Sunday morning about 8:30 o'clock Miss Emma Hartman was killed by being struck by a G.T.R. engine at a point half a mile west of Collins Bay. She was seen on the track and a warning sounded. She stepped off to the side, secured a stick and ran back on the track flourishing it. The engineer could not stop his engine and the young woman was struck and thrown quite a distance. The impact killed her. The agent at Collins Bay was told of the accident and Dr. Mundell, coroner, was summoned He looked into the circumstances and deemed an inquest unnecessary.
