DISFRANCHISING VOTERS.

The bane of all elections is the disposi tion of some electors to hold back to the last minute, and the presumption is that they are "looking for the stuff." Some times they wait too long and do not vote. Mr. Weir, a member of the Quebec legislature, has a measure in hand which is calculated to cure the evil. It provides for the disfranchisement of those who do not ballot in an election—unless they can supply "a sufficient cause." What may be termed sufficient is regarded as the difficult thing to prove, and the legislature may be ineffectual, may fail to pass the house, unless it appears to be a practicable or workable affair. The experiment, however, to correct an evil tendency of the day would be interesting. If men realized that unless they used their votes they would lose them, they would, perhaps, value their privilege more, or take a better care of it. The action of the legislature, therefore, upon the bill, will be carefully scrutinized.

A SIGNIFICANT ELECTION.

The bye-election in Centre Toronto yesterday had a special significance, a significance which was increased by the claims, contentions and demands of the conservative party. It was important enough, locally, at any time, but when W. Mc-Lean, M P., E. F. Clark, M.P., N. Clark Wallace, M P., and a lot of other busy bodies got to work the issue became wonderfully magnified. It then affected the whole province, and the political life of some people, according to some accounts, depended upon the result. The old guard was especially aroused, and from distant points they sent their appeals to E. F. Clark, a sort of brigadier-general for the Toronto contingent, to the effect that the heights had to be carried somehow; and "Ned" waved the message at the forces, and they cheered it to the echo. Then the importance of the election took a wider range; it was world wide in its influence and effects. The people of all Europe had heard of it, and awaited the end of the polling with an awful suspense. John Bull was pictured with his ear to the trumpet of a ballot box, listening to what it had to convey regarding Canada and its new designs in Parlor Cabinets It is preferential tariff, and his face was broadening out into a smile as he caught a whisper of what was coming. And the election of Mr. Bertram, under > these circumstances, cannot be depreciated. He represented the Laurier government in the fight, and his success is a complete and satisfactory endorsement of the policy of that government since its advent to power. More than that, the election means that the conservatives, in a conservative constituency, do not approve of the campaign led by the local leaders and members of parliament, and specially Messrs. McLean, Clarke Wallace, Osler and Robertson. These men have hurt themselves infinitely more than if they had let Mr. Bertram be elected by acclamation. Defeat, with Mr. Foster, is perferable to surrender. So it is under some circumstances. But not when the candidate of a popular cause is a progressive citizen, a successful business man, an employer of labour whom the workingmen can cordially support. The contest demonstrated nothing so much as that a desperate party will do desperate things, that its misrepresentation knows no bounds, but that electors are independent and will act as such despite the dragooning of party backs. Mr. Howland and his friends thought that all they had to do was stick up a man, and crack the party lash, and he would be elected. They have been woefully deceived, and nothing teaches like experience. In Mr. Bertram Centre Toronto has a member who will worthily reflect public opinion in parliament. He is a liberal, has always been one, but is a man of independent mind and action, a man from whom the government will seck advice rather than expect a blind allegiance such as Mr. Howland would have given to his

Now Mesers, McLean, Wallace, Roberteen. Osler and the rest of the troublers in Toronto district may make up their minds that to be honest and consistent and courageous, as they want to appear, they must repeat their charges against the government in parliament. And if they do not act without a gead it will be applied.

Mr. Bertram, M.P., was attacked, in the late bye election, because of his religious opinions, and he publicly put on re cord a declaration that was worthy of him. He is the first man that has been driven to this extremity, but it wouldn't be a bad idea to hear from some others upon

The independent papers have fared badly in the Toronto bye-election. Only one of them, the Star, was with the winning eide. The others ought to remain conservative papers. They cannot fool the people any longer.

Poor Foster! The people of Toronto have sized him up correctly, and put a proper estimate upon his talk. He is a clever man, tut according to King Dodds, conservative and campaigner, he is a traitor.

