Enemy's Loss Was Heavy—Afridi's Vanquished.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—A despatch from Peshawar says: "The British columns have returned from Khyber Pass, after punishing, with slight opposition, the Zakkas Khels in the Bazar valley. Military operations on the frontier are now concluded. Every Afridi and Orakzai valley has been visited.

It now appears that the enemy's loss has been more severe than was at first believed, and out of all proportion to its possible fighting strength. Their trade with our centres for the necessities of life has been closed and their autumn tillage prevented. The complete submission of the Orakzais is now accomplished. "Many hitherto unknown strategical frontier routes have been surveyed and mapped out. The vaunted prestige of the Afridis has been lowered and their punishment has paved the way for the permanent settlement of the country. It is firmly believed that, cut off from India and threatened with a re-invasion of their country in the spring, they will not submit. It is also expected that the internal friction resulting from the operations will prove almost as severe a punishment as the operations themselves.

THE PEOPLE IN UNRES.

An Austrian, who does not give his name but who writes as one who knows whereof he speaks, declares that his country's troubles, as indicated by the revolt of parties against the government, is the result of intertate dissension.

Writing to the January number of the Review of Reviews, that most useful of reference magazines, he says: "The parties and factions fight incessantly for the interests of their respective nationalities, and neglect state affairs, and sadly needed social reforms entirely. There is haggling, scheming, and intriguing for every school, every railroad station, and every official post in the monarchy, while the great questions of the day are neglected, postponed, or run over without serious consideration. The taxes, coming principally from the rich industrial and agricultural districts of Bohemia, Moravia, Silesia, Lower Austria and Syria are largely spent on the hopelessly bankrupt province of Galicia, and for the development of Magyar industries, and wasted on a lot of red-tape and translations necessary to humor the different little nations. But the armament and commissariat of the army are sadly inefficient, the navy is twenty years behind the times, the building of railroads is at a standstill for lack of funds, the consular system is as shamefully neglected as the support of exporting industries, and, worse than all, public education in all branches is sinking from the high standard on which it stood so long."

Austria's troubles have been, to a certain extent, duplicated in Germany, but they are differently treated. Austria, though monarchical in its government, is not as paternal as Germany in its direction of national affairs. The Hohenzollern spirit has been to impress the people, and so there has been a general advance in great undertakings, in railways, in railway stations, in public buildings, in barracks for its active army of half a million men, in sanitary reforms, in education, in everything which can make the people feel the greatness of the government. The element, the dominant element, best represented in the various branches of the military, which conquered Austria and then France, seems to have gone on in its development, and is, perhaps, the explanation of Germany's ability to keep under control every power that is antagonistic to it.

And yet there are many disturbing influences at work in Germany, and the result of serious differences of opinion arising largely from the desire of the people in the confederated states to retain the supremacy, the rights and customs, guaranteed under their old constitutions. In the Reichstag there is the evidence of growing power on behalf of the socialists, who remain wonderfully united and who express their discontent in various ways and forms. They have been checkmated hitherto by a combination of other parties, usually of the liberal-nationalists and conservatives, but the day is coming when they will win, as they are gathering strength from year to year. Germany may never have its troubles as Austria has them now; because Austria owes them to an impotency of government that is pitiful to see.

More than 100,000 acres of land in Minnesota have been planted with trees during the past sixteen years. This is the result of a law to encourage such work by the payment of a bounty of $2.50 per acre. To secure this bounty a farmer must plant not less than one acre nor more than ten acres in each year. The Minnesota reports for last year show that 9,524 acres were planted with trees.

Sir Adolph Chapleau may settle in Montreal and become the editor of La Presse. The chair of an editor, therefore, ranks next to that of a governor. It is well that Sir Adolph has made this known so clearly. Some people have been acting as if they laboured under a different impression.

The walks should be shovelled clear every day, and the city officials should see that some folk are taxed for this clearing when it is not looked after by them. So far this season the work has been shamefully neglected. Who is at fault, Mr. Mayor?

Yesterday the police were notified by chief of police Adams, Napawee, to look out for a man named John Baker, who was wanted there for burglary. About midnight last night police sergeant Nesbitt came across the man and effected his arrest. Napawee police officials came down to-day and took Baker west.

