BALLOTS OF DESTINY

Two People Commit Suicide—The End of Two Foolish Persons.

New York, Oct. 4.-Last evening a Central Park policeman hearing pistol shots in quick succession, went toward the place whence the reports came to find a man and woman, both robed in black, lying upon a horse blanket. The woman was dead; the man was dying On the woman's breast, which she had bared for the bullet, lay a lock of her lover's hair, and upon his a dead leaf and a rose. Each wore a black glove, and between them lay a "bull-dog" pistol. Two bullet holes were in her breast at the heart, and her companion's aim had been as true. Between them was a box full of love letters. The man was George Bassendorf, the woman the wife of Dr. Edmund F. Koch, editor of the Jersey City Frei Presse and Sontags Gast. Mrs. Koch was 38 years of out. It was badly damaged. The fireage and mother of four children. Bassendorf was 22 years old. It was not long, however, before Dr. Koch noticed that young Bassendorf was paying too much attention to Mrs. Koch. The husband remonstrated with them and they promised to cease their intimacy. Each however, while confessing a mutual attachment, denied actual criminality. The intimacy was continued and Bassendorf at Koch's request secured another boarding house. A few days later Dr. Koch learned that Bassendorf frequently visited the house, and that his (Koch's) eldest son, a boy of 13 years, was used as a messenger for the exchange of letters. On Monday last Koch went to Newark, and when he returned his wife was missing. Bassendorf had called and urged Mrs. Koch to go with him. She denounced Bassendorf for having disgraced her, and when be threatened to kill himself told him to do so. Bassendorf kissed the children good-bye and left. Two hours later Mrs. Koch went out, telling the children she intended going to a dressmaker's. Her husband was unable to

The exhibit of Mr. George W. Robinson, of Kingston, was, as usual, the lead ing feature of the carriages and buggies department. For variety of design and fine workmanship the display of Mr. Robinson took the lead. It consisted of a two-horse pleasure carriage, market waggon, phaeton, two covered buggies, canopied phaeton, open buggy, pony cart, physician's cart, and a doubleseated village cart, the latter of which was greatly admired. He also showed a child's sleigh, a patent harrow and a little span of ponies. Mr. Robinson always exhibits in Napanee and does much to add to the attractiveness of the show. The running race was very exciting.

The entries were Wm. Caton's horse. Mr. Madden's brown horse, a bay owned by Mr. Brown, of Kingston, and a chestnut. In the first heat Caton's horse threw his driver, Geo. Fox,of Newburgh. whose head struck a waggon, tearing the scalp terribly. He was picked up insensible. After he was dismounted John Jaynes took his place, but he was also thrown, escaping without injury, however. While this was going on the rider of the Madden horse was thrown by the Kingston horse, colliding with him and injuring the former animal so that he could not appear in the other heats. A mustang was then substituted, and be narrowly escaped being ridden down by the Kingstonian. The prize was award ed the mustang. EARL OF SHAFTESBUNYS PUNERAL OBSEQUIRS.

POLITICAL EVENTS OF LAST WEEK SUMMARIZED FOR THE BENEFIT OF OUR READERS.

London, Oct. 8.—A fire broke out at o'clock this morning in Charter House buildings, a row of thirteen, and an eight storey warehouse at Aldergate St. The flames spread with such rapidity that in a few bours the buildings and contents were almost totally destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown. The row was mostly occupied by fancy goods' dealers, furriers, toy stores and printing offices; one bank also was in the buildings. This institution was the only one that escaped being burned completely men had great difficulty in getting streams from the engines to play on the upper stories. Many narrow escapes are recorded, owing to the desperate EARL OF SHAFTESBURY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of the Earl of Shaftesbury took place to-day. The religious services over the remains were conducted at Westminster Abbey. Hundreds of people stood outside the abbey in the drenching rain during the entire service, being unable to get into the edifice, so dense was the crowd which was gathered to pay their last mark of respect to the philantrophist. A large number of shoeblacks, with crape bands on their arms and many other boys who had been benefitted by the charitable acts of the departed Earl, stood in line with the elite in the abbey. The services were very impressive.

London, Oct. 7 .- At Newport this evening a mob attacked the Conservative newspaper office, breaking the win lows and otherwise wrecking the building before the disturbance was quelled The pelice were compelled to charge upon the rioters.

CONTESTING NEARLY EVERY SEAT.

Dublin, Oct. 9. - The Nationalists have decided to contest every Irish parliamentary seat except 12. The Roman Catholic bishops of Ireland have passed a resolution condemning the acts of violence and intimidation, and warning their flocks against indulging in illegal excesses. Such acts, they say are certain to bring the anger of God upon the evil-dcers and their families. besides disgracing the hish people in the eyes of the civilized world.

