A Dinner at Alma Tadema's.

The table was luxuriously spread, in perfect harmony with the elegant dining room. Wherever the eye rested was the same tasteful arran ement, the same originality of design, che ance without being in the least tawdry. We were a cheerful company. Mr. Tadenia was merry, as u sual. After dinner we went to the bil-Pard room, a lovely hall, where Alma Tadema beats his wife er she beats him. They seem to have got used to beating one another, though I should judge that their honeymoon is not yet quite over. I think I should have enjoyed myself better if I could have beaten one of them at billiards, but the time was limited.

Mine host is quite a dandy in his choice of cigars and wines. While we were sitting there smoking, more guests, both ladies and gentlemen, came in-interesting, indeed charming, people all, mostly English. It was not long before we were called to the supper table-the English n.ake few full stops between meals. I wasn't hungry, but everything looked so inviting that I partook with a relish. Mr. Tadema uncorked a lot of fresh jokes and clever stories-the good fellow has such a happy faculty for hitting people on their funny sides-and we had a right jolly time. After the supper it was a delight to see the same beautiful women of the party moving about or sitting before the exquisite backgrounds which the studio affords It was like a gallery of living pictures, where all the figures were posing without knowing it .- Time and the Hour.

Hoped Re Wouldn't Grow.

A well known M. P. was addressing an agricultural meeting in the south and in the course of his remarks expressed the pointon that farmers do not sufficiently vary their crops and make a mistake in always sowing wheat.

One of the audience, opposed to him in politics, asked him what crops he would ecommend.

"Everything in turn," he replied. "Well," said his interlocator, "if swedes den't come up, what then?"

".sow mustard," said the M. P. "And if mustard doesn't come up, what

And so he went on through a whole list of crops until, the M. P.'s patience being ethansted, he put an end to his questioning, aimid roars of laughter, by saying: . "Oh, sew yourself, and I hope you won't come up. '-- reraid Magazine.

A Young Man Rescued From Disease and Death

Paine's Celery A Poisoned System Completely Renewed.

The following case needs but few introductory remarks. M. D. Arthur, of Chelmsford, Ont., was in cerrible agony from blood poisoning; his whole system was run down; he was weak, yes, very nigh unto death. The doctors were defeated in their efforts to get rid of the poison, and hope had almost fled.

The young man's aunt providentially came to his aid at his most critical period, and urged the use of Paine's Celery Compound, nature's cleanser and healer. The medicine was used and a glorious victory over death was the result. Mr. Arthur, the cured man, writes as

"With great pleasure I write about your wonderous medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. I was laid up with scars all over my face and neck, the result of blood poisoning. While in that condition could not sleep at night, I had no appetite, and could not attend to my work. tested the skill of all the doctors in the district and used their medicines, but was last. My aunt came here from Campbellford and brought with her some Paine's Celery Compound which she was then using to advantage. She advised me to use the medicine, and I did so to please her. I bless the day I commenced with Paine's Celery Compound. In two weeks I was so much better that I could go out, and in three weeks I was able to resume without it if I were obliged to pay ten dol- side on what was to have been their wedlare a bottle for it."
