TALMAGE IN THE WEST.

"Stop that sniveling," said Claverhouse. "I have had enough of it. Soldiers, do your Nork. Take aim! Fire!" And the head of John Brown was scattered on the ground. While the wife was gathering up in her apron the fragments of her husband's head-gathering them up for burial-Claverhouse looked into her face and said: "Now, my good woman, how do you feel now about your bonnie man?" "Oh," she said, "I always thought well of him; he has been very good to me; l had no reason for thinking anything but well of him, and I think better of him now." O what a grand thing it will be in the last day to see God pick out his heroes and heroines. Who are those paupers of eternity trudging off from the gates of heaven? Who are they? The Lord Claverhouses and the Herods and those who had scepters, and crowns, and thrones, but they lived for their own aggrandizement, and they broke the heart of nations. Heroes of earth, but paupers in eternity. I beat the drums of their eternal despair. Woe! woe!

But there is great excitement in heaven. Why those long processions! Why the booming of that great bell in the tower? . It is the coronation day in heaven.

Who are those rising on the thrones with crowns of eternal royalty? They must have been great people on the earth, world re-TOMETON DECIMENTATION STORY SERVICES AND STREET OF STREET ged school. Taught in a ragged school! that all? That is all. Who are those souls waving scepters of eternal dominion! Why, they are little children who waited on invalid mothers. That all! That is all. She was called "Little Mary" on earth. She is an empress now. Who are that great multitude on the highest thrones of heaven! Who are | they? Why they fed the hungry, they clothed the naked, they healed the sick, they comforted the heartbroken. They never found any rest until they put their head down on the pillow of the sepulcher. God watched them. God laughed defiance at the enemies who put their heels hard down on these his dear children; and one day the Lord struck his hand so hard on his thigh that the omnipotent sword rattled in the buckler, as he said: "I am their God, and no weapon formed against them shall prosper." What harm can the world do you when the Lord Almighty with unsheathed sword fights for you! I preach this sermon for comfort. Go home to the place just where God has put you, to play the hero or the heroine. Do not envy any man his money or his applause or his social position. Do not envy any woman her wardrobe or exquisite appearance. Be the hero or the heroine. If there be no flour in the house and you do not know where your children are to get their bread, listen, and your will hear something tapping against the window pane. Go to the window and and you will find it is the beak of a raven, and open the window and there will fly in the messenger that fed Elijah. Do you think that the God who grows the cotton of the south will let you freeze for lack of clothes! Do you think that the God who allowed the disciples on Sunday morning to go into the grain field, and then take the grain and rub it in their hands and eat-do you think God will let you starve? Did you ever hear the experience of that old man: "I have been young, and now am I old, yet have I never seen the righteous forsaken, or his seed begging bread?" Get up out of your discouragement, O, troubled soul! O, sewing woman! O, man kicked and cuffed by unjust employers, O! ye who are hard beset in the battle of life and know not which way to turn, O! you bereft one, O! you sick one with complaints you have told to no one, come and get the comfort of this subject. Listen to our great Captain's cheer: "To him that the tree of life which is in the midst of the stealing kisses."-The Epoch. Paradise of God."

A Crazy Waste of Time.

It is said that a gentleman in Philadelphia has collected 1,000,000 canceled postage stamps. It took five years, eight months and two days to do it, and his only object was to occupy his spare time. It will doubtless occur to a good many people that this Philadelphian must have been weefully destitute of resources if he could find nothing better to do with his spare time than to collect 1,000,000 canceled postage stamps. It will be readily admitted that Philadelphia, in its material aspects, is not encouraging or stimulating to the man with spare time on his hands, but even there one can find problems of philanthropy to solve and good work to do, and can learn to do it.

Somehow the man who kills time by collecting canceled stamps, like the man who can write ever so many hundred words on and farm buildings at low rates of the side of a coin and the man who can eat 100 oysters in 100 hours, seems to be on an intellectual level with the lunatic who adorns his cell with an endless, unclassifiable and meaningless collection of rubbish. More asylums should be provided for the time killers who throw away themselves and their opportunities on such trifles while the world is asking a whole catechism of big questions that are yet unanswered, but which may be solved by patient and intelligent work, and which, when solved, will make the globe blossom like a rosy Eden.-New York Press.

An Echo from Many Firesides.

The wise man now in my house thinks I am wrong to urge you to strive after sensible conversation on your piazzas this summer. He believes, as I do, in rest, and fears that you w ' fatigue your brains in the endeavor . to eleva e the tone of seaside and mountain prattle. Lagree with him wholly. "Long live nonsense!" we cry, above all in vacations. So I take it all back. Yet I sort of wish the nonsense could be about sky and wave, humming birds in the honeysuckle, quails calling "Bob White!" or even kittens, rather than such whispers as these: "She said she thought so, really and truly, and I said I supposed he just said that because she said so;" or, "I saw her going down to the beach, and, of course, it is to have him come after her;" or, "Forty, if the is a day, though she dresses for 17."-Susan Hale in Boston

Devoted to African News.

There are now three periodicals in Europe which are wholly devoted to African news and comments upon the various enterprises developing there, while three-fourths of the space in another journal is given solely to affairs in the Congo state. One of these periodicals has a circulation of 6,000 copies. L'Afrique, which is published in Geneva, and The African Times, of London, have been in the field for several years, and nowcomes The Afrika Post, issued in Hamburg, which will be chiefly devoted to Germany's commercial interests in her new African

"Magnificent, but Not War."

Guiseppe Galessi is one of the best and most even tempered orchestra leaders alive. Recently, on account of sickness, his cornet player was obliged to rend a substitute. The sub was a mixture of conceit, double f, and muscular activity. After the overture-a series of car split. ting blasts from the cornet and agonizing groans from the leader's chair-Guiseppe leaned over to the cornetist and, with all the grace and politeness imaginable, remarked: 'Sare, you play zee fine corr-rnet; zee grand tone; zee magnificent expressione; but, sare, your pardone, please don't play!"-The Clipper.

You blush up easily, and when the thermometer is over 150 in the shade your face gets so red and you look so uncomfortable that it drives away custom." -Omaha World.
