LOVE EXTRAORDINARY.

A PRIEST BECOMES THE OBJECT OF A WOMAN'S INFATUATION.

No encouragement offered by the Clergyman—He Leaves His Parish on Her Account—Scene in Church When He Bids His People Farewell.

Dr. Schloesser entered the Cleveland diocese about fourteen years ago, and was immediately assigned to St. Joseph's congregation. He was a graduate of the first schools of Germany, a man of engaging manners, of great eloquence and very fine looking. He organized the congregation, and in a few years had built one of the finest church edifices in the city. About a year ago the young and handsome wife of a member of his congregation began to visit him at his study. Her visits were the result, as she claimed, of a deep religious sensibility. Her visits became so frequent that other members of the congregation noticed them, and in a delicate manner as possible the priest discouraged them. This appeared only to increase her infatuation, and in many ways she showed her esteem and affection. Her conduct at last became so conspicuous as to meet the entire disapprobation of her husband. This served to increase the flame, and it soon became the common gossip of all the members of the congregation that she was desperately in love with the priest. Dr. Schloesser, as a last resort, laid the whole matter before the husband, and asked his consent in protecting the reputation of his wife. It was to no purpose, however, and with a mind fully alive to the duties of his position; he determined to leave his congregation. After a conference with Bishop Gilmour it was considered advisable for him to leave the state, and one of the finest churches in Chicago opened its doors to him. He had spoken to but few intimate friends and members of the congregation of his having been transferred, and a few Sundays ago, just prior to his departure, he made his farewell address. With deep emotion he reviewed the history of his fourteen years of priestly work among them, and spoke with tenderness of the faith that the congregation had always had in his work and character. When at the close of his address he had asked and already been assigned to a new field of labor, and that it was the last sermon that would ever be preached by him there, the congregation was suddenly startled by a piercing scream. It came from the unfortunate woman who so deeply loved him. She had taken a seat near the altar, and when she heard the announcement that he was to leave she uttered a shriek and fell forward upon the floor. Several members of the congregation rushed at once to her aid, and she was conveyed to an adjoining room and a physician summoned. When he arrived she had revived, but, to the consternation of her husband and friends, it was discovered that she had lost her reason. She was immediately taken to her home, and every attention possible paid her, but she grew worse day by day until a few days ago, when she became so violent that it was found necessary to send her to the asylum at Newburg. The husband is almost prostrated by grief. He had been married but a few years, and his home was an exceptionally bright and happy one. It is thought that by careful nursing the woman's reason can be restored.

BUSHING UP OF A SCANDAL.

Ottawa Society Deprived of What Seems to be a Outhouse Moral of Gossip.

The Toronto Globe correspondent telegraphs from Ottawa: "The Bell vs. Colby slander has been settled out of courts, Mr. Colby paying damages and costs, and giving a letter of apology rather than allow the evidence in the case to be taken." And the New York Herald correspondent at the capital gives these particulars: "Ottawa society has been deprived of the details of a first class scandal, which was to have been ventilated at the Assize Court today by the settlement of the case outside the court room. The suit in question was brought by R. B. Bell, member of the Civil Service, against Mr. Colby, member of parliament, who was charged with having used plaintiff's premises for immoral purposes and with having slandered plaintiff's wife. Hon. John Carling, Postmaster-General, was among the witnesses who were to have given evidence on plaintiff's behalf, as well as many others holding high political and social positions. This entire episode is of great interest to the case. A young and charming grass widow was a co-respondent in the suit. Sometime since although she had been separated from her husband for over a year, in order to quiet matters, Mr. Colby, who is an influential politician and prospective Minister of the Crown, persuaded the husband to return to his wife, at the same time securing him a good government position. The case was settled today by Mr. Colby paying all costs as well as heavy damages, the amount of which he refuses to state. The affair has caused a great sensation, and it is not improbable that Lord Lansdowne may strike the name of the parties to the scandal from the royal list of those who are to be admitted to the social gatherings at Government House.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY.

PORT HOPE, Nov. 10.—A summons was issued today by the Police Magistrate of this town against Col. J. Vance Gravelly, Mayor of Cobourg, for perjury in connection with the late Dominion election in this riding. Col. Gravelly is one of the shining Tylor lights of the neighboring county, and it is alleged in the information that he took the oath of ownership to certain property which he had no claim on at the date specified in the oath. The preliminary examination will take place here next Monday.

Two young men from the State of Vermont travelled over 450 miles to attend the Dominion Business College, Kingston. This is sufficient proof that this institution stands pre-eminent as a business training school.

