GETTING VERY MORAL.

The conservative party has become very moral and very honest since it has gone into opposition. The fact that a liberal to whom Mr. Tarte made reference in coal contract was inclined to be crooked, to write a letter to a tenderer and ask what there was in the transaction for him. has given some of the tory politicians and editors something like a fit, and there will be no cure for it unless Mr. Petit, the offender, is very severely dealt with. The criminal code—a dreadful instrument of torture, the very contemplation of which is gratifying to tory instincts-is quoted with great emphasis. According to clause 133 it is stated that every person guilty of an offence and liable to a fine of not less than $100 and not exceeding $1,000, and to imprisonment for a term not to ex ceed one year, and not less than a month and in default of the fine to six months more, who presumes to influence the government, or any member of it, and profit by such influence. But Mr. Petit did not presume to influence and bleed the government. He was posing as a middle man, and seeking to profit by a transaction which Mr. Tarte ended as soon as he heard of it. The reference only serves to recall some of the performances to which the conservative managers were committed and without any attempt to apply to the offenders the criminal code aforetate these, in selling government patron-said. The liberals have no desire to imiage, land or timber limits. And one thing | is certain, that if any man is convicted of boodling, of robbing the people, by consent or a connivance with the government he will not be aided with medical triends and certificates and so spared the humilia tion of having to serve out his term THE SENATORS ARE ANGRY.

They have revelled annually in the luxury of a handsome leather trunk and stationery, worth about $50 each, a piece of extravagance beyond excuse and defence The members of the commons and senate are entitled to be supplied with the paper, pens and pencils which they use in the marriage of F. D. McAuley, Railton, to public service, at the public expense, but to be given an outfit such as they have been receiving is simply ridiculous. It involved an expenditure of $5,000 a year, a Mamie Nolan, Camden, N.Y., acted as waste of money. Well, when the report bridesmaid, and C. O'Connor, Missouri, covering the expenditure came in at this session Mr. Laurier amended it, and made of the bride's father, where a sumptuous it read that this outlay in the future repast was served. Only intimate friends should be dispensed with. The amend. were present. The bride's presents were ment carried without a division. At once the senators showed their displeasure. It she is held. The commoners are rebuked and punished for their parsimony; perhaps they are punished, and properly, for their deception in posing as temperance men, or respectors of temperance sentiment, while desirous of gratifying their personal feelings by indulgences at the senate bar. It is for the people to rebuke the senators for their defiance of public opinion. If they had the chance, by popular vote, they would express their opinion of the senate as it stands, or as its majority act, by wiping it out. As they cannot do this they will hail with pleasure any expedient, the resort to the plebiscite

The Talegram has a good caricature the attitude of the Ottawa opposition the school question. Pupper and Caron and Foster are in the green room preparing for a great act, and Tupper, addressin OTTO Fester, the small boy, says : "Call me, Georgie, the minute Laurier settles the school question, for then I'll know whether I'm to go on as King William or 'Dolphy Caron's to go on as the pope."

The papers, notably the New York World, gives from time to time a calculation as to the number of meetings the presidential candidates attend and address. But the issue does not depend upon their talk. It's votes that tell, and the number that may be influenced in a money contest may beat the record.

A yard measure was attached to the edge of the counter, and the inspector in putting the official brand on it, used a heavy hatchet and die with the result that the glass was cracked. Plaintiff held that this was the outcome of gross carelessness and sued for the price of the glass. A number of witnesses were called, who all gave testimony to the effect that the damage was done through carelessness, as the measure could easily have been removed for stamping. Verdict for the plaintiff for sixteen dollars and costs, dant to have the privilege of removing the broken glass top.

Yes, But It Is Kingston Talk, The Kind that Tells in Kingston.

Everyday talk by people that know. City talk. Kidney talk. Do the kidneys talk ? Well, yes, both loud and long. You are learning the kidney language. Backache in kidney language means kidney ache. Lame back means lame kidneys. Weak back means weak kidneys.

The kidneys are talking trouble

Here is some Kingston talk :

Talk that tells.

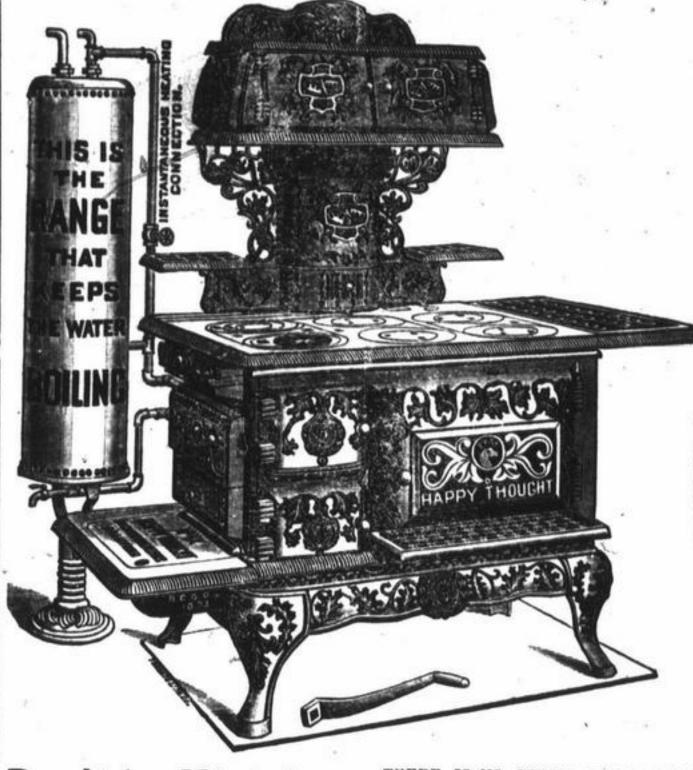

Talk that is endorsed.

Mr. George Hess, for fifty years a resi dent of the Limestone City, says, "I have had very bad urinary troubles for more than five years. The urine was like tea in color and scalded me in passing it. "I was as sore all over as if I had receiv Anderson, of that place. A. E. Fisher has ed a severe thrashing and felt tired all the time.
