DEATH OF THE COUNTESS, FITZJAMES. - Writing under the date of the 27th ult., a correspondent of the Times thus records the death of the Countess Fitzjames: - The aristocracy of France regrets this week the death of one of its most remarkable member, the beautiful and proud Countess Fitzjames. A month ago, this lady let fall an ignited match, which caught in the folds of her dress and set fire to it. She rushed to a basin of water in the lawn in front of the house : around this was a railing of which the gate for the moment was locked. She then laid down | will be sold without any reserve. on the grass and attempted to smother the flames, The following comprises a part, viz:and a servant arriving to her aid she succeeded in the effort. The fire, however, had done its work, for after a month of the most atrocious suffering, after passing through what she herself called "an age of boiling water," she was at last relieved by des h.

FIRE IN HAMILTON .- The Spectator states that on the night of the 19th instant, another fire took place in Hamilton, at which a stable on Mary Street, belonging to Mr John Burke, and and as there was a considerable quantity of hay account and risk. in the loft, the fire could not be quenched until it had completed its work of destruction. Rumors are affoat that this fire was the work of some malicious person.

ACCIDENT IN MARKHAM .- The Eronomist of the 20th states that on Friday, the 14th inst., Robert Trigg, a young man in the employment of Samuel Tomlison, Esq. met with a serious accident.
