STICK TO THE FARM.

Many of the unemployed in cities this winter have within a few years migrated from the country, and were idle even in summer when farmers unsuccessifully held out to them high wages and almost loving embraces when in need of harvest helpers. It is obvious that cities are pleasant retreats for farmers who have sufficient money to retire upon and end their days in comfort, but they have but a precarious existence for the laborer, and even for the mechanic. More people would do well to stick to the farm yet a while. There is not a multiplicity of soft snaps in town.

HOW THEY FELT.

It is clear that the conservative cabinet were aware of the critical illness of Sir John Thompson. Sir C. H. Tupper has declared that he knew the premier was undertaking a doubtful journey to Europe and Hon. J. C. Patterson admits that a consultation of doctors had given a probable lease of life of only nine months. Sir John did not desire to retire because of party jeopardy; his colleagues accepted the sacrifice of retention of office and it is clear were bent on accentuating it by bringing on the elections early in order that the services of the dying statesman could be secured. Liberals were not his worst friends by any means.

BEST THING TO DO.

F. W. Gleh, exi-M P., now on the New York "Advertiser," says a resolution will shorely be moved in the houses of 'congress at Washington "inviting the Canadian people to cast in their lot with their own comment and assure them that they shall have all the continent can give them We will respect their freedom o action, and welcome them, when they desire it, into an equal and honorable union " Mr. Glen asks Canadian journalists for their opinion. Here's ours : Mr. Glen and the members of the house of congress can call a halt for Canada is British to the core and will so remain. The United States had better repoin England and then Canada will welcome her to all its liberties.

CREATING NATIONALITY.

The country at large will approve of the erection of historical monuments at Lundy's Lane, Crysler's Farm and Chateauguay Canadians are not an aggressive or a boastrul people and like all colonists they lack a national sentiment. A visible record of the heroic deeds of their fathers and grandfathers may help to create nationality, and the memorials will serve that other good purpose of reminding people of the United States, who boast so unceasingly or their defeat of the Bri ish, that whe never they crossed into Canada these same British troops, aided by anadian volunteers, whipped them so soundly that they did not look clo ely into the manner of going, but went. Canadians want fair play in his-

TOO LOP-SIDED.

The "Farmers' Sin" produces a comparison of bank stock quotations and complains that this little political world of Canada is altogether lop-sided, since farm. values and farmers' returns are

If the farmers of Canada had done their duty by taking an interest in legislation bank managers might not have had such sweeping influence and the country would have been richer and healthier in many ways. Banks do not vote tory or grit because their fathers and grandtathers did, irrespective of questions of honest and patriotic administration, and election funds calculated at $1 per head may not sway potent influence in bank parlors. But the farmers now have the organization, · boest of independence and intelligent awakening, and we will soon all know how they act.

A NOBLE WOMAN

The touching sight of the queen of a great realm being wheeled in a chair to the side of a dead premier that she might personally lay a wreath of flowers upon his breast has been supplemented by the womanly, thoughtful act of sending for the daughter of the late Sir John Thompson and personally embracing her that she might the more affectionately and more tenderly express her sympathy. The action was more than regal; the woman surpassed the queen. It is a fitting sequence to a tragic and touching event. The Ottawa "Free Press" pictures the scenes at Windsor as sadly romantic. The aged sovereign, in the famous castle that has witnessed every phase of Engish history from the time of the Norman conquest, presides at the swearing in of her youngest councillor. In that presence chamber for centuries have paced the kings and the great men of England. Royal houses have changed, successions have altered but the cold and massive castle has outlived them all. Before Columbus started for America, and the very existence of this continent was, to the Euglishman an uncertainty, councillors and knights of the garter were there sworn in; held their solemn | won every hand. services in St. George's chapel and their revels in St. George's ball. There comes. to the queen to day one of her ministers of state ire in this same continent. The greater England has succeeded to the esser and the venerable monarch places had on the all of her closest advisers. Someteely is the ink of his signature on the Assure roll of illistrous and noble hameddy, when the news of death is But the other day the

of he fir t privy council was carried to his grave. The youngest does not live half an hour to give the crown the value of his great ability. It is not difficult to understand how the queen was "deeply shocked." But then shone out the tender feelings of the woman, the mother, and, above all, the widow. The message to the bereaved in Canada told the tale of sympathy for a sister who was suffering the full force of a blow, the bitterness of which none knew better than the queen herself. The telegram sent to Canada breathes the sentiment penned by the laureate, as applicable to the queen herself in her early widowhood:

May all love: His love, unseen but felt, o'er shadow thee, Till God's love set thee at his side again.

