Burdick, the Indianapolis Club's New Twirler.

THE LATE AMOS CROSS.

culiar Ways-Current Gossip of the Ball Field-Recent Changes,

Manager Harry Spence is succeeding in piloting the Ball Kings of Hoosierdom away from their familiar position at the foot of the League procession. All of Indianapolia is happy over the acquisition of W. B. Burdick to the ranks of the local pitchers, and "youngsters" who have emigrated from the union leagues to the large organizations this year, Cincinnati and Boston have found their St. Paul pickups-Viau and Sowdersvaluable men, and Washingtonians are rejoicing because they have captured Will Widner, the ex-New Orleans twirler. Burdick was originally a catcher.

among the "Omahogs," the genteel name that the Western Association people have bestowed upon the Nebraskans.

After considerable persuasion, Indianapolis succeeded in coaxing his release from Omaha, and his debut before the Chicagos was a successful one. He has perfect control of the ball, and possesses good speed and and Catarrhal deafness.

Mrs. Ralph Chamber, Aylmer, Ont., Catarrh, and catarrh, and possesses good speed and a deceptive drop. He resolutely refused to Capt. Anson and his men. On three occasions with Chicago runners on second and third, with one out, he retired the succeeding batters by good, cool work. Manager Spence thinks he will fill the bill, and so does the public.

Amos Cross, who recently died at his home in Cleveland, was, during the season of 1885, one of the finest catchers in the country. He was especialty noted for his throwing to second, and sending the ball down like a rifle shot, and few runners were able to steal the base on him, He was the best catcher and the greatest favorite as a player that Louisville ever had in that position. He was a brother of Dave Cross, the best catcher the Louisvilles now have. He had one peculiarity which every one noticed. Nearly all catchers, when throwing to second base in order to cut off a ing to steal the bag, take a step forward, and give the arm more momentum as they send the ball down. Thus some time was lost. Cross, as

His death resulted from consumption, caused by an accident received on the ball field in 1886

Already there are rumors-as there have been every season-that this is the last year of League baseball in Detroit. This time there is a modicum of foundation for the talk, in the fact that the lease of Recreation park expires with the season, and it is said that the owners, the Brush estate, will not renew it. If this is the case, ten to one it is good by to baseball. The grounds are the best in the country, right in the heart of the genuine regret among baseball enthusiasts. The Brush estate owns a large tract in addition to the ball grounds, which is being rapidly built up with handsome residences, and it is only a question of time when Recreation park will be a thing of the past.

President A. G. Spalding of the Chicagos has now fully decided upon the trip to Australia this winter. All the arrangements have now been made, except the signing of the full list of players. The idea is to take two clubs, composed of the best ball players in the League and Association. The two clubs will be under the personal management of Capt. Anson, and will start west immediately upon the close of the League season. After playing a farewell game in Chicago, they will go to Denver and thence to San Francisco, playing in each city. The first practical steps in the scheme were taken when Pfeffer Williamson and Burns signed contracts to make the trip. The contracts date from the close of the League season to April 15, 1889.

will take place in New York some time during next January. Thus far $5,000 has been subscribed. This sum will be divided into seven cash prizes. The first will be at least $1,000 and the championship trophy. The winner, to hold his title of champion of the world absolutely, will have to hold himself open for challenges for at least one. month after the close of the tournament. the challengers the most formidable player and a series of match games will be played.

In order to attract the famous European chess players to take part in the tournament, the cash prizes will be made as large as possible, and several of the principal American clubs have pledged themselves to raise the money necessary to pay the traveling expenses of the foreign champions. It is expected that among others these gentlemen will play in the tournament: Blackburn and Pollock, the English champions; Tschgring and Wurnawer, the Russian experts; Gunsberg, of Germany; Bird, of England; Burn, of Yorkshire, and Rosenthal, of Paris. Among the American players already entered are: Capt. Mackenzie, of New York; Burnell, of Boston; Gossep, of San Francisco, and Mochle, of New York. Jose Vazquez, the Mexican minister to Havana, who is one of the name forms and a first first of the second promised to play.

From a standpoint of classical chess the tournament will be the most important one ever arranged. All the chess clubs have taken a keen interest in the tournament and the £5,000 prize money was subscribed a long

THE CHAMPION MARCO.

Readers of reports of French, German and Belgian shows are familiar with the term Griffon, but some perhaps do not know what this breed is like. There are two hard haired varieties, the French and the German, but these are so much alike as to suggest that they really are of the same stock, tion takes credit for has also a long hawed Griffon, the special production of M. Emanuel Boulet. This latter is par excellence a shooting dog, the wire hairs being hunting hounds. The best example of the hunting variety is the Griffon of M. Korthals, produced apparently by crossing the old French Griffon d'Arret with the German pointer, says The American Field. The Griffon Boulet, Champion Marco, here depicted, will doubtless serve as a type as long as the breed is used, as the four generations of his race already mentioned showed positively no variation. He has a splendid reputation as a field dog, together with an excellent show bench record. His wins at Paris include first, 1882 and 1883; prix d'honneur at the first international dog show in 1886; with champion prize and special offered by the president of the republic last year. He also won first at Spa in 1882, and at Havre in 1885. M. Boulet, who was decorated in 1886 with the "Order of Merit," offered by the French Society of Agriculture, has been most successful as an exhibitor, his wins last year at the few continental shows including nearly twenty cups, specials and prizes of honor.

An Exciting Tennis Match.

The most exciting tennis match of the season was that between the old time rivals; H. W. Slocum, Jr., and H. A. Taylor, in the finals of the Rockaway meeting. It was late in the afternoon when play was started, and at dusk each had two sets to his credit. The last set was started, and after the games became "Sall" it was too dark to continue. By mutual consent the match was decided by a toss, which gave Slocum the first prize. In the ladies' doubles, Miss Lente, Rockaway club, and Miss Smallwood, Astoria club, were successful. The final in the doubles between Messrs. H. W. Slocum and Foxhall Keene vs. R. L. Beeckman and C. E. Sands will be played off this week.
