

Blood Humors

Whether itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusty, pimply, or blotchy, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, from infancy to age, speedily cured by warm baths with CURICURA...

Curicura

Used throughout the world. For Sale Everywhere. Sole Importers, Toronto, Canada, 100 King Street West.

FACE HUMORS

TO BE LET. HALF OF THE FLAT OVER THE BERRY GUY'S CLOTHING STORE, King street, adjoining...

TO BE LET. FURNISHED, THE DESIRABLE RESIDENCE, 100 St. John Street, Good locality, perfect drainage, all modern conveniences...

TO BE LET. CLOSURE, FORMERLY THE RESIDENCE of Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick, beautifully situated, opposite Macdonald Park...

TO BE LET. THAT LARGE RESIDENCE ON NORTH side of Johnston Street first house west of...

FOR SALE. THE HANDSOME NEW RESIDENCE ON T. Union Street, near Division Street, lately occupied by David J. Whitehead...

THE ATLANTIC ASSOCIATION PROPERTY north of the fenced grounds. The extension of Hazel Street will run directly through these lots...

EDUCATIONAL

A Young Man

can pursue a Business or Shorthand course FREE at the KINGSTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

if he is willing to make himself useful. Full information upon application. Address J. B. McKay, Kingston, Ont.

Kingston Ladies' College, A CHURCH SCHOOL

Under the Patronage of His Grace the Archbishop and the Very Rev. the Dean of Ontario.

Patrols, Late Residence of Alexander Gunn, Johnston Street.

Christmas Term Begins Nov. 15th. The best educational advantages, with every home comfort and convenience.

FULL STAFF of University Graduates. Special attention given to instruction of home-schooled pupils. The refinement and culture of home-schooled pupils with the highest mental training.

ADMISSION FEE—From $5 to $15 per term. For Boarders, from $10 to $20 per annum. A discount of 25% is given to those who board at home.

Odd Furniture for Parlor, Library and Dining Rooms. We have them. Chiffoniers, Ladies' Dressers, Dining Tables, Buffets, Cabinets, China Closets, Etc.

F. F. HARRISON CO.

Klondyke Gold

Will not burn, but YUKON

Get DIAMONDS that will burn at BOOTH & CO'S

Coal and Wood Yard, Phone 125. Foot West Street

Still on View. The finest, brightest, most striking Shingles and Trusses in Full Milling. Not too late to inspect them yet.

HANNAY & HAROLD. Machine Made GALVANIZED WIRE FARM FENCING

Best quality. Lowest prices. CITY WOOD AND COAL YARD.

F. PARTRIDGE. COAL AND WOOD, Best quality. Lowest prices. CITY WOOD AND COAL YARD.

WANTED—HIGH NAME...

HAYCOCK IS THE NOMINEE.

THE UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF THE PATRON CONVENTION.

In a Lengthy Address He Defended His Course in the Ontario Legislature—How and Why He Voted on Different Measures—The Government has a Handsome Surplus.

A meeting of the patrons of industry of the county of Frontenac was held in the court house on Saturday afternoon, the object, as explained by the president, J. A. Wilmut, being to nominate a candidate for the local legislature, the elections for which are expected soon to take place.

Mr. Fair suggested that the present member give an account of his stewardship before the meeting proposed to nominate a candidate. Mr. Haycock proceeded to nominate J. L. Haycock, M.P.P., in rising, was warmly greeted.

It had been said that the patrons in the Ontario legislature did not stand true to their principles. They had, nevertheless, and he was prepared to defend his entire course in the legislature.

Mr. Haycock returned thanks to the electors for their renewal of confidence. As in the past, so in the future his energies would ever be directed to the welfare of the people.

He supported the government in their system of dispensing government for road repairs. This money is laid out to the best advantage and is received for every dollar spent.

Dr. Wiloughby had said that the speaker had broken up patronism by his first vote in the house, touching the matter of appointment of county officials.

The speaker referred to the attitude of D. D. Rogers, M.P., in the federal house, pointing out that the most skillful politicians in the country were watching and looking for every opportunity to trip up the government.

