KLONDIKERS RETURN.

Two Parties From Dawson City Arc in Seattle.

FAMINE AND SUFFERING

WILL BE THE LOT OF THOSE WHO REMAIN TILL SPRING.

A List of Those Who Have Arrived From the Fields of Gold—Arrivals of the Steamers Alice and Bella—The Prospects in Dawson—There is no Food at Fort Yukon and None at Dawson—Opinions of the United States Mail-Carriers.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 29.—Twenty-five men arrived here yesterday on the City of Seattle, direct from Dawson City. They were divided into two parties, the last one of which left Dawson on October 16th. The party consisted of Thomas Magee, ex-Thomas Magee, jr., San Francisco; "Swift-water Bill" Sales, Joe Boli, William Huskin, F. E. Kharf, F. Robertson, H. Raymond, Bert Mason, John W. Brainer, W. H. Chamber, E. W. Pond, E. J. Gillespie, Thomas Wilson, P. McGraw, Jack Dalton, William Cook, Arthur Collins, Joseph Fairburn, J. Smith, T. Warren and Jim Stephenson.

They came out over the Dalton trail and are reported to have among them $80,000 in drafts and $200,000 in gold dust. All tell stories of a food shortage in Dawson that is almost a famine. The last person to leave Dawson was Jack Dalton. When Dalton left the steamers "Alice" and "Bella" had reached there, loaded lightly. It is said that the "Bella's" cargo consisted of whiskey and billiard balls. She brought no provisions. The Canadian government's mounted police chartered the "Bella" and gave all who wished a free passage to the Yukon. The "Bella" is reported to have left about Oct. 12th with 200 men.

According to the statements made by members of the Dalton party there is liable to be trouble of the most serious kind this winter in Dawson. Billy Leak told one of the men in the party about him, whom he met at Dyes, that all the people talk about at Dawson is the food famine. Men were gathering in groups main and asking what might be done to help the newcomers who were constantly arriving in the Klondyke, loaded with scarcely any provisions. The mounted police were offering transportation to the grub places further down the Yukon to Fort Yukon, but the countless hundreds who had labored hard all through the summer accumulating a grub stake, the prospect was uninviting, to say the least.

The men figured that it would take all their earnings in gold to pay their living expenses at Fort Yukon this winter and that in the spring they would have to enough left to pay passage back to Dawson, to say nothing of purchasing enough food to subsist on until they could get started again. To these poor fellows the offer of the mounted police was no better than the prospect at Dawson of being compelled to live on half rations until the supply boats could reach the diggings in the spring.

John W. Brower, the United States mail carrier, who left Dawson, Sept. 27th, said: "There is only one way of salvation for the miners who are now at Dawson city; that is for them to undertake the arduous winter trip from Dawson to Fort Yukon, a distance of 400 miles. There is no food at Fort Yukon, there is none at Dawson and just as sure as the stars shine, terrible suffering will be the fate of the Dawson miner unless he leaves there before spring. I will make the statement that when I left Dawson the men who were there had, on an average, four months' supply. Some did not have a month's supply and some had four or five." The restaurant closed the night I left. It had been selling nothing but beefsteak for which the hungry paid $2.50 a pound.

"When the people realized that the boats would be unable to get up the river they knew that starvation threatened them and the great stampede began. The first to leave went to Fort Yukon. I guess there were about ten in the party that left the first day. One boat that came up from Fort Yukon had several newspaper men aboard, among them Mr. Corcoran and Sam Wall and Mr. McMillen. They brought the news that the Hamilton had unloaded all of her cargo, and tried to get over the bar light but failed in her efforts, though she drew only two feet of water. This news increased the excitement, and made the rush toward food centres all the greater."

SETTLEMENT REACHED.

The Chief Difficulty Between Engineers and Employers Settled.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The London correspondent of the Tribune says: The conference of the engineering trade has settled the most difficult question under discussion; this relates to the management of shops, piece-work and machines, the masters' main point, and they can well afford to be generous in dealing with the question of hours.

