A Striking Review of Building Trades. Trade Review, Pittsburg, Penn.

In January, 1888, we anticipated a greater building boom for 1888 than could be credited to 1887, the largest ever known in the city's history. May 15th we take opportunity of re-affirming our position that Pittsburg, Penn., is to-day having the greatest building revival ever accorded any American city. We name some of the most noted buildings to give some idea of the enormous amount of bricks required, and the army of bricklayers that will be needed to construct the walls before cold weather.

BUILDINGS

Haslage Building	15,000

Yeager Building
Hacke	10,000 50,000	00

This is certainly a good showing, and gives us the greatest market in the country for builders' materials and workmen engaged in the building trades.

From the best information from contractors in general, it is anticipated there will be required about three times as many brick. layers as are now working in Pittsburg, and an advance in wages which we think there is no reason for, as bricklayers are now receiving $4 and $4.50 per day for nine

A Chance For Sportsmen.

For two weeks a large brown bear, nearly three times as large as the one at the barracks, has been making his summer camping place in the vicinity of Sand Hillchurch, Pittsburg, much to the discomfort of the residents. The sportsman who destroys bruin will be regarded as a hero by the farmers' children, who are prevented from gathering berries though so plentiful. As it is only about thirteen miles from the city some of our sportsmen should go down and test their fortune. It has been repeatedly seen. John Donaldson was close enough to him to have struck it with a hay fork. It seems to be quite tame and would make a

The girl's mother, Mrs. Laura Ford, of Albany, was present and admitted that the girl was 15 years old. The charge of abduction, therefore, fell through. It was then decided to hold the girl as an incorrigible, and while waiting removal to the House of Mercy the girl made a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to plunge the blade of a penknife into her breast.