Referring to the finances of the government, the speaker mentioned the fact that J. P. Weldon, leader of the opposition, had said that the government did not possess a dollar in the way of surplus.

Mr. Haycock mentioned the fact that J. P. Weldon, leader of the opposition, had said that the government did not possess a dollar in the way of surplus.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.

PARAGRAPHS PICKED UP BY OUR BUSY REPORTERS

The Splice of Every Day Life—But the People Are Talking About—Nothing So Saps the Attention of Those Who Are Taking Notes.

Try Dunlop's clothing. See "Kismet" at the opera house to-night.

Pay water rate and save discount. Miss Bertha Cowie has returned from the country after spending a very pleasant visit at Ida Hill.

William Swain, piano tuner. Leave orders at McLaughlin's book store.

Fishermen of Bath lost several nets recently by being washed away by rough seas.

See "Kismet" at the opera house to-night.

Peterboro is mourning the loss of twenty song books used in the Moody meetings.

Dunlop's $5 D. suits; see them. They are good value.

The widow of the late George Bailey, formerly of Kingston, died at Point Charles, Que., on Oct. 21st, aged fifty-two years.

See "Kismet" at the opera house to-night.

North King leaves for Rochester at 5 p.m. Sundays. J. P. Hanley, agent.

There are a few good seats left for "Kismet," which comes to the opera house to-night, and can be procured at Sawyer's.

Very little of the Grand Trunk what is visible above water. A dredge has arrived from Coteau to remove all traces of the old structure below water.

Are you about to order an overcoat. See Dunlop's beavers, kerseys, chevots, before doing so. Prices, $12, $14, $16.

Herbert Allen, son of William Allen, bootmaker, leaves to-morrow for Dakota.

See "Kismet" at the opera house to-night.

This morning B. W. Folger, jr., Howard Folger and party left for Hay Bay on the steamer Jubilee Bait.

Dr. Mandell intends removing about Nov. 7th to 228 Brock street, formerly occupied by Dr. Stackhouse, dentist.

The topical song of the grand vizier and Radamanus in "Kismet" to-night, will have a number of bright hits on Kingston affairs of a very humorous nature.

Rev. Charles, Inwood, one of the Keewick brethren, is retracing his steps through Canada holding meetings in the smaller cities and towns.

See "Kismet" at the opera house to-night.

Our clothing in the lead once more. In men's goods we are the undoubted leaders.

A collar button possessing many advantages over the old style has just been invented. It is designed to fill a long-felt want.

Send your prescriptions to McLeod's drug store. Pure drugs at moderate prices, and dispensed by graduates in pharmacy only.

On Friday last a lady was attacked with a fainting spell on Rideau street, and fell over the fence enclosing the Rev. Mr. Mowle's residence.

See "Kismet" at the opera house to-night.

Charles Jackson, Dufferin street, coronet player in the 14th P.W.O. rifle band, has been in a very low condition for the past ten days suffering from colic.

Alderman C. Livingston was able to attend to business to-day after a brief indisposition through a cold, contracted during his visit to New York.

An Earl street resident possesses a dog which glories in its howls during the dark hours of the night.

A King street merchant who intends mailing circulars to his customers, and a letter to his wife, will combine with another merchant and thus minimize postage.

Ordered or ready-to-wear clothing. We have both. Which do you wear. Call and see us.

Next Monday the deer shooting season opens, and for the following fifteen days it will be permissible for each hunter to slay two deer, providing he has good luck.

Prevost, at the New York clothing store, never had such a large assortment of ready-made clothing this season.

Dr. McCammon reports Adelbert Wycoff's condition as improving satisfactorily. Yesterday he sat up for the first time.

Physical health talk to women in Y.M.C.A. hall, Tuesday and Thursday, 3 p.m., under auspices of Canadian Y.W.C.A., by Elizabeth Shields Fox.

The illustrated articles in the Methodist Magazine and Review for November are: "Rural England," a character study of Emperor William I.; "Light, a Branch of Electricity," and a study of Madame de Staël.

The audience that greeted Lillian Kennedy in the four-act comedy, "The Daughter," at the Grand opera house, on Saturday evening, was not large, but it had one redeeming feature, it was appreciative.