"The situation in the cotton trade is becoming grave since the latest information of the ballot taken on the question of arbitration. The question of wages reveals reluctance on the part of organized operatives to accept the proposals of the employers for the settlement of the dispute."

Blacked Her Life For Him.

FLORAL PARK, L.L., Nov. 29.—Thanksgiving day brought sorrow instead of joy to the home of William Dwyer, a section foreman on the Long Island railroad. Dwyer was absent from home all night, and in the morning his wife, fearing he had spent the night drinking, started out to find him. She met him staggering along the road and walked beside him until they came to the railroad tracks, where he stopped between the rails and refused to move. She entreated him to come home, but he answered her with a scornful laugh. The whistling of a locomotive told her of the danger if she could not get him to listen to her entreaties. Then she tried to drag him from the track, but the husband struck her. Returning again, she endeavored to save him, but had only time to throw herself clear of the engine, as it rushed by, grinding her husband beneath the wheels.

Julius Pohl, Topeka, Kan., says it will cost $2,000 and untold hardships for any man to reach the Klondyke.

POOR LITTLE QUEEN.

Privy Councilors Decided That the Countess Not Ride a Wheel.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A despatch from Amsterdam says that while Queen Wilhelmina was with her mother in Vienna, she became fond of bicycling. She enjoyed the sport in the royal garden, and then her mother was seized with harrowing scruples as to whether it was in accordance with propriety for the queen to ride a wheel. She submitted her doubts to the queen, who laughed at the idea.

The matter was referred to the privy council. The council deliberated the question and concluded that such recreation was incompatible with the dignity of the throne. It also based its objection to the queen's riding on the risk she ran of being injured. The council concluded to implore her gracious majesty not to expose her precious life to this danger. The queen, however, obeyed and accepted a gift of a Shetland pony on which she sought solace.

CONVICT REFUSES A PARDON.

Offered to Him at a Season of the Year That Does Not Suit.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—One prisoner in the Missouri penitentiary has refused to accept a pardon. He is Frank Jackson, a negro. He came to the penitentiary from St. Charles county in September, 1893, for twenty years, for criminal assault. Friday, when governor Stephens called at the penitentiary to inquire about prisoners for his thanksgiving pardons, he asked the warden to bring him the negro who had served longest in the institution. Jackson was taken to the governor, and when asked if he would like to be pardoned he said that he would not, that he did not wish to be turned into the world during this cold weather; but he would like to get out next July, when it would be warm. The governor decided to let him stay.

GIVES IRELAND HOPE.

Chamberlain Thinks Parliament Will Consider Home Rule

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, in the course of an important speech at Birmingham on internal politics said he expected that the greater part of the coming session of parliament would be given over to the measure granting local government to Ireland. Mr. Chamberlain also announced that the government would introduce a comprehensive measure of army reform based upon a careful consideration of England's military needs, though without attempting to rival continental armies or to alter the system of recruiting. He said he considered the army to be "strong enough to meet the possible, though improbable, emergency of a breakdown in the navy."

Winter and Autumn Wedded.

HAMILTON, Nov. 29.—At the residence of Rev. Mr. MacWilliams, Francis Anderson, a wealthy widower of St. Mary's, who is eighty years of age, and Mrs. Loiziger, a widow who has seen sixty-two summers, were united in matrimony. They both had "been there before," as they remarked, so were not the least bashful. The bride, who is a Methodist, consented to be married by a Presbyterian minister, as it was her husband's wish. They are both vigorous and bright, notwithstanding that they are in the evening of life.

Have Been Great Shipments.

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—More than two million boxes of cheese were sent out of Canada during the season of navigation, and it is computed that there are still in hand 700,000 or more boxes, making the grand total value of the product for 1897 something like twenty million dollars.

Up to the present time the value of butter shipments has reached the tidy sum of two and three-quarter millions, over three times as much as in 1895, and half as much again as in 1896.

