HELP AND HOPE.

The heart that wholly trusts the Lord, Nor doubts His power to aid Will rise triumphant from the weight Of all that makes afraid.

The heart that bows to will of God, Nor doubts He knows what's best Will taste the pleasures of His love. And find a perfect rest. The heart that yields to impulse pure, Nor checks the spirit's care. Will know the peace that passeth ken And blessed comfort share.

The heart that fears a holy God, Nor follows a path of sin, Shall daily reap a fair reward, A crown of life shall win. S. M. D.

WILL MR. LANGTRY DICKER?

Freddle Has Gone to Make a Deal With

Him-Gebhard's Jealousy Aroused. NEW YORK, Aug. 30,-It is believed that Freddy Gebhard has gone to Europe to see Mrs. Langtry's husband and arrange a di vorce from Mrs. Langtry. There was talk of their marriage a few weeks ago at Long Branch, and it was not denied by either Mr. Gebhard or the Lily. Newspapers containing the announcement were sent to Mr. Langtry by his nephew, a young artist, and Mr. Langtry wrote back, asking his nephew to watch the movements of his wife and Mr. Gebhard. He also-wrote his wife making known his sentiments.

A few months ago this would not have caused Mr. Gebhard much uneasiness. He believed the Lily was as secure to him as it she were his wife. It was Mrs. Langtry who longed for the marriage to take place.

Mrs. Langtry has always admitted that the gossip and scandal about herself and Mr. Gebhard were worrying her life away. and that she longed for the day that would be stopped by her marriage to Mr. Gebhard. He, however, was perfectly content to let things go until Mr. Langtry either died or came to terms. Mrs. Langtry. however, determined to do something that would make Freddie less uncertain about the hold he had on her affections.

The chance came last spring in San Francisco when she was introduced to handsome Pastor Aschonthe young millionaire, Mrs. Langtry made a great ministession of Asche, and he made his appearance at Long Branch, and brought several raceborses with him as an excuse for his coming. Mrs. Langtry gave him a most cordial welcome. Everyone began to talk of the matter,

That Freddie was jealous any one could see, and the announcement of their intended marriage was given out. Freddie feared that he might lose his prize, insisted upon a marriage, and Mrs. Langtry agreed to it. Mr. Langtry had not been troublesome for a long time, and indeed the indications were that he would not oppose his wife's suit for divorce. But this idea was dispelled when Mr. Langtry suddenly raised his objection. Mr. Gebhard was more annoyed than Mrs. Langtry apparently, and he is determined to spare no effort until he has got the Lily safely away from Porter Asche or anyone else.

HEALTH IN THE WILDERNESS. The Great Antidote to Miasma and Other

Zymatic Fevers.

The axe and the plough are annually making vast inroads into the wilderness of the western world. Forests, as if by magic, are changed into cornfields, and prairies, swamps and canebrakes into arable land. But these conquests of industry are not achieved without loss. Hundreds, aye it is that the demand for Holloway's pills | quently seen. and ointment in the far west is so large in proportion to the population. The cultivators of the soil on the outskirts of civilization look upon them, and with reason, as among the prime necessaries of life. In the more densely populated regions of the west they are universally considered specifices for the diseases we have named, and every provident farmer takes care to forearm his family against the prostrating inthat there is scarcely a family in Europe that does not keep these medicines by them; the soldier carries them in his knapsack, tators. and the sailor has them always ready to hand in his chest for every case of emergency, either from internal or external complaints, knowing that by the aid of these wonderful medicines he may brave the diseases of any climate with impunity. -Greenwich Journal.

New Cases | primaing Up on Every Hand at

Jackson ville. JACK-ONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 30 .- The situation is no better to-day but rather worse. A jump in the number of new cases causes dismay among the people left in town and the trains out were crowded. Health certificates are now issued daily by the Board of Health. It has been decided by the Auxilliary Association to try and get people to move out to camp so as to depopulate the place more and by this means check the fever's course. The poor who are unable to go will be assisted. New cases to-day spring up right and left. All that could possibly be done has been done upon the Grand Union Hotel and adjoining premises but infection still appears to crop out in that neighborhood with alarming frequency and violence, One gratifying feature of the situation is the mild form of many of the new cases.