HOT PRESS OPINIONS.

How Riel's Case is Regarded by the French Press—Strong Sentiments.

La Patrie scouts the idea that the French-Canadians are represented in the Dominion Cabinet, so far as Riel is concerned, and says those of the French race there are under the thumb of the Orangemen, who have sworn the destruction of Riel. It singles out Sir Hector Langevin, the first "Knight of Rivers" he said that in Canada we do not hang lunatics. Has he had a promise from Sir John to "what effect? Mr. Chaplain, the Canadian Gambetta, organized a movement in Paris to save Riel, but he left Mr. J. Tasse in his place at Paris, and that person had done all in his power, through the columns of L'Univers and the Gaulois, to destroy Riel in the opinion of the French public by calling him a scoundrel and a Chiniquy. The third, and last, of this trio is Sir Adolphe Caron. He is not worth mentioning. The stain of blood bears so heavy on him that we leave him to his remorse and shame. These men have been traitors to our traditions, laws, language and religion. They have sold their brother. It is for the public to judge.

La Presse thinks that if the Commission appointed by the Government to examine into the sanity of Riel find that he is insane the execution of the sentence should be indefinitely postponed. The medical men should be the best judges to fix the date of commutation. If after that Riel is liberated he will always live under the death sentence which the authorities could put into execution without further procedure. The sword of Damocles would be sufficient to preserve the peace of the Northwest in so far as Riel would be responsible.

La Presse says that if Riel, instead of being hanged and thereby made a martyr of, was simply sent to a penitentiary or an asylum, the Metis, after a little reflection, would soon see how blind they have been and to regret their conduct.

Elginburg Rocks.

Mr. Blakely, of Sydenham, occupied the pulpit last Sunday morning. He preached a very appropriate sermon from "Who is on the Lord's side." Rev. G. A. COUNT HERBERT BISMARCK.

ARISING GERMAN STATESMAN, AND ONLY SECOND TO HIS FATHER IN OFFICE.

Additional to the incalculable advantages which the services of Prince Bismarck have gained for his country in his office as Hereditary Prince of the Empire, he is a perpetual "When the veteran had sleep in his grave, in all probability the name of Bismarck will lead among the advisers of the potentate who shall then hold rule over the mighty German Empire.

Prince Otto von Bismarck Schomberg, Chancellor of the German Empire, has two sons, Herbert and William. The elder, Herbert, though young in years is inferior only to his father in official rank, having assumed the Ministry for Foreign Affairs, as successor to Count von Hatzfeldt-Wilhelmsburg who takes the position of German Ambassador in England. In Germany the importance of the office of Ministry for Foreign Affairs is one of the Imperial authorities of Secretaries of State. These are seen in number. They do not form a Ministry of Cabinet, but act independently of each other under the general supervision of the Chancellor.

The pride and glory of Germany has been her foreign policy as developed under the mastery hand of Bismarck. Who can be so apt a pupil and can promise as favorably the future of Germany as he, the young statesman who has been promoted to be the second in command of the empire.
As the ruler cannot fail to receive Count Herbert Bismarck's fatherly regard and interest, it is a matter of course that the younger man's conduct of what he may and probably will become in the pursuit of statesmanship.
He was born in the city of Berlin as early as December 27, 1839. I will now for the first time, namely, that of representative of the German empire in Holland. About a year ago he was employed by his Government to negotiate with that of the United Kingdom in reference to the colonization of Angola Province, Africa, by Germany, and acquitted himself in the matter with the ability expected to be shown by his father's son.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Trenton, Oct. 7.—Last night a wood train coming up from Picton on the Central Ontario Railway, ran into a gravel train, containing a number of flat cars, three of which attempted to jump after the engine struck the van. One of them fell across the rail and the engine of the wood train passing over him, severed both his legs. He is now lying in a box car near the station, and it is not thought that he can possibly recover. The other two who jumped were severely cut about their heads and faces, but are doing well. It is said that the accident was caused by the crew of the gravel train not giving the proper signal to the engineer of the wood train, which was following closely. The night, however, was foggy, and it is probable that even if the signal had been given it could not have been seen.

FAREWELL REMEMBRANCES.

Presentations to Rev. Mr. Allen and His Wit—Expressions of Regard.