Thanks From Queen.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 29.—The attention of the queen having been called to the remarkable fact that Sergt. Eli Clarke, who enlisted into the 100th regiment in this city in 1858, has at present six sons serving as non-commissioned officers in the same regiment, the heart of the sergeant has been made glad by the receipt of a letter, expressing on behalf of her majesty, the gratification with which she learned of this unique instance of continued and exemplary service by one family in the same regiment of her army.

Just Like Sinners.

KOKOMA, Ind., Nov. 29.—A church war rages in the Middle Prairie neighborhood, south of here. There are two factions of the "New Light" Christian church, known as the "sanctified" and the "unsanctified." One element hired a minister who was to have commenced his work this week. The night of his arrival the church was burned. The opposing element is charged with applying the incendiary torch. The grand jury will investigate the matter.

The Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—The session of the Ontario legislature will begin to-morrow. Work will begin at once, and the public accounts will be on the table on Wednesday. The address in reply to the speech from the throne will be moved by W. N. German, Welland, and seconded by C. F. Farwell, East Algoma. The chair to be used in the ceremonies of the opening is that which belonged to ex-speaker Wells, the second speaker of the Ontario legislature.

The Oldest In The World.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Lawrence McCarthy, probably the oldest man in the world, and the last survivor of the combatants at Waterloo, has just died in the workhouse at Nenagh, Tipperary, aged 115 years. McCarthy was born in Nenagh early in 1782, and had vivid recollection of the horrors of the rebellion of 1798. He had attained his thirty-third year when he fought at Waterloo, where he was severely injured.

Trolley Cars Do Deadly Work in Egypt

LONDON, Nov. 29.—It is claimed that the electric railroads at Cairo, Egypt, are beating those of Brooklyn in the record of numbers of people killed. The Egyptian roads have been running a little over a year and 140 people were killed or injured by their cars during the first twelve months.

Diphtheria In Toronto.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—Six patients have gone into the isolation hospital, during last week, all suffering from diphtheria, and all residing in the neighborhood of Dawson street school.

Charges Against Those Who Used "Ltd." Probably Dropped.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—J. A. Bowker, who will be remembered as having brought suit against eighty-five different companies for an infringement of the law by using the abbreviated expression "Ltd." for "Limited," and who was ordered, by the masters in chamber, security for the costs, to the amount of $200, in such action, brought against the National electrotype and stereotyping company, appeared in single court this morning before Judge Falconbridge, against the order for costs, but the appeal was dismissed. The suit probably be the end of Mr. Bowker's eighty-five suits.

KILLED EACH OTHER.

One Hundred Sports Watch a Fight Between a Dog and a Wildcat.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—A special despatch to the World from Syracuse says: A fight took place near here early Saturday between a wildcat owned by Syracuse and a thirty-eight pound bull terrier owned in Auburn. It lasted twenty-seven minutes and both animals died together. One hundred men were present. Both the wildcat and the dog had been trained for the event.

A pit with a wire screen was built. Into it both animals were thrown. The dog was fairly disembowelled but fought on. Then he got a firm hold on the throat of the cat and both fell over in a vice-like grip. The dog never let go. Finally both gasped once or twice and died.

The referee declared the contest a draw and bets were declared off. Sporting men were present from New York, Troy, Auburn, Utica and Oswego. The society for the prevention of cruelty to animals is making an investigation.

Car Lines Sold.

WATERBURY, N. Y., Nov. 29.—The Watertown street railway and the Watertown & Brownville street railway were sold Saturday at public auction by Edward N. Smith, referee, to J. A. Lebnucher, mayor of Newark, N. J., for $28,000, the Watertown road bringing $18,000, and the Brownville road $10,000. There were only two bidders, the other one being Charles Cornell of New York. The road is about seven miles in length but runs in that part of the city in which the manufacturing interests are located but has never paid.

Clubbed To Death By A Police Man.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—James Kennedy, a young man, died last night at the Roosevelt hospital here from the effects of a clubbing which he had received early in the day from policeman Henry Woodley, of the west 37th street station. The latter admits the clubbing of Kennedy, but said that he had been attacked by the young man and three of his friends, and was forced to defend himself.