Limerick, Oct. 8.—The boycotting of Mrs. Mary McConnell bas ceased. Her tenants have paid their rents and are again on friendly terms with her.

London, Oct. 9.—Sir Richard Cross, Home Secretary, in a speech at Bruns lev last evening, said the government would bear with Ireland a little longer, and if the situation did not improve they would resort to stronger measures.

CHAMBERLAIN AND THE CLERGY. London, Oct. 8 -Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, the Radical leader, had quite an adventure at Chester this afternoon. He had just come from Hawarden Castle, where he had been visiting Mr. Gladstone, and was waiting on the railway platform at Chester for a train to Birmingham. On the same platform were about a hundred olergymen who had just left the Anti Disestablishment Conference in the Chester cathedral. The parsons glared at Mr. Chamberlain, reviling and jeering him as the arch enemy of the church. The Radical leader fixed his monocle in his eve, looked over the crowd, and laughed derisively. Almost everyone on the platform sympathized with the clergymen, and for a few minutes Mr. Chamberlain was | Mavety.

COMING ELECTORAL STRUGGLE.

CONFUSION BY THE NEW REGISTER SOMETHING ABOUT CANDIDATES.

The new register has caused the greatest confusion in Britain. For many seats there are two or three Liberal cardidates, each refusing to retire in favor of the other. In a number of cases, unless the chiefs of the party intervene with all their authority, Radical and Liberal seats will go to the Tories. On the whole the new candidates brought forward by the Reform Bill will be better speakers and less likely to adhere to party lmes. The Marquis of Lorne is the Liberal candidate for a Metropolitan division. Helen Taylor, Jno. Stuart Mill's daughter in-law, is determined to test whether women are eligible. Bradlaugh is promineut of course. There are two Hindoos, standing as advance Radicals and advocates to reform in Indian affairs. One of them, Lal Mohnor Ghose, is prospeakers in England. Two working men, without a penny of their owr, are put forward, supported by the Social Democratic Federation. One of these is quite likely to get a seat for Notting-reports highly favorable to Liberal prospects. Enormous Liberal victories may be confidently expected. The state of mind of the Conservatives may be described as confusion and dismay. Their reports are disheartening. They cannot get candidates for many seats.

The state of Ireland is growing most alarming, boycotting having assumed a more acute and aggressive form than ever before. The fact that the government cannot decide on a policy is shown Servia was made independent of Turkish rule by the Treaty of Berlin, signed July 13, 1878, as the result of war between Turkey and Russia. The Sultan's authority was thereby so weakened that he was obliged to give up all authority over the Servians. As events have shaped themselves Servia has gradually departed from the position of subserviency to Kussia, and is now tollowing a policy directly opposed to that of the Czar. This brings her into more intimate relations with Austria, which has an army of occupation in the neighboring states of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and as by the gradual dismemberment of Turkey, the interests of Russia and Austria become increasingly opposed to each other the peace of Europe is very seriously endangered. In the event of war Servia will take a prominent part in the hostilities.

BUSINESS AT A COMPLETE STANDSTILL-THE ORIGIN AND PROGRESS OF THE SCOURGE-SCENES INSIDE INFECTED HOUSES-THINGS MUCH WORSE THAN SOME SUPPOSE.

A special correspondent of the New York World has been making a thorough

inquiry into the state of Montreal. few extracts from the six column article which forms the produce of his task are herewith given: Small-pox has been epidemic among the French residents of Montreal at stated periods for many vears. In 1876 the total number of deaths reported by the board of health was 703. In 1877 there were 506 deaths from small-pox, in 1873 there were 728 deaths; in 1879, 472; in 1880 there were 150; in 1881 5 only, and in the three succeeding years no small pox deaths occurred. Seven hundred and twenty six deaths from small-pox in the course of one year in a civic population of 240,000 would, it might be supposed, create considerable attention on the part of the anthorities, but it is said that the disease attracted but scapt notice. There was an attempt made to vaccinate the 100,000 or more of the unvaccinated, but the latter assembled in groups and defied the city government. In the month of March, 1885, the city baying been free such a conflict of interests that the con- from the disease for three years, a conductor in the employ of the Pullman ed. EPIDEMIC AND ITS ORIGIN, according to the statements of the board of health and the intelligent citizens who describe it. It is not by any means unlikely that the case from Chicago had no more to do with the spidemic than had the plague now in Spain, but the health board enjoys the treasuring of the idea and the citizens place full faith in the belief. In the month of April, 1885, the pesthouse of St. Roch was opened, and there were six deaths. In May ten died of the disease; in June, thirteen; in July, forty-six, and in August there were 241 deaths. In the early summer the venerable bishop of Montreal, M. Borget, was gathered to his fathers, and his public funeral was attended by thousands of the faithful The contagion was disseminated among the immense concourse, and a marked increase in the death rate was at once apparent. Since September was usher ed in the death-rate has climbed to its present proportions, and the returns for the month will show a mortality of upward of 1,200 from the grissly de stroyer. The seat of the pestilence is in what is known as the east end. Montreal, like must other cities, has its court end and its poorer section. The English speaking population inhabit the western portion of the town, with the mountain for a background, while the French inhabitants almost exclusively reside in the immense district lying east of the big stone municipal palace on the Champs des Armes.

