, was shot dead. Dorfman was one of four thieves who had robbed the clothing store of Geller and Albray, in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn, and were driving away with a wagon load of the stolen goods when three officers surprised the gang.

WERE NEARLY STARVED

Close Call Of Canadian Government Officials.

THEIR LIVES WERE SAVED

BY A TACOMA WOMAN WHO FED THEM.

Twenty Government Officials and Mounted Police Were on Verge of Starvation—Train Unluckily Delayed by Rain—Food Was Out—Their Good Samaritan Arrived—She Was a Tacoma Woman of Name—Freak Assured the Party They Would Not Go Hungry Again.

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 6.—Had it not been for the fortunate chance that one Tacoma woman to the Klondike gold fields the dominion government would in all probability be mourning the loss of twenty faithful servants. John Gibson, the British sub-collector of customs at Tagish Lake, and the northwest mounted police who accompanied him, have been as close to starving as was possible for men to be and live.

They went in by the way of Skagway a month or more ago, and being in haste to reach their post of duty, started "light" over the newly re-opened trail, trusting for their supplies to the pack train that was to follow them three days later.

Unluckily the train was delayed by rains a day after they had completed the most difficult part of the journey. When George Knight, of Victoria fell in with the party on August 15th at a point six miles beyond the last settlement, they had been four days without food, and were in a pitiable condition.

Their hands and bodies were raw and bleeding from contact with the steep and jagged rocks, their clothing was in tatters, their health had been jeopardized by the terrible stench from the dead horses and abandoned supplies along the trail, and they were at the end of their resources.

The coming of Mr. Knight gave them fresh courage, and a little later their good Samaritan arrived in bloomers. She was a Tacoma woman, who, with her husband, had attacked the hazardous journey with rare pluck.

Her courage, while it was that of all women whom Skagway has yet seen, would have attracted attention in any American city, being the most rational dress, with the accompaniment of a belt from which two pearl-handled revolvers peeped. Despite her martial garb she had a kind heart, for she had no sooner discovered their position than she was at work cooking and while the two parties passed on together the government men had the assurance that they should not go hungry again.

BUSINESS PORTION DESTROYED

Magog Had a Serious Fire on Monday Night.

GEORGEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 7.—Magog had a big fire last night. The whole of Main street, which is the business portion of the town, has been destroyed.

GEORGEVILLE, Que., Sept. 7.—Shortly after one o'clock this morning the business portion of the town of Magog was wiped out by fire. It originated in the store of B. E. Goyette and swept along the east side of the street, destroying the big new block of A. G. Dolfos as well as the complete stock of dry goods of that gentleman, valued at over $15,000.

The Magog Enterprise office, Miss Chamberlain's millinery store, Lepine & Jondra's meat market, and several other stores went up in smoke. The fire then jumped across the street and consumed the Eastern townships bank, from which nothing was saved. Sheddick's jewelry store and several minor places.

The loss will be very heavy—nearly $200,000. The Magog fire department, under chief Fencher, was hopelessly inefficient, the engine becoming so hot that nothing could be done, and help had to be wired for from Sherbrooke, which arrived too late to do any good.

Case Of His Death.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Daily Chronicle denies the rumors recently put in circulation to the effect that Lieut. Von Hahnke, who accompanied emperor William on his yachting trip along the coast of Norway this summer, committed suicide after a scene with the emperor. The Chronicle says the true story is that Lieut. Von Hahnke, who was accompanied by a brother officer, accidentally ran into the river Grondaleby on his bicycle.

Was Never Offered It.

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.—Hon. R. W. Scott, secretary of state, was seen in regard to a statement in a Toronto paper that he had been offered the lieutenant governorship of Ontario. Mr. Scott said: "You can give the rumor an unqualified denial. I have not heard anything of it, except what I saw in the newspapers."

After drinking a flask of whiskey on a wager Abraham Rosenthal, of New York, imagined himself a tragedian and danced about his apartments with a big knife in his hand. In his theatrical frenzy Rosenthal plunged the weapon twice into his left breast, inflicting wounds from which he died.

A man named Frank Roach, who lived in the neighborhood of Nepawa, Minn., for several years, was going into the Winnipeg hospital to be treated for cancer from which he had suffered for some time. He was very low and died on the train before reaching Portage la Prairie.

