IRISH CRICKETERS MAKE SHORT WORK OF THE CANADIANS.

Good Bowling-A Resume of the Work | with two barges, lumber laden, in tow. of the Two Teams.

The conclusion of the cricket match was large andience, especially in the afternoon. sels can be charlered. The sun came out warmly and the crease was in beautiful condition. The report yesoncluded with McLeod and Greek at bat. McLeod was caught by J. P. Fitzerald, and Dobbs and Burrows, the last sen, went to bat. A leg bye gave two and Surrows added a double by a fine cut, and made five. The innings concluded with 78

At 4 o'clock the Irish gentlemen went to bet to make 40. Dunn and E. Fitzgerald were the batters and L. Williams and Burrows the bowlers. Both out out doubles and Fitzgerald made four by a hit into the crowd on the hill off Galloway. He clipped out still another four off fields, azzl a double and the required forty were made by another four to the park avenue. Dunn knocked out three doubles and the game was concluded. Then there was loud applause. Two days of very enjoyable sport had been wit-

All through the game the Irish team did excellent fielding, their picking up of the balls in all cases being clean and without fambling. In this they differed from the home players, who seldom got their hand. upon the balls, but stopped them generally with their bodies. Of course there were some exceptions. The few errors made on the field by the home team did prove expensive, but when an inning lasts three hours, an error now and again that gives a run would in time make a considerable showing. The bowling of the home team compared very favourably with that of the Irishmen, in fact, it was said by some to surpass that of the visitors. Had the batting in the second funings been at all equal to that in the first, though the result as to which side should win might not have been changed, there would have been a very close ending. The batting of the visitors was inferior to that of the home club in that they exercised the patience of Job in playing over after over with scarcely a run being recorded, whereas the city men wanted to give the visitors lots of leather hunting on every ball they got. The result was most disastrous. The crease was every thing that could be ary-continue to buzz around in the blaze of these August days on the St. Lawrence. At the Walton House, Clayton, is State Railway Commissioner Richard, one of the most emphatically self-made men in the United States. Mr. Richard succeeded in becoming a good railway engineer, and finally his laboring friends persuaded the politicians that he would make a good commissioner. This is one of the most important offices of New York state, and the incum bent gets $10,000 a year and expenses.

The connection of George Pullman with the St. Lawrence dates from 1864. At that time he came on a flying visit to his mother and brothers, who were camping on the island now known as "Ingleside," and owned by G. B. March, Chicago. He only stayed one day, but that was time enough to catch seventeen large pickerel, and so pleased was be with the beautiful scenery and rare attractions of the St. Lawrence that he at once purchased the island he now occupies at a cost of only $40. His first cottage, erected the next year, cost only $500, but was the one to which came as guests, in 1872, President and Mrs. Grant, and Gen. Sheridan, an event to which dates really the general fame of the river as a resort. It was the crowds flocking to see these gentlemen, and the newspaper accounts of the beautiful place which they were visiting, that aroused the public to appreciate the Thousand Islands. The present castle cost probably (unfurnished) nearly $75,000, and is the finest on the St. Lawrence.

Had she been inclined that way the probability is that the Varuna would have been more badly left than what she was. We have too much thought for the safety and comfort of our passengers, and besides have no time or desire to earn money in that way, but the owner of the Hero, Mr. Gildersleeve, would allow the Hero to be matched in race, although I am satisfied he would not, J. A. Orr would find takers to his challenge to any amount he might name, so firmly am convinced that the Hero is the fastest boa on the bay."

RECEIVED HIS HORSE.

Solomon Shultz Makes John McConnell Pay All Costs in His Law Suit.

On August 12th, Solomon Shultz, Gordon street, put a horse into a pasture field at Williamsville, and a few days later discovered that the horse was missing. He began a search and on Monday learned that such a horse as his was in the possession of John McConnell, Cataraqui, Mr. Shultz walked out and found his horse, but was refused it unless $1.50 was paid for feeding, shoeing and buying off a small boy's share in the animal. The police secured the animal, arrested McConnell, and the case came up for hearing this morning. McConnell represented that a man in a top buggy, driving a big bay horse, gave the animal to his son and a neighbor boy named Wilson. An arrangement was entered into at the court by which McConnell gave up possession of the horse and paid the costs, $4.

What of the Pic-nic? The pic-nic held at Channel Grove yester. | makes over $5,000 a year as a Philadelphia day under the auspices of the Protestant Association of 'Prentice Boys was not the success, financially, it was expected to be. The cool and dull weather of the morning told greatly against it. Those who attended, i suit. however, had plenty of enjoyment. The Parks gathered their runs in the third and fourth innings and did not score afterwards. After the fourth innings the Kingstons collected ten runs. Home runs were made by Gallagher in the seventh inning, and by Osterhout in the eighth. On both occasions the ball was driven to the lake shore on the south side of the island. Good fly catching was done by Connolly and Robinson for the Parks, and by Osterhout and Pierce for the Kingstons.

Mr. Esford, of Barriefield, was umpire. He gave his decisions as fairly as he knew how. Some of them were not satisfactory to the players and many objections to them were made. A great deal of time was occupied in kicking.

THE CONSECON MURDER.

Where the Revolver Was Obtained-Reason It Was Carried to the Field.

Consecon, Aug. 22 .- The trial of the Lovelesses for the murder of Leslie Church, at Consecon, occurs on Oct 29th before Justice Rose. Yesterday there was an affecting scene at the hotel between the prisoners and the other members of the family as Constable Morrison was leaving for Picton. The mothers, sistors and brothers wept bitterly.

Ryerson Dempsey, of Ameliasburg, was met on his way home from Kingston. knows the parties well and was greatly surprised to hear of the shooting. It was to his house the Lovelesses drove immediately after the shooting to give themselves up to the authorities, but Mr. Dempsey was not at home and he is very glad he wasn't. An Ontario reporter learned the history of the revolver that was used in the murder. John Loveless said: "My brother Will traded watches some time this spring with a boy named Jim Snider, and he gave him the revolver to boot, which was of thirtytwo calibre."

The father denied having bought ammunition in Trenton, and when asked why he carried the revolver to the field with him, hesitated a moment, and said: "I know that will go against us a good deal, but so help me God I took the pistol with the intention of simply scaring them if they again attempted to molest us. We had been troubled with them so much that I thought it would be a good idea to scare them at the point of a pistol, and perhaps they would leave us alone in future."

HE WAS NOT WANTED.

A Salesman Comes from Detroit to Find No Place for Him Here. A case was begun at the police court this morning at 11 o'clock that was continued until late in the afternoon. A young man named James Irvine, from Detroit, considered from letters received and telegrams sent | 25th, 26th and 27th, and return up to Sep that he was engaged as salesman in a clothing house in the city. He arrived here yesterday and found that his services would not | eggs, sugar, cured hams, breakfast bacon, be required. He was naturally indignant | rue boon, cooking apples, ripe tomatoes and in having been brought here and sought an arrangement by which, in view of the misunderstanding, he would be recouped his expenses in coming to Kingston. But no arrangements could be made, and after a time the salesmen claimed he was assaulted. It was for this the clothier and his son appeared before the magistrate. Robert Shaw acted for the defence and every circumstance in connection with the case was lengthily discussed. The defence went to show that the plaintiff was saucy and provoking and whatever force was used was to put him off the