Light and airy Court Costume DOVER, N. J., Dec. 29.—The wife of Thomas O. Bullock, a wealthy rice merchant of New York, was brought into court Wednesday afternoon clad only in her night dress and a blanket, which one of the constables who arrested the woman had thrown over her. In this scanty attire Mrs. Bullock had been brought from Arbor Vitae lodge, the beautiful home of the Bullocks, four miles from this city. She had twice resisted arrested on a charge of assault, brought by Dr. Croft C. Carroll, of Philadelphia. On two occasions when the constables tried to arrest Mrs. Bullock she hurried to her bedroom and removed nearly all her garments. She declared that she would never go to court unless dressed there from her apartments. When constables Blake and Blundell saw that she could be taken to court only by force they battered down the door of the room in which she had locked herself, and wrapping her in blankets carried her to court.

The True Remedy. William Duggan, St. Alban's street, Toronto, says: "We won't keep house without Ransom's HIVE SYRUP and TOLA for consumption, coughs, colds, croup or bronchial troubles. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Ransom's HIVE SYRUP and TOLA. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, etc. We would not be without it in the house." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as "just as good" as "Ransom's HIVE SYRUP and TOLA." They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures, and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. 25c. E. C. Mitchell.

PROFESSIONALISM.

At the city hall on Monday alderman Walkem, in his nomination speech, accused alderman Livingston, who preceded him, with terming him a "professional speaker," and retorted, in a sarcastic manner, that he would have to term the latter, who read his address on account of being unaccustomed to speak extemporaneously to audiences as large as that before, "a professional reader," and almost in the same breath pulled his written address out of his own pocket and proceeded to read it.

ALMOST A CANDIDATE, BUT — One of the arguments used in connection with the mayoralty campaign, and in behalf of Alderman Walkem, is that he is so popular that he was almost the candidate for the county, in the conservative interests, in four successive elections, but —

There are so many incidents of this kind that they have ceased to be remarkable. A good many men have been candidates in the county and in the city, for municipal and parliamentary elections, but — The "buts" settle the question every time. All men are popular with their friends, their personal following, "but" when they come to be measured by the public's yardstick, when in competition for office the occupancy of which is determined by the people, they so often fail to reach the object of their ambition. It may not be assumed that Alderman Walkem is not deemed worthy of honor by a good many, even worthy of the mayor's chair, but —

DOWN ON OFFICIALISM. One of the candidates for the mayoralty in Toronto, alderman Preston, was very severe on what he termed civic officialism. He intimated that officials, presumably attached to the works department, had offered to recommend public undertakings as a favour to certain men in certain localities. A charge so serious should not be allowed to go unchallenged. The administration of civic affairs is very largely in the hands of the officials, and alderman Preston's declaration comes with shocking effect so soon after the Telegram had vouched that the civic departments were under the direction of most competent heads. What does all this mean? Surely no official in Toronto or elsewhere can presume to expend public moneys without that discrimination which is expected from all who serve the people, and yet that is just what is insinuated. Another reason, if it were wanted, for the adoption of that administrative bureau to get into which one must have special qualifications, and above all else a keen sense of duty which no influence or consideration can affect. Such a bureau is to be found in many of the cities of Europe, and the sooner it is copied in the cities of Canada the better.

MCCOY CHALLENGES FITZ. The Conqueror of Creedon After The Conqueror of Corbett. NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Kid McCoy, conqueror of Creedon, has issued a challenge to Fitzsimmons to fight for the world's middleweight championship and $10,000 a side.

The condition that the men fight as middleweights seems to shut off the probability of a match being made, as Fitzsimmons will hardly agree to fight at 135 pounds, the limit to middleweights. McCoy in that event will claim the middleweight championship of the world.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Fitzsimmons said last night that he had received no challenge from McCoy. "I do not agree with McCoy that he is entitled to consideration before Corbett," Fitzsimmons said. "I am willing to fight him when he has done something to put himself in my class."

Martin Julian, the champion's manager, declared that he would not consider McCoy's challenge.

Martin Julian, on behalf of Robert Fitzsimmons, made the following signed statement: "Fitzsimmons will defend his right to the title of championship. Mrs. Fitzsimmons has released him from his promise of retirement." Referring to the conditions on which Fitzsimmons will fight Corbett and McCoy, Julian's statement says: "These conditions are as follows: Let Corbett beat a man like Maber or Coynski and establish his right as a member of Bob's class. Let McCoy beat his way up to a commanding position, and come along with a challenge afterwards, but first McCoy must fight a fit opponent at the middle weight limit, and not at catch weights."

These statements conclude as follows: "I am not going to allow Fitzsimmons to accept offers from inferior men. When the proper time comes Fitzsimmons will meet them all, one after the other in the same ring if needs be."

In default of payment of a fine of $50, he will serve a further period of six months, one year in all, practically.
