THEX WANTED A LEADER.

The Winnipeg Sun says it has leaked out that a deputation from the conserve tive party recently united upon wx Lieut. Gov. Aikins, with a view to requesting him to assume the leadership of the party in still lieutenant-governor, and could not even consider it. There the matter dropped "With such a leader as Mr. Aikins, second ed, as he would be, by the better class of conservatives, that party would have a future before it in Manitoba very different from that now presented," says the Sun with emphasis. And its remarks have apparently, twice the force now they had before the polling on Wednesday. Such a complete repudiation as the people expressed of Mr. Norquay and his followers is without record. The tory party in Manitoba will have to be regenerated. The tories themselves see that, but at too late a date.

COLLEGE APPOINTMENT.

There no longer seems to be any doubt of the appointment of General Cameron to the command of the Royal Military College. Official announcement to that effect has not been made, but a semi-official promulgation meets with equal acceptance. Of the qualifigations of General Cameron for the responsible post for which he has been chosen there has been no chance to judge. As an gate it. artillery officer of high rank he must possess superior attainments though, it is to be feared that they were not given the weight of the political considerations in the case. For there is certainly no disputing the fact that General Cameron has been selected as the college commandant because of his political relationship, as the son-in-law of Sir Charles Tupper he was assuredly shown a preference which personal concerns dictated. General Cameron's name has long ager of the company. Many of the victims been associated with the college and with the very office to which he has now been called. This implied that the appointment had been under consideration, that every interest in connection with it had been fully canvassed, that the various influences which | death. The cause of the fire is unknown. Sir Charles Tupper was able to affect had been set in motion and with the end in view which has at last been reached. General Cameron is happily situated. He has not only friends, and powerful ones, at court, who will make his Canadian reign as pleasant as possible, but he holds favor at home, and under the peculiar circumstances of the case-accepting appointment in a colony after the term of his imperial service has been completed -will retain his pension, and it, added to the salary of commandant of the college, will give bim the comfortable income of $6,000 a year. He may become an ideal commandant, but as the favorite of a political party, and closely allied to political dictator, his work may be marred by criticism of a more or less unfriendly character.

NEWFOUNDLAND.

Some time since great interest attached to the negotiations which were said to be pending and which had for their object the entrance of Newfoundland into the confederation. The desire of the people in favour of the union was said to be very strong, and this was esteemed as remarkable in view of the fact that they had, not so long, before been represented as quite hostile to it. Now some light is throw on the situation in the St. John Telegraph, one of confederation's warmest advocates. In a late issue it remarked editorially:

"On receipt of the governor-general's in means, and let us know what Canada is | ed an eulogy on the deceased. prepared to offer. We were then under the impression that everything in connection therewith would be done openly and above board. Now, however, we are beginning the Youngstown murderer, who killed his and consent of the legislature, is still carrying on negotiations with certain prominent officials in Canada relative to the admission of Newfoundland into the Dominion. Indeed, we have evidence before us at this moment that Mr. Winter had private interthe purpose of talking the matter over, and | many ten hours later. that while he was there ostensibly in connection with the fisheries' negotiations, the real object of his mission had direct reference to the subject of confederation. Since his return he has regularly corresponded, | Zululand. A regiment from Aldershot will either directly or through an agent, with replace it in Egypt. All of which is singularly suggestive. The Nova Scotia papers warn the Newfoundlanders to be careful, to be watchful of any movement of the members of the government, and to see that they do that only which is in accordance with public opinion. It is remarked that some queer tactics were employed in Nova Scotia to

to the protests to be sent to it against Sunday traffic on the canals, and it may not; certainly the indignation which the recent new regulations on the Welland Canal has provoked must not be confined to the people of the two small cities. The sanctity of the Sabbath and the interests of trade have to be fairly considered. The government must be credited with having debated the subject already else the rules by which the Welland Canal has been controlled for many years would not now be changed. But the question is: Who asked for the opening of the canal on Sunday? For whose benefit is the Sunday labour authorized? The Canadian Pesselmen was forwarders represent the that they have agitated for the new departure. They do as little labour as possible on the Sabbath. They neither load nor unload. They may leave port or change lecations on it, but these thing, are sometimes contingent upon wind and weather. As the facts justify the continuance of the old canal regulations it is surprising that the government consented to a change in them. We do not wan in Canada the neglect of the Sabbath sc conspicuous in the American cities, and the government does wrong in pandering to any sentiment or demand which is contrary to the moral and civil law. Canal traffic is not desired by the Canadians; it should not be permitted for the Americans. It is an old injunction that when in Rome the people must act as the Romans do, and those Americans whose disposition it is to break the Sabbath should be disciplined into a better condition of mind. Our government has no business to encourage them in their demoralizing trade, and if the canal restrictions are, so far as Sunday traffic is concerned, not restored, the Sunday law should be enforced. It cannot be overidden by a government order, and parliament dare not abro-