KINDLINESS INDEED. The liberals of the country must be proud of the way their leaders and the press in sympathy with the party have borne themselves in the sad circumstance of the abrupt removal of the premier. Naught but kindness and generous consideration of Sir John's talents and virtues has appeared, the avowals being as frank as they were sincere. It is customary to speak of Sir Richard Cartwright as the concentrated essence of unrelenting party feeling, and yet at this time we find this generous tribute coming spontaneously in a letter to Sir Francis Smith, accompanying a cheque for $100:

"I have been informed by a mutual friend that you have expressed a desire to know whether I would support a proposal to make some suitable provision at the public expense for the wife and family of Sir John Thompson. I have no hesitation in saying that I will support and justify such a grant. You will understand, of course, that I speak for myself only, but I may add that, in my judgment, other considerations apart, it is a matter of sound policy on the part of the people of Crnada not to allow the widow and orphans of a distinguished public servant to be reduced penury as the result of the awfully sudden catastrophe which has so unexpect edly deprived them of their natural protector. I am certain that even the most rigid economist will admit that in such a case Canada is only -discharging a just debt. I regret exceedingly to learn that Sir John Thompson has left his family but slenderly provided for, and as I observe that a public subscription has been set on foot for their benefit I will be obliged if you will hand the the enclosed to the treasurer of the fund."

It is but a few days since that a biography of Sir John Macdonald appeared from a writer chosen by his most intimate connections. In that biography the memory of Sir George Brsum umo shabbily treated. We submit the conjunction to these many among a great party who are fond of declaring that no grit can be a gentleman.

KINGSTON IS MEMBERLESS.

It looked on Tuesday as if the conservative member-elect for Ringston had the proverbial nine lives like the traditional cat. Four charges had been heard; the narrowest of escapes had occurred on two and two were quite critical enough to be reserved for judgment, though the question of agency was not clear enough to satisfy even the prosecuting counsel. But the good fortune that seemed to surround the case was penetrated when Wm. Langdon entered the box and reluctantly confessed that while a certified agent of Dr. Smythe he had given $6 for a voter Thereupon counsel admitted bribery by agent;, as they should have done many days ere the case reached court. The charges bearing on Laird, Langdon, Baird, Elder and several others appeared two weeks since in the particulars and even if prior examination had bee taken place by friendly counsel, they were then in a position to glean that damaging facts regarding these persons acts would be disclosed. The illegal acts were well known to the liberal committee and their counsel for months, and only the fringe of the suspected bribery has been touched. They must have been patent to the conservative solicitors, and the prolonging of the case can be excused only en the ground that it was deemed best to show a fighting front to satisfy parcy friends throughout the province. Apart from the cost to persons not too well able to afford it the examples given of bribery, of corrupt voting by men of position and intelligence, and of evasion and worse in the box are not edifying spectacles. The useless case has been a positive injury to public morals, bad even though they were already in election matters in this unfortunate battle ground of politics.

Of the result there can but be one opinion. The liberals charged that the election was won in the late hours of the day by corrupt use of means, and they have been sustained. The right of appeal for a fair verdict of the people has been upheld, and a purer election will be the result next month, and this means beyond a shadow of doubt the return of Hon. William Harty, the best latter day friend Kingston has had the good fortupe to possess. The result of the trial is not a subject of boastfulness as regards Dr. Smythe personally for he is held in high esteem, and his plucky fight upon an almost horeless candidature which other more grasping party leaders disdained, has on for him no little admiration. Injudicious friends have, however, done him injury by persistent tampering with the liberal petitioners and the "Empire" by continual harping on Mr. Harty's defeat has given fresh vim to the case now ended in the loss of his seat. The public have only good words to speak of the handling of the case exceptionally well on both sides. While fought with legal skill and persistency there was throughout a kindly, courteous bearing and generous opposition. The friendliness between candidates and leaders in the campaign of June was echoed in court and may, it is trusted, be preserved in the coming election.