The speaker referred to the commission granted on English mining company to prospect in the north-western part of Ontario.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Sales For Slippers.

Great variety at Abernethy's.

A Rare Treat.

Bright catchy comic opera with lot of pretty girls costumes and a car load of beautiful scenery also a few of the luxuries to be seen in "Kismet" at the opera house to night.

Given Another Ticket. A young lady, visiting friends in the city, lost her return ticket when her friend's home suffered destruction by fire.

Evening Slippers. To-day we put on our bargain tables a lot of ladies' evening slippers. There are a few pairs of a number of different kinds.

A Damaged Head. E. Hartwick, who was struck on the head by a stone thrown by a Brockville lad a week ago Saturday last, has not been able to return to work.

Bad Made Worse. There are some preparations on the market for the cure of toothache that are absolutely injurious to the teeth.

A Horse Drowned. Last night Z. Gaudreau, merchant, was delivering flour and provisions to a ship lying at the M. T. company's dock.

Completes Their Canadian Tour. The Kismet operatic company, forty-two in number, arrived on Ottawa yesterday.

Want Him For A Fourth Year. A petition is being circulated amongst members of Sydenham street Methodist church congregation, and which is intended for presentation to the stationing committee of the Montreal Methodist conference.

Very Pretty. Sofa pillow coverings in silk and satin, ready for use, with back and frill or the top covering only, in finished designs.

Some weeks ago a young man named William Marshall appeared before the police magistrate, charged with using abusive language to his step-mother.

Back From The Convention. James Halliday, foreman of the K. P. & C. electric railway sheds, returned on Saturday from Niagara, where he spent four days at the American street railway convention.

Marine Intelligence. Marine items picked up along the harbor front.

The propeller Algonquin cleared for Fort William on Saturday.

The schooner Fleeting, Charlotte, is expected to arrive in port to-day with a cargo of coal for Swift & Co.

The Monitor from Bay of Quinte ports discharged 2,000 bushels of wheat at Richardson's elevator to-day.

The sloop Madcap unloaded 1,300 bushels of peas and oats at Richardson's elevator this morning. The grain came from Howe Island.

Water was run into one of the M. T. Company's new steam barges on Saturday last, marking any point which might leak. The test was satisfactory.

Next Sunday the steamer North King will make her last trip of the season, celebrating the event by carrying an excursion to Rochester via Charlotte.

After discharging the wrecking plant of the Donnelly salvage company, the schooner Grantham will go into winter quarters at the mutual wharf, fronting the city buildings.

The steamer Ocean was late in arriving here yesterday owing to the dense fog which hung over the lake. She did not get in until about four o'clock.

The steamer North King was also delayed by the same cause, touching here about half-past four o'clock.

Stationers In Schools. To give up a portion of the regular school day for religious instruction would be to compel not only Hebrews but agnostics, atheists and all others who do not hold the religious views to be taught, to pay for the propagation of those views.

This would be in direct violation of those principles of religious freedom and equality, which are the foundation of our constitution and our country.

JUBILEE IN DETAIL. Continuous Moving Photographs of the Event of The Century.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

The citizens of Kingston are to be given a treat at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Magnificent company, London, England, will give the British edition in their city of the state procession to St. Paul's cathedral on the 22nd of June.

EXPANSION OF THE TIMES.

PROF. DYDE TALKS OF PATRIOTISM AND LOYALTY.

The Growth of Canada and the Fulfillment of Sir John A. Macdonald's Prophecy—The Country is Now a Nation. Among Nations—the Basis of England's Greatness.

Sunday afternoon in convocation hall of Queen's college, Prof. Dyde delivered a most interesting and thoughtful address upon the subject: "Patriotism in 1897," in part as here given:

If the history of the peoples there are times of expansion and times of concentration. In a time of expansion some great idea takes complete possession of men, filling them with enthusiasm and hope.

