He became discouraged, and, fearful that the news of his failure would be a crushing blow to his wife, he ceased Sutherland's to write to her. When a fortune was within his grasp word came that she had died of a broken heart. He gave up his life to the pursuit of wealth, hoping that his fortune would become the inheritance of his only son.

Indignant. The train was about to leave the station, and a young man leaned over the seat, shook hands with the middle-aged gentleman, and said:-"Good-by, Professor."

A man with wide stripes in his shirt bosom looked at him narrowly, and said as the train started:-"Kin you do any tricks with cards?" "No, I never touched a card."

"Mebbe ye play the plany?"

"I know nothing of music excepting as a mathematical science." "Well, you ain't no hoxer, I kin see by yer build. Mebbe ye play pool?"

"I never heard of the game before. " "Well say, I've guessed ye this time. It's funny I didn't think of it before. Your a mesmerist." "I'm nothing of the kind."

"Well, I'll give up. What is your line? "I am an instructor in Greek, rhetoric "An' ye can't do no tricks ner play music, per hypnotize?"