Hon. William Harty returned to Torento to-day to close up unfinished busihess at his department and has assured his liberal friends that he will return next week to be with them heart and hand in the campaign. That he will have their strongest support is assured

CURRENT TALK.

Sir Donald Smith is to be made a peer of the realm. This is a greater distinction than Sir John Macdonald once accorded him.

The population of London is said to be 5,948,300, and increasing at the rate of 105,000 a year. The city, therefore, has a population of about a million and a half more than Scotland, and a million more than Ireland.

Sir John Thompson used to be a newspaper reporter, and for many years Mackenzie Bowell edited and owned the Belleville "Intelligencer." The neaspaper offices seem to be a fine training school for bright public men, adds the Hamilton "Herald."

Rev. Mr. Mullally has become famous by causing a resolution expressing formal approval of Dr. Parkhurst's work as a reformer to be tabled by the New York presbytery. The wicked journals conclude, from the clergyman's name, that he 'is an l of a man.

The Bank of Montreal and two Halifax banks have gone to the rescue of St John's, Nfld., financially. Canada's trade with Newfoundland is $3,000.000 per year, and a kindly help at this critical time may bear ripe fruit in good season. It is more than suspected that the colony this very minute would not be disinclined to confederation.

The Ohio grand jury has held that the sending of scriptural quotations through the mails on the outside of envelopes or post cards is libellous. The particular quotations were : "Owe no man anything," "Let us walk honestly," and "Many years shalt thou be troubled." They were intended to stir up delinquent debtors.

The Stratford "Beacon" reads the Perth county council a lesson on honesty and economy. Men are so much in favor of economy and reform should practice what they preach. The council sat only two hours in three days; at a cost for members' affowance alone of $258, and wound up with an extra session of seventeen minutes at a cost of $84. The patrons are advised to look after the councils as well as the legislatures.

The Roman Catholic hospitals in Kingston. Hamilton and London have ceen enlarged and extended in operations this year. The general hospitals are also brushing cobwebs off their board rooms. Soon the benevolent service for the sick in Canadian cities will be at the very height of efficiency and beneficence. But the institutions are multiplying and government will soon be forced to reduce the grants. Municipal councils will have to take up the loosened burden.

The people of the United States are laughing over President Cleveland's reply on being asked for aid to provide a testimonial for Dr. Parkhurst. He wrote: "The man whom you propose to honor is a grand citizen and deserves all his fellow townsmen can do for him." That sounds as much as to say, remarks an exchange: "Dr. Parkhurst is a good fellow, and I am willing that all the rest of you should give all you please toward giving him a suitable testimonial.' Artemus Ward showed his love for the union by offering all his wife's relations to the cause.

South Leeds Sayings.

SOUTH LEEDS, Dec. 18 .- The river is as clear of ice as in July. Some farmers are ploughing yet. Alex. Sliter spent a few days in Brockville last week as a juryman. A dance at D. Greenizen's, on Friday evening, was well attended by town people. Miss Janet Little is home for the winter from Poole's Resort. We are pleased to see Mrs. W. H. Clark in our midst again. R. Little had his foot severely injured by a log chain while drawing wood. Mrs. Henry is home after spending a few weeks in Gananoque. Albert Cowan was severely bitten on the hand by a pig. School closes on Friday next. Our present teacher, Miss Susan Rogers, has secured a school in the vicinity of Kingston. Her departure is very much regretted. Mrs. J. B. Cowan spent a few weeks visiting at Weedburn.