The conservatives of Toronto wanted the government condemned on Mr. Tarte's account. And the endorsment of the government must be accepted as an endorsement of Mr. Tarte as well.

The national policy is dead, and the preferential trade policy is very much alive. So the electors of Centre Toronto have declared, with the approval of the people of Canada.

FOSTER'S LAST DUTY.

Hop. G. E. Foster, the lippiest man in the federal opposition, the man with a tolking hand, or rather a talking index finger, was a great hero in the Centre Toronto election. He turned up at the last hour in the constituency to deliver a powerful oration, and the effort was considered so well that ten thousand copies of bis speech were distributed among the electors. That was the mistake of the political bosses, since it enabled many who would not otherwise have seen the speech to calmly contemplate And the general conclusion was that Mr. Foster had not altogether covered himself with glory. It was observed that Mr. Foster had ignored entirely the leader of his party, and so gave fresh evidence of a new tear-up in the party leadership. Had all been peace and harmony Mr. Foster would have apologiz ed for Sir Charles Tupper's absence, would have explained that the good man he had helped into the saddle at the expense of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, had gone off to England on personal business, but that he (George Eulis) was there to answer the roll-call in his name. But not a word had he to say about his absent chief, and a lot in glorification of himself. It not surprising that the Telegram, which supported Oliver Aiken Howland in his pretensions, should fall foul of the exfinance minister and call him down. It has discovered by that "magnificent speech" that Mr. Foster is too tender in his regard for the C. P. R ; that in regard to the Crow's Nest Pass railway the arrangement of the present government is preferable to that of the old government that, "rightly or wrongly, the country gained the impression that the ministers of the last government were just so many clerks at the service of the C. P. R.;" that the mistake of the present government was in following, in any degree, in the footsteps of the party it replaced; and so the Telegram has no hesitation in declaring that "Hon. George E. Foster disappointed the country's friends," one of whom, to be sure, is John Ross Robertson, M.P., of the Telegram. The most disappointed man, however, is Mr. Foster himself. He remained in Toronto, according to one print, to offer Mr. Howland his congratulations last evening, when the voting was over, and he was called upon to per-

BESee The Effects: Surmise The Cause. Guelph Advocate.

We will not stop to consider whether i is the last vestige of protection, which like the palmy days of autumn, still lingers superfluously with us, or Sir Wilfrid's sunny ways, that are helping our industries. However, nearly every large factory in this city is running over timethis fact is all we care to know, and we are glad to know it.

Good Thing It Was Violent. Guelph Mercury.

It is a fortunate thing that Mgr. Cleary's outbreak is so violent; it will do the less harm to his co-religionists, thousands of whom, we are satisfied, have no sympathy either with the pastoral or with the outrageous language in which he attempts to vent his ill-temper on the Ontario press. In all that goes to make up the decencies of life, we are sure the news paper men of Ontario will stand compari son with this prelate. The press of Ontario on the whole gives to the Roman Catholic church the same courtesy and right that it does to other churches, and is accused sometimes of giving an undue share. But its bishops are not thereby exempted from criticism when they transgress the rules of charity, and ill calculate the spirit of bigotry and ill-will. We refuse to believe that archbishop Cleary's ebullitions are any gain to the cause of our common christianity, or of the Roman Catholic church in particular. We also refuse to believe that they are countenanced to any great extent by the Roman Catholic clergy and people of Ontario.

Matthew Aylmer, adjutantgeneral, in whose hands all claims are at present. Possibly after a while this work will be turned over to some other officer, but there will be no further delay than is absolutely necessary in awarding these decorations for services rendered years ago. The militia authorities fully recognize the perseverance and energy which the volunteers of thirty years ago have displayed in pressing their claims, and now that the long sought and wellmerited recognition has been granted, the old proverb, "He gives twice who gives quickly," will be acted upon.

