FANCY NEEDLE WORK IS INDULGED IN DURING THE SUMMER.

The Latest Society Cards-The Art of Perservation Down Fine. The Decoration of the House Pointers of Value to the Women of Our Land.

Many mories manage to accomplish a great deal of pretty and useful fancy work during the lower commer days of visiting and comparative insure. To be agreeable in warm weather with work must be with light material and small enough to be readily takenup or la d'aside.

For this purpose embroidery or drawn work in linen is a favorite. One can make with it a variety of pretty things, including carving and tea cloths, doilies, summer mantle scarfs, bureau covers, chair backs, etc. White linen, fringed out, furnished with a border of drawn work and stamped and worked in bright colored embroidery silk and silver and gilt thread, gives very rich and elegant effects. This is an excellent time in which to renew one's supply of washstand splashers and mats, for nothing is pleasanter to work on than the dotted muli or Swiss that makes the very daintiest of toilet sets. Choose mull with rather large dots, that are far apart, and embroider it with daisies. Work each dot over in satin stitch, with yellow and gold silk for the center of

A full set of this kind, including all the pieces necessary for bureau and washstand, and lined with sateen in a delicate shade of pink, yellow, blue or green, is very pretty on the enameled wood bedroom furniture now so popular.

Menu and Guest Cards.

Menus and guest cards are always varying, though there is nothing very novel. Just at present there are single split pea pods, with the peas showing, most true to nature; ears of ripe wheat, single feathers, narrow slips of gilt edged cardboard with one corner turned down, or separate, detached petals of roses, orchids, lilies, etc., on which the guest's name is written. The petals look very natural, especially the pink rose ones. When they are on the table the menu is in the form of the full flower open, with "Menu" stamped or written in the center, and the dishes on the petals consecutively. The flower is spread open for writing, and lightly closed together to stand on the table. Some cards combine menu and guest cards, "Menu" written outside in light metallic letters, with a slip below for the name. The dishes are written in ... Celery heads are novel for menus and look wonderfully real. Some new envelo : have a simulated miniature walkingsti with large gold head, run dap. Moss green is a new color for frames, riting table articles, purses, etc.

: eserving Rose Leaves. The pleasant work of gathering rose leaves is best done early in the morning or late in the evening. Shake into a wide basket the petals from roses that are about to fall to pieces. The rose leaves should be spread out on a sheet laid down in a dry place where the wind will not disturb them. Rose leaves gathered on different days should not be mixed, but each collection on the sheet should be stirred and turned every day; when they are all nearly dry they can be heaped together and finished off on another sheet. When quite dry put up in self sealing fruit jars. These dried leaves alone, packed in as tight as they can be pressed down, may be used to fill a fancy jar which, when left open for a short time, will pertume a room if the rose leaves are stirred up a little.

A New Decorative Industry.

A new decorative industry has appeared, under the name of wood tapestry, and is quite within the reach of lady amateurs. The veneers are of real and imitation hardwoods, turned out as thin as shavings; the parts of a design composed of these are glued to paper and then attached to the wall by a paper hanger. The art lies in devising good forms and combinations of colors, for the veneer is so thin that a well tempered penknife fixed in the end of an oval wooden handle suffices for the cutting. Designs may readily be found suitable for reproduction of these woods that, if well executed, are calculated to give a stately appearance to rooms that otherwise would perhaps go without notable adornment.

Handsome Floral Pieces. With other very beautiful floral designs lately exhibited by foreign florists and reproduced and described by Vick are the two shown in the cuts.

FLORAL FAN. The floral fan has at its base a little bouquet of La France roses, set off with a few sprigs of fern. From this point radiate thin polished brass rods, each wreathed with myrtle. These rods disappear in the connecting background of dark scabiosa, upon which resis a wreath composed of La France roses and rosebuds, lilium auratum and grasses. The field is completed by a border of white scabiosa, edged with clusters of clethra arborea, and outside of all is a fringe of isolepis, forming a lace like margin.

The rich and beautiful horseshoe has a groundwork of light blue flowers of stocks. Upon this and over the arch are placed flowers of gloxinia in carefully selected shades of blue, surrounded and interspersed with grasses, ferns and spirea blooms. Two bows of heliotrope colored ribbon complete the