All the patrons from here attended E. W. Jackson's cheese meeting on Wednesday evening last. Miss C. Lindsay, seriously ill for a while, is slowly recovering. Thomas Leakie has moved to Gananoque for the winter. Miss J. Little is convalescent. While a load were on their way to the revival services at Wesley the horses became unmanageable and the driver had to turn them into the fence to stop them. No serious damage was done except a severe fright to some of the ladies. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Horning spent Sunday at Maple Grove, Mrs. J. B. Cowan, sr., is reported very low. Mrs. D. Greenizen's son-in-law, J. Hooper, has met with good success in the old country. Mr. and Mrs. T. Little visited Wilstead last week. Visitors: Mrs. 6. Root and W. S. Lloyd, Gananoque, at Elijah Jackson's; Mrs. J. Lloyd, at A Sliter's.

Plevna Pointers.

PLEVNA, Dec. 14.-There is not much prospect of much winter here. Our good sleighing of last week is nearly all gone. The cheese factory business is prospering under the able management of Messrs. Dawson & Wood, ho are preparing to erect factories at k. " watchan, Vennachar and Ardoch and romise to have these three with the Plevna factory running by May 1st. It is rumored that an opposition factory is to be built at Ardock, but there seems to be no ground for such stories at present. Miss Laura Kring, daughter of Leonard Kring, was married to C. Williams, of Marlbank, by the Rev. E. M. Rowland. The bride's presents were numerous and handsome. The happy couple left for their home at Marlbank. G. W. Dawson, M.P., and Mr. Rutledge, grand organizer, Orange lodge, left for the north county and succeeded in organizing a lodge at Matawatchan. Miss Sarah Card has returned home after a long and pleasant holiday visiting friends in the vicinity of Tamworth. The Card Bros. and Frank Gore are busy manufacturing timber for cheese vats and presses. A Thompson's shooting match was well attended and some fine shooting done.

Victoria Volleys.

VICTORIA, Dec. 17.—Canada Hay Co. at W. H. Smith's pressing hay. Mr. did some repairing on the school house on Saturday last. Mr. and Mrs. F. Snider, Millhaven, spent Sunday at his father's, C. Snider. Mrs. J. H. Milligan, Wilhur, spent Saturday and Sunday at her father's, W. H. Smith. William Tracy. Kingston, returned home on Saturday,

David Gibson, of this city, worked in Belleville as a foreman in a printing office while Mackenzie Bowell was a journeyman compositor in another office. Mr. Gibson always found the premier a good friend and a lively companion, fond of a joke, and could tell one with as much brillancy as the late Sir John Macdonald.

At Littletown, Iowa, two children skated through the ice on a mill pond. A number of people went out to see the hole, and the ice surface giving way five more persons were drowned. It is not well for more than twenty people at once, to endeavor to gratify curiosity about holes in ice. A hole in ice is different from a street fight.

Queen's college alma mater society gave the annual "conversazione" on Friday evening last and it was the best managed affair in its long history. The concert programme included songs by Mr. Warrington, of Toronto. There were also bands for dancing upstairs and for promenades down stairs. A fine supper was served, and in every way the hospitality of the students was extended.

The electors of the townships should insist upon a printed treasurer's state ment being laid before them before nomination day as provided by law. This is the only opportunity many electors have of testing and criticizing expenditures, as the auditors' report in February are not always published and laid before the people. Township officers must present the statement under the law.

Arden Announcements.

ARDEN, Dec. 18 .- After a week's soft weather it turned colder last night; the snow has gone and the roads are very rough. On Tuesday last the funeral of the late Mrs. J. W. Lyman took place at the Methodist church, her death having occurred on the previous Saturday. There was a large attendance, the church being crowded. Rev. Z. Moran preached an excellent sermon from the text, "Let me die the death of the righteous." In conclusion he spoke feelingly of the happy death of the deceased, who was greatly respected by all who knew her. She leaves a husband and one daughter to mourn her loss. The body was taken to Tamworth and placed in the vault. The new wing to the Arden school is nearly finished. The belfry will be placed on the building to-morrow. The trustees have engaged Blanche Mills as principal, and Victoria Orborne as assistant teacher.

The council met yesterday to wind up the business of the year. Everything seems quiet, and not much talk of changes. There is a young son and heir at the house of Peter Brown, station agent. Frank and Jacob Williams have returned from the lumber woods. Edward Deline is also back from Cummings' shanty to spend Christmas. Fred. C. Williams is home from the collegiate at Kingston, having obtained a certificate; he is engaged to teach a school at Oso Station. On account of the inability of Mrs. Price to attend, the Arden school has been closed for some time.