THE WORST SEAT OF INFECTION is bounded by Montcalm street on the west. St. Catharine street on the north, Champlain street on the east and Craig street on the south. Beaudry, Visitation, Plessis, Miggonne and St. Ignace Inverary -- Sermons, Feb. 23, by the streets are long thoroughfares, flanked by houses, mostly one story in height. The majority of the daily deaths occur on them and several of the short connecting alleyways crossing the above mentioned streets at right angles teem with the pestillence. Allard street between Visitation and Panet, is a hot bed of contagion and yet, when The World's special correspondent inspected every one of the humble dwellings, on not a single one did he see the warning Montcalm street, the front of every house on either side was examined, and only one placard was discovered. On Beaudry street not a vestige of a sign could be detected, and yet on the same day there were not less than fifty cases prevailing. On Visitation street there was one sign, on an alley leading from it there was another. On Plessis street there were two signs, on St. Ignace none, on Panet street two, and on Champlain street and streets leading therefrom there were four veltow and black warnings, and yet there had been upward of forty deaths on the abovementioned streets the day previous, and tered at the Grand Central, but were the total number of small-pex in the vi-

Is it any wonder that the epidemic is rapidly increasing in Montreal when such awful ignorance prevails? with fury and pointed towards the front entrance. On one street were found 40 cases, and there was probably more that the writer did not succeed in unearthing. One household had lost two children, the father was sick with the variols and two well children were sleeping in the same bed with him. A well child and a sick uncommon thing, and there are doubtless hundreds of well children sleeping in the same room with small-pox victims. What is to be the end of this nuparalleled state of affairs—unparalleled it would seem in a so-called civilized community-no one appears to be able to decide. Cold weather is approaching and as the small-pox increases in virulence with the cold, unless the vaccination is carried on with great rapidity the epidemic is bound to continue to spread Business at a comparative standstill the charges against the system of treating smallpox patients in the hospitals. They state that they were put in beas which had been occurred by other patients that the sheets had not been changed; that some of the poor creatures in the ward in which they were had disease very bad; that the smell was dreadful; that the attendants bade them good night when they were most needed that the first night Miss Bush was in the hospital she was given a bed without bedclothes, was forced to lie there all night as she came into the building that a little girl brought some food to them, carrying the bread in her bare hands, on which marks of smallpox were still fresh: that three patients changed their own clothes as long as they were able, and when they were not those patients who could go about did it fer them; that they were often ill during the night and wanted attendance when there were no nurses about; that during the night some patients would keep knocking against the wall or floor, but no one went near them to see what was wanted, and no assistance was given to those who were unable to get up; that the patients had sometimes to wait for hours for a drink, and those whose eyes were closed with the disease sometimes begged for a long time for a lotion that was used to wash them before they would get it : that the dirt, filth and vile smells were terrible; that as soon as the breath was out of a patient's body men came and sewed it up in a sheet, and, instead of lifting it on a stretcher, let it fall to the floor with a thud that startled everyone in the ward. These charges are being investigated to-day. Officials of the hospital deny the truth of them, and Dr. Nolan has been asked to prepare an official statement for the medi-

UPROAK AT HARVARD.

HE SPHOMORES INVADE A FRESHMEN MEET-

ING-A DISTURBANCE. Boston, Oct. 9.-A regular rush, a thing which has not happened at Harvard for many years, occurred to night. A meeting of freshmen was held in Boylston Hall to elect class officers. A large number of sophomores attended to enjoy the fun. An uproar was caused by the nomination of a very small sophomore for the captaincy of the freshmen crew. For nearly an hour disorder prevailed, the upper classmen nominating candidates and doing their best to break the meeting up. Finally the freshmen and upper class men came to blows. I'he benches were overturned and broken to pieces and a large number of men were crowded into one corner of the room and piled up on the piano. After the disturbance was quelled the meeting was brought to a close. The meeting adjourned but the disturbance had only begun. In the yard sophomores collected and the reception of freshmen was a warm one. A rush followed, and for a few moments two or three hundred men formed a struggling mass of humanity. Coats and cravats were torn off and hats trampled under foot, while everybody was yelling for '88 or '89. The crowd rapidly increased and soon six or eight hundred students assembled. The dignified seniors and law men stood apart and frowned upon the disgraceful scene, secretly enjoying it. however.