Our own time is a time of expansion. Thirty-two years ago when the question of the confederation of the British North American provinces was being debated in the legislative assembly of the parliament of Canada, Sir John A. Macdonald, then the Hon. John A. Macdonald, said that the maritime provinces, which were on the point of considering union amongst themselves, were to be set aside for our project and joined heart and hand with us in entering into the larger scheme and trying to form, as far as they and we could, a great nation and a strong government.

Again he said: "If we wish to form a great nation, it is not only the nation as a whole, but the individual provinces, the scattered and weak boundaries composing the British North American provinces." If confederation were to be accepted, he said, "instead of looking upon us as a merely dependent colony, England will have in us a friendly nation, a subordinate, but still a powerful people—to stand by her in North America in peace or in war." And once more "If we do not take advantage of the time, if we show ourselves unequal to the occasion, if we may never return, and if we shall regret bitterly and unavailingly, regret having failed to embrace the happy opportunity now offered of founding a great nation under the fostering care of Great Britain, and our sovereign lady, queen Victoria." Inspiring these utterances was the strong conviction of a practical statesman, who seeing as others saw the great difficulties, saw more clearly, perhaps, than any one else the way through them. He stood as champion of a cause which, while bringing with it many material advantages, brought also a high national and political ideal, that of whose overwhelming benefits we could form no "arithmetical calculation." Only the other day the statesman, who now occupies the position so long and well filled by Sir John A. Macdonald, did not sink into our midst, that in the sixtieth year of the reign of her gracious majesty, our young country has been recognized as a nation by the nations of Europe. Yes, for us the time is a time of great hopes, wide prospects, deep enthusiasm, a time of projects and expansion.

The quality for which our era will in time come to be marked, is not so much an uplifting political enthusiasm, as a presence in this directing it, a force tempering and directing it, the presence of a determining ideal, a high ideal, a political ideal, that must be brought within its range and influence. The truth of this statement may be fixed by a reference to the place which our belief in family life and our love of country have taken and are still taking in the past and in the present. A man or a woman, the queen, as a girl, wife and mother, have this year been gathered many warm thoughts. It has been a source of rejoicing to her subjects that she in the discharge of her royal duties always cherished so deep an affection for her husband and children. Not only of Queen Victoria has it been said that a high regard for moral principles regulated her public life, but it has also by a grave historian been declared that Great Britain has steadily aimed throughout her history to make moral life the basis of her political activity. A third noteworthy feature of the patriotism of this year is the generous recognition by the imperial powers of the value of closer union with the scattered colonies and dependencies. Lofty, more than low ideals, are contending. When a large number of men are actuated by a high aim, it often prevents the unworthy act from being even so much as conceived. The banding together in London last June of men from almost every clime and zone, of almost every creed and color was at least a prophecy of the unity of mankind. Yet distinct as was the recognition by all of the advantages of union, there was present likewise a determination on the part of the imperial authorities as well as on the part of the colonies and dependencies, that no union should be entertained which meant the sacrifice by any member of its individuality. If solidarity meant the fusing together of the colonies and the mother land into one uniform people, the obliteration of all the elements which go to make each colony a distinct factor of the common weal, if solidarity meant a solidification of the British empire, then it was neither feasible nor desirable. In Canada we have been long familiar with the idea that a union not only becomes more secure but is of a higher kind when it accepts and rises above differences of race and creed. When Father Kelly, pointing on jubilee day to the flag floating over the sacred edifices, said to the Roman Catholic children that there was no antagonism between it and the cross, he meant that differences in creed and religious observance were quite compatible with a common patriotism.

When in 1801 the cross of St. Patrick was added to the cross of St. George and St. Andrew to form the union jack, a religious symbol represented the country in each case. Not only is there no antagonism between the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not a strip of cloth, but an emblem, a signifying the close and living unity of all. Long may the maple leaf remain a symbol of our democratic land; may we never be ashamed to be represented by the agnations and industries of the land. May the day never come when the cross shall be taken down and our national flag, the flag after years when the jubilee has passed, shall be the cross and the flag, but the flag contains the cross as its most significant element. The flag is the sign of all that the nation has shared and done throughout its history; so we love the flag, sing to the praise of the flag, yield up our goods and, if need be, our life, for the flag. The flag is not