On Monday evening, Nov. 2nd, a large number of the young people of the Presbyterian congregation, Sunbury, assembled at the manse to show their good will towards Mr. and Mrs. Allen, who have been labouring in this field during the past summer. In the course of the evening the members of Mrs. Allen's Sabbath School class presented her with a large and handsome album and the following address:

"Dear Teacher,—The undersigned members of your Sabbath School class in the Presbyterian Church, Sunbury, deeply regret your departure from among us, and your acceptance of the accompanying memorial in testimony of our affection and respect for you. It is presented by your class as a slight token of the very high esteem in which you are held by your pupils as a Christian lady and an earnest and zealous teacher. Deeply regretting that our gratitude must be expressed in this way, we shall lovingly remember our association in the past and hope always to be remembered with pleasure by you.—Very respectfully yours,

Mary McWaters, Marion Leonard, Mary J. George, Flora McNeely, Bella Greenleaf, Ella Orr, Mary E. Cochrane, Maggie Gordon, Mary Campbell, Bertha Edwards, Fannie Smith and Mary Toland."

The young people of the congregation presented to Mr. Allen five volumes of recent theological works by noted writers and an address, thus:

"Dear Sir,—On the eve of your departure from among us the members of your bible class, and also other young people in your congregation, desire to testify their appreciation of your services while among us. You have laboured with zeal and fidelity to spread the true spirit of religion among us, and have been aided in successfully performing this blessed work by the sincere prayer of your own character. Although your term of office has been only a few months we believe that the seed sown in that short time will bear rich fruit for many years. We desire long life and happiness to your excellent wife and yourself. Pray accept with this address the small testimonial accompanying it.

Colin Crowe, in behalf of the young people of the Sunbury Presbyterian congregation.
Mr. Allan, on behalf of Mrs. Allen and himself, heartily thanked the friends in touching terms for these tokens of respect and kind wishes. As neither Mrs. nor Mr. Allan know anything concerning the intentions of the young people they received a genuine surprise, one which they will not soon forget. After having spent a very pleasant evening together the gathering broke up, mutual good wishes being expressed for each other's welfare.

ACCIDENT ON THE WEST SHORE.

A Passenger Train Derailed—A Number said to be Killed and Wounded.

Utica, N.Y., Nov. 9.—The train, No. 57, west bound, Chicago and St. Louis, limited, was derailed today near Little Falls, Railroad people are very reticent and particulars are hard to be obtained.
Later—the engine passed over the breach safely, but the tender broke loose and ran off the track with the engine train. The tender was wedged into the side of the first sleeper. Mr. C. R. Pratt, of Rochester, a passenger, in this sleeper, was killed. Her husband was slightly injured. Judge Green, of Springfield, Ill.; J. W. Weston, of this city; Miss Estelle Clark Vaughan, of Worcester, Mass.; E. Dacks, of this city, are slightly injured. One of the porters in the Pullman car was badly injured, and another slightly.
Mrs. Pratt was almost instantly killed. It was necessary to cut out the side of the car to release her. The last moments of her life she occupied in talking with her husband. She was 35 years of age. The sleeper which Mrs. Pratt occupied is a total wreck. The other coaches and sleepers are badly smashed and piled on top of each other. Mr. Pratt is a resident of Rochester, N.Y., and a contractor. He was last week re-elected a member of the Assembly.

Mr. Pratt says that when the accident occurred they were asleep. He awoke to find himself fast between the seat and car sill. His wife spoke in a feeble voice, saying she could not move, that she was suffering, and soon afterwards bade him good-bye. It was nearly two hours before they were removed, and then Mrs. Pratt was dead.

A BOARD OF CLAIMS.

The board of medical men appointed to examine the wounded in "A" Battery, who received their injuries during the North West rebellion, met today at the barracks. The board is composed of Dr. Fowler, president, and Drs. Tolson, of Stirling, and Wilson, of Belleville. They did not succeed in completing their labors, and will meet again to-day. Ten soldiers whom they examined were: Trumpeter Wilson, who lost one of his arms at Fish Creek; Sergt. Mawhinney, shot through the arm and hand at Fish Creek; Pte. Asseline, shot through the left shoulder; Pte. Fairbanks, shot through the leg at Batocoe; Pte. Emory, wounded in the right thigh at Fish Creek; Pte. Stout, run over by gun carriage at Batocoe, and now in the hospital. The latter will be examined by the board to-day. Regarding Asseline, Dr. Fowler says the ball is in his shoulder yet. When the board has completed the inspection it will report to a board of military officers the nature of the wounds received by the men, and the second board will fix the amount of compensation each man shall receive.
Lt.-Col. Villiers, D.A.G., Major King and Capt. Galway have been appointed a court to fix the compensation of the men wounded in the North-West rebellion, and whose claims were properly considered by the Medical Board. This court meets at Tete du Pont Barracks on Friday at 10 o'clock.
