- I can hardly expect that my opinion on the subject will be regarded as at all disin terested, but I think that the opening of lice should be made as light and happy as possible, because in the after days, in the midst of worry and toil and care, we can light upon all the years.

Life, after all, whether of young or old. is made up largely of little things. But, I after all, there are grander, far, far grander and better and higher and nobler things than wealth and influence and power, and the very best things have been placed within reach of as all. Our lives are not shaped merely by circumstance; they are largely what we make them. The life of every boy is sublime in its responsibilities and possibilities. Boys fear not the struggle of life. They are "Eager as champions to be In the divine knight-errantry Of youth."

On passing along the streets we see men and women with hardened faces and bearing no trace of tender feeling; and again we meet others, old and decrepid, but with faces beaming with happiness. What causes the difference? Why, the better class has conserved the youth of the soul.

We boys, though not just now presenting a very venerable appearance, well, if we live, be the old men some day. We cannot stay the decadence of the body. Let us watch lest we lose the spirit of youth. Away back in the middle ages, the old alchemists spent there lives searching for the fabled "Elixir of Immortal Youth." The elixir of youth consists not in any liquid draught, but in that immortal youth of soul which may be possessed by anyone. Everyone at the commencement of life is given a vial of this precious clixir. Let us see to it, then, that we guard the treasure well. In conclusion: In view of the grand possibilities which lie before every boy, though it perhaps would sound more graceful from the lips of one of the graduates of the uni versity of boyhood. I do not think I can find a better closing than the words Juvenal, so wisely chosen for the motto o the old school:

"Maxima debetur pueris reverentia." The greatest respect is due to boys. WILLIE R. TANDY.

TRINITY COLLEGE AID.

A MEETING HELD IN ITS INTEREST IN ST. GEORGE'S HALL

The Speech of Provost Body-The Appeal For Larger Endowment Regarded as Popular-Principal Grant's Position on a' Former Occasion - Formation of a Trinity Branch Society.

A meeting in the interest of Trinity college, l'oronto, was held in St. George's hall last evening. Among those present were Rev. Prof. Williamson, Revs. Messrs. Prime, Smith, Cook, McMorine, Jones and Dr. Henderson presided, and briefly urged the members of the Church of England to do all in their power to advance the interests of Trinity, which deserved a good deal at their hands. It was purely a church institution and should be well sus-

The delegation representing Trinity was composed of Provost Dr. Body, Mr. Cayley, B.A., and Rev. H. Symonds. They very ably told of their mission to Kingston.

Dr. Body said that during a meeting of the synod of Ontario some years ago he had spoken regarding Trinity, and when he had finished Principal Grant, of Queen's college, very kindly endorsed what he had said, and he was sure if the principal were present on this occasion he would be again in accord with the views he had to express. The people of this city had come forward nobly in behalf of Queen's college, and they should come forward as nobly insupport of Trinity. In Trinity college they had a type of education which deserved well of the people. The Church of England had in Trinity a university modelled after the great universities of Scotland and England. When people of the old countries came to Canada, looked over the educational buildings and saw the system of education practised they felt that the university of the colony is no unworthy daughter of the institution of the mother country. The importance of a col legiate system of education, such as is taught in Trinity college, was pointed out. Collegiate education was the product of the life of a free English people. A reference was made to the failure of the secular system of education wherever introduced. The education needed was that founded upon the Christian faith. What they needed was men of honor and integrity who would do their duty in the land. The main object of Irinity college was to give an education suitable for clergy and laity. The great need of training the clergy and laity in one institution was dwelt upon. The speaker believed that there had not been anything which hindered the advance of the church in Canada as much as the lack of sympathy between the clergy and laity. They needed institutions like the church universities for both classes. The fact that there was so | Watertown 6 much sympathy between the clergy and laity in England was because they were trained in colleges of the church. Truly the college was at present in a prosperous condition. At the recent convocation held in connection with it fifteen prize-men were presented to the chancellor. The average mark of these students was 80 per cent. They had a list of 500 under graduates. There were forty entries for the present matriculation examinations, and they would have many more applicants at the October matriculation. To meet the urgent demands of the present time the capital sum of $120-000 is required for the increase of the professorial staff for the establishment of additional fellowships and for the enlargement of the present over crowded buildings. He hoped they would be successful in forming a local branch of the convocation of Trinity college in this city. Mr. Symonds said the object they had in forming branches of the Trinity college convocation throughout the country was to bring into close connection with the college members of the Church of England. Each | at Watertown, 2 games; Belleville at Oswamember of the organization would be called | go, 2 games. upon to subscribe $5 annually toward the support of the college. In this way they would be able to raise the funds needed without much trouble. An organization has been formed in Belleville with 21 members.

Short addresses in behalf of the college were made by Mr. Cayley, B.A., Rev. Mr. Smith, and Ald. Muckleston. It was moved and carried that the meeting having heard the scheme for the extension of the convocation of Trinity college cordially endorse the same. A local branch of college workers was then organized. The officers of it are as follows: President, Dr. Henderson; vicepresident, Rev. B. B. Smith; secretary. treasurer, Rev. Prof. Jones; executive committee, Mesdames Rothwell and Smith Messrs. J. Muckleston and Dr. Smythe, Q.C. The meeting adjourned at 10:30.

Fuller Particulars of a Drowning Accident -A Minister's Wife Injured.

On Saturday, at Downey's wharf, Conway, Bruce Claringbold, aged 12 years, son of Henry Claringbold, farmer, was drowned. He was in company with Overton Benjamin, a youth about his own age, son of Silas Benjamin, of the same place. They were fishing off the dock, and Bruce, in reaching down to put a fish on his string which hung suspended in the water, lost his balance and fell in, striking his head against a piece of timber which projected from the dock, which so stunned him that he at once sank to the bottom. Overton waited a moment or two for his companion to raise to the surface, thinking he could save him, and as he did not at once gave the alarm. Mr. Dow. ney and his men, who were working near by, ran and succeeded quickly in recovering the body, but life was extinct. All the efforts put forth to resusitate vere of no avail.