Manner. LAKEWOOD, N.J., Dec. 1. - Richard Cro ker fired a broadeide into Dr. Parkhurst last evening. He said : "Dr. Parkhurst shows his real character every time he opens his mouth. His utterances are but reiterations of his mental make up. In and out of the pulpit, when he seeks political notoriety, of which he is so foud, he turns his back on the precepts that should be his religious texts, and his talk is the talk of the lowest slums, where he laid the basis of his notoriety.

"There is not a man in New York whose tongue is more vicious, whose example is more dangerous, who has scattered more that is bad all over the greater city. His dabbling in politics resulted in more corruption of the people, previously innocent, than any other thing that has happened in this country. This man has done more to injure the morality of New York than any man ever known before in its history."

Shortt, M.A., was elected president, as R. F. Hunter, M.A., his opponent, resigned Mr. Hunter stated that he always adhered to the principle of a candidate for the pre sidency being brought out by a constituent body, and as that was not so in his case, he could not consent to run, although he would like very much to see a good contest. Mr. Shortt's aim will be to bring the members of the younger years more into the work of the society. Speeches were made by most of the other candidates, one or two going so far as to offer the ladies a pretty bulletin board if elected.

GEN. BLANCO'S PLANS.

A Provisional Cabinet To Be Organized In

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 .- Senor Dupuy de Lome, the Spanish minister, had an interview with assistant secretary Day. It is the plan of Capt. Gen. Blauco to take steps for the immediate execution of the reform schemes of the Madrid government, and, to do this legally, a provisional arrangement will be made. The captain-general will appoint directly a full acting cabinet, composed of a secretary of the interior and justice, who will be the premier, a secretary of finance, a secretary of public instruction, a secretary of public works, and finally a secretary of agriculture, industry and commerce. With this cabinet the captain-general will have at hand the means for a fully equipped executive government which will last only until the elections shall have resulted in the choice of a new government. These elections are delayed, it is said, only by reason of the lack of an accurate census of the population of Cuba, which is essential in order to apportion the representation in the legislature. LIVERPOOL, Dec. 1.-Letters received here in the West African mail bring terrible news concerning the Cuban exiles on the island of Fernando Po, the Spanish penal colony. It is said that 150 out of the 250 exiles sent there are already dead and the survivors complain bitterly of the treatment they received. Some of the exiles were transported from Cuba without trial and were landed at Fernando Po to live as best they could. The dead were buried without coffins.

Endorses. London, Dec. 1 -The annual meeting of the once famous Cobden club occurred vesterday. Lord Farrer presided. The annual report expressed regret at the death of a member, the late Henry George, of New York, and announced that the income of the year 1897 was £668. After recording the decease of the imperial zollverein scheme the death blow to which was given by Sir Wilfrid Laucier, the premier of Canada, and the declarations of the premier of New South Wales, the report continues: "In view of the adverse comments made in Canada and elsewhere on the fiscal policy of the dominion government the committee thinks it right to state that it has reason to be satisfied that the present administration at Octawa is inspired by a genuine desire to advance on the lines of free exchange, so far and as rapidly as possible consistently with pru dent regard for the difficulties created by the long rule of a high and comprehensive protective system."

The chairman, addressing the meeting, announced that the gold medal of the club would be given to the premier of New South Wales, the Hon. George H. Reid.

Amalgamation Of Customs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Commercial agent Stern says Germany's exports to Great Britain proper in 1896 were valued at $169,932,000, and to the British colonies $26,418,000. The great amount of trade is due to the treaty of most favored nations, existing between Germany, England and her colonies. Germany does not have the same advantage with the Dutch. French or Spanish colonies.

Canada has made concessions to Great Britain in her tariff, and Great Britain will be obliged to do the same. That would mean preferential trade as far as the colonies are concerned. This would be carrying into effect the plank to amalgamate all parts of the British empire into

The cabinet considered every phase of the situation, and discussed ways and means of affording relief, the disposition being to do everything possible to prevent starvation and misery among the Americans in the Klondyke.