James McShane, of St. Davis, Charlotte county, N.B., sixty years old, was gored to death by a bull on Friday. The neighbors had to procure a rifle and shoot the animal before they could procure the horribly mutilated body.

Alexander Begg, editor of the British Columbia Mining Record, died at Victoria, B. C., yesterday, aged sixty-five. He was a native of Quebec and at one time was private auditor and queen's printer of Manitoba.

The 14 karat gold fountain pen we are selling is really good enough for anybody. Of course, if you wish to throw away more money for a pen—that is no better—we can't prevent you; all kinds of nibs and holders. E. C. Mitchell.

YELLOW FEVER INCREASING.

A Large Number of Deaths Among Spanish Soldiers in Cuba.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Reports received by the Marine hospital service from its officers in Cuba show that yellow fever is increasing in the island. Thirty-eight of the thirty nine deaths from the disease in Havana during the week for which the reports were made were among the Spanish soldiers. Small-pox has almost entirely abated, only one death from the scourge having occurred since July 21st.

Dr. Caminero, who is stationed at Santiago, says seventy-one deaths occurred there during the week. All the fatalities from yellow fever were among Spanish soldiers. Sick soldiers, he says, are being taken to the hospitals in public conveyances, and unacclimated foreigners are likely to contract yellow fever. As the fever takes some time to develop, Dr. Caminero thinks there is danger of fever-stricken persons reaching the United States during the process of germ incubation. He will place placards on steamers running between Cuban and American ports, warning passengers against using public conveyances.

BURIED BESIDE THE KLONDIKE.

A Young Adventurer From Syracuse Crushed to Death.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Sept. 7.—Letters have been received in the city giving news of a party of three adventurers who went from Syracuse to the Klondike with the earlier arizonans. They were William J. Leslie and John A. F. Leslie, brothers, and Augustus Van Scheick. They reached the Klondike on July 4th. On July 7th John Leslie, while crossing a frozen canyon during a wind storm, was crushed to death by a huge tree which was torn up by the storm. His companions buried him in a lonely grave beside the Klondike stream, with a blanket for a shroud. He was twenty-three years old and unmarried. William Leslie writes of fair success as a prospector, and Van Scheick says that he owns a mine from which he has taken $30,000 of the yellow metal. He instructed his son to form a company and come to the Klondike next summer.

A DROUGHT IN RUSSIA.

Great Distress in the Provinces of Tula, Moscow, Orel and Kursk.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 7.—The newspapers are full of letters from the provinces of Tula, Moscow, Orel and Kursk, telling of the widespread distress caused by the drought. The ground is so dry that it is impossible to sow winter wheat, the grass and trees are withering and the stock is feeding entirely upon dry fodder, which is scarce.

There have been numerous forest and peat bog fires in the province of Kursk and the peasants are begging the government to distribute seed and so enable them to sow their fields. Stock is offered for sale at almost any price, as the peasants are unable to feed their cattle. Other provinces are threatened with similar distress.

A MUTUAL AGREEMENT.

The Czar to Uphold the Sultan's Right in Europe.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Standard says he is credibly informed that the sultan has been in direct communication with the czar, and that the correspondence has resulted in the making of a mutual arrangement by which the sultan agrees never to use his influence against Russia in Central Asia, and the czar pledges himself to uphold Turkish rights in Europe.

Natural Gas Explosion.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 7.—Broad Ripple, a village, six miles north, had two natural gas explosions. Two dead bodies were taken out of the ruins and fifteen or twenty were badly injured. The business portion of the town took fire. Five business houses were destroyed and three more bodies were found, making five in all. The first explosion occurred in J. L. Watt's drug store. Five men were injured there and the building was set on fire. Across the street was Pious Gresh and twenty men removing his stock of groceries when a crashing explosion occurred in that building. The walls were blown out and the upper floors fell in on the men. Gresh and Jacob Darling, a painter, were taken out dead. The others in the building were badly injured, several of them probably fatally.

English Mad Houses.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—George W. R. Russell, cousin of the present duke of Bedford, and under secretary of state for the home department in the Rosebery administration, had inaugurated a movement calling for the abolition of the private mad houses, and has announced his intention of asking parliament to take steps in that direction as soon as it re-assembles. He declares that he had while in office exceptional facilities for studying the object of private lunatic asylums, and that they constitute the greatest iniquity in England.