An entertainment took place last evening at the new school house. No. 10 section, north of Cross Lake. J. W. Campsall was chairman; a good many turned out. Ola Price is the teacher; the building has been put up, mainly through the efforts of Thomas Youmans. When the school was opened not one of the children knew a letter. The section has a good school house and the children are doing well.

Guilty Of Petit Larceny.

In the court of sessions at Watertown, N.Y., Duane Shipman, Rockport, came up for trial on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. It is alleged that he appropriated to his own use several sheep belonging to Charles G. Emory from his farm on Robin Island and afterwards killed and sold them. Several witnesses were called. In order to conand Mrs. Fred. Snider, Farmers' Friend- stitute grand larceny, goods to the value cheese factory, are stopping at her of $25 must be taken. Shipman was acmother's, Mrs. R. Frink. S. H. Snider cused of taking four sheep, and it was shown that they were not worth $20. The jury, therefore, brought in a verdict of petit larceny. Shipman is a son of Charles Shipman, now in Kingston penitentiary for killing John Fitzsimmons at Rockport last year.

Once Turned Legs; Now Turns Heads.

Toronto Empire. It is not generally known that Hon. Mackenzie's Bowell's father kept a furniture establishment, and many a day in his early youth has he turned legs or polished table tops; so that his return to cabinet making will come natural to him.

How They Will Be Remembered.

Toronto Mail. Sir John Thompson and Mr. Mackenzie will go down in history together as protectors of the public purse. Mr. Mackenzie wrote that he was like a soldier on duty guarding the treasury against the assaults of pretended friends. The late premier, poor himself as a result of his public services, stcod as an enemy of those who seized opportunities to acquire riches at the public cost.

Salaries at Ottawa.

Toronto Star. Canada paid Sir John Thompson $8,000 a year, and he slaved night and day in the service of the country.

Easier To Deal With By'mby,

Toronto News. In both South Africa and Australia local federation is the question of the hour, and it will not be long until the example of Canada is followed in these two distant parts of the empire. Why He Won't Do.

Hamilton Frerald, No Grit. Some of the newspapers have been nominating Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, for the premiership, but those who know the esteem in which young Mr. Tupper is held by his colleagues at Ottawa, will not regard his chances with much favor. The young fellow is clever, but he is troubled with a swelled head, to use a vulgar phrase, and his colleagues would not put up with his bumptiousness for a week. A Happy Gathering.

Donaldson's Mills, Dec. 17 .- A grand concert and Christmas tree was given at Wilbur school, Friday evening. A very lengthy programme was prepared and well carried out. The able manner in which the pupils played their part reflected credit on their teacher, Miss Hanson, and their appreciation of her was made apparent by the numerous valuable presents she received. The chair was ably filled by S. Donaldson, and the music furnished by the Burnham band was very fine. The school room was packed to the door and many had to stand up as there was not room for all to be seated. The tree was filled with valuable presents and the deserving children were not forgotten.

The remains of the late William Martin, killed at the mines at Sudbury, were interred at McDonald's Corners on Friday. He was formerly a resident of Wilbur. Miss Chappel has left our midst and has gone to sing in the choir at Canonto. Mr. Pretty, Queen's, preached here on Sunday. Miss Annie Allan, Mississippi, is visiting friends here. Mrs. S. Donaldson has returned from Perth. Several weddings right on; the bells are ringing.

Flinton Paragraphs.

FLINTON, Dec. 17 .- The weather is more like spring than winter; no sleighing. There is some talk of a lively time at the municipal election. There may be a triangular fight for the reeveship and general opposition to the old council. The financial state of the township stands: Assets, $1,731,03; liabilities, $1,639.59; excess of assets over liabilities, $91.44. There are several ratepayers who wish there was a lodge of Patrons of Industry here so they could join. Hawley Stone is doing a rushing business at Matthews' old stand, Flinton. Claude Jerome has returned after spending the summer at Wolfe Island.
