and on the hard anvil, and under the heavy hammer, I do not know what it is. Remember that if God brings any kind of chastisement upon you, it is only to make you useful. Do not sit down discouraged and say, "I have no more reason for living. I wish I were dead." Oh, there never was so much reason for your living as now! By this ordeal you have been consecrated a priest of the Most High God. Go out and do your whole work for the Master. Again, there is comfort in the thought that all our troubles are a revelation. Have you ever thought of it in that connection? The man who has never been through chastisement is ignorant about a thousand things in his soul he ought to know. For instance, here is a man who prides himself on his cheerfulness of character. He has no patience with anybody who is depressed in spirits. Oh, it is easy for him to be cheerful, with his fine house, his filled wardrobe, and well strung instruments of music, and tapestried parlor, and plenty of money in the bank waiting for some permanent investment. It is easy for him to be cheerful. But suppose his fortune goes to pieces, and his house goes down under the sheriff's hammer, and the banks will not have anything to do with his paper. Suppose those people who were once elegantly entertained at his table get so short sighted that they cannot then! Is it so easy to be cheerful! It is easy to be cheerful in the home, after the day's work is done, and the gas is turned on, and the house is full of romping little ones. But suppose the piano is shut because the fingers that played on it will no more touch the keys, and the childish voice that asked so many questions will ask no more, Then is it so easy? When a man wakes up and finds that his resources are all gone, he begins to rebel, and he says: "God is hard; God is outrageous. He had no business to do this me." My friends, those of us who have been through trouble know what a sinful and rebellious heart we have, and how much God has to put up with, and how much we need pardon. It is only in the light of a flaming furnace that we can learn our own weakness and our own lack of moral re-

There is also a great deal of comfort in the fact that there will be a family reconstruction in a better place. From Scotland, or England, or Ireland, a child emigrates to this country. It is very hard parting, but he comes, after a while writing home as to what a good land it is. Another brother comes, a sister comes, and another, and after a while the mother comes, and after a while the father comes, and now they are all here, and they have a time of great congratulation and a very pleasant reunion. Well, it is just so with our families; they are emigrating to a better land. Now one goes out. Oh, how hard it is to part with him! Another goes. Oh, how hard it is to part with her! And another, and another, and we ourselves will after a while go over, and then we will be together. Oh, what a reunion! Do you believe that? "Yes," you say. You do not! You do not believe it as you believe other things. If you did, and with the same emphasis, why, it, would take nine-tenths of your trouble off your heart. The fact is, heaven to many of us is a great fog. It is away off somewhere, filled with an uncertain and indefinite population. That is the kind of heaven that many of us dream about; but it is the most tremendous fact in all the universe—this heaven of the Gospel. Our departed friends are not affoat. The residence in which you live is not so real as the residence in which they stay. You are afloat, you who do not know in the morning what will happen before night. They are housed and safe forever. Do not, therefore, pity your departed friends who have died in Christ. They do not need any of your pity. You might as well send a letter of condolence to Queen Victoria on her obscurity, or to the Rothschilds on their poverty, as to pity those who have won the palm. Do not say of those who are departed, "Poor child!" "Poor "Poor mother!" They are not poor. You are poor-you whose homes have been shattered-not they. You do not dwell much with your families in this world. All day long you are off to business. Will it not be pleasant when you can be together all the while! If you have had four children and one is gone, and anybody asks how many children you have, do not be so infidel as to say three. Say four-one in heaven. Do not think that the grave is unfriendly. You go into your room and dress for some grand entertainment, and you come forth beautifully appareled; and the grave is only the place where we go to dress for the glorious resurrection, and we will come out radiant, radiant, mortality having become immortality. Oh, how much condolence there is in this thought! I expect to see my kindred in heaven; I expect to see them as certainly as I expect to go home today. Ay, I shall more certainly see them. Eight or ten will come up from the graveyard back of Somerville; and one will come up from the mountains back of Amoy, China; and another will come up from the sea off Cape Hatteras; and thirty will come up from Greenwood; and I shall know them better than I ever knew them here. And your friends-they may be across the sea, but the trumpet that sounds here will sound there. You will come up on just the same day. Some morning you have overslept yourself, and you open your eyes and see that the sun is high in the heavens and you say, "I have overslept and I must be up and off." So you will open your eyes on the morning of the resurrection in the full blaze of God's light, and you will say, "I must be up and away." Oh yes, you will come up and there will be a reunion, a reconstruction of your family. like what Halburton, I think it was-good old Mr. Halburton-said in his last moments, "I thank God that I ever lived, and that I have a father in heaven, and a mother in heaven, and brothers in heaven, and sisters in heaven, and I am now going up to see

I remark once more: our troubles in this world are preparative for glory. What a transition it was for Paul-from the slippery deck of a foundering ship to the calm presence of Jesus! What a transition it was for Latimer - from the stake to a throne! What a transition is was for Robert Hallfrom insanity to glory! What a transition it was for Richard Baxter-from the dropsy to the "saint's everlasting rest!" And what a transition it will be for you-from a world of sorrow to a world of joy! John Holland, when he was dying, said: "What means, this brightness in the room? Have you lighted the candles?" "No," they replied, "we have not lighted any candles," Then said he, "Welcome heaven!" the light already beaming upon his pillow. O ye who are persecuted in this world! your enemies will get the track after a while, and all will speak well of you among the thrones. Ho! ye who are sick now, no medicine to take there. One breath of the eternal hills will thrill you with immortal vigor. And ye who are lonesome now, there will be a thousand spirits to welcome you into their companionship. O ye bereft souls! there will be no grave digger's spade that will cleave the side of that hill, and there will be no dirge wailing from that temple. The river of God, deep as the joy of heaven, will roll on between banks odorous with balm, and over depths bright with jewels, and under skies. roseate with gladness, argosies of light going down the stream to the stroke of glittering oar and the song of angels! Not one sigh in the wind; not one tear mingling with the waters.

There shall I bathe my weary soul And not a wave of trouble roll Across my peaceful breast,

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE.

New Work for Amateur Decorators-Fashions in Pillows, Bolsters, Etc. Inzitation inlaying represents one of the newest fancies in amateur decorative work. The design is drawn out with pencil or brush on white wood and filled in with black, or on black painted wood and filled in with white, or the ground can be done in blue or brown.

Frames for photographs, earthenware flower pots, the doors of little cabinets and over mantels and other things can be decorated in this style. A coat of clear drying varnish is laid on when the paint is quite dry. The work requires care and neatness,

A novelty in home made frames for pictures is a wooden frame painted white with a mount of pale blue, gray or primrose yellow plush glued over card board.

Beverages for the Ha: Weather. One may long for a glass of soda, or be delighted to offer it to our heated and weary friends, but it is quite too much to go to the druggist for it, with the sun high and the thermometer in the nineties. And yet nothing is more possible or less expensive than to have the thing always at hand. In Paris, when siphons were first introduced, iced "siphon water" was the thing to have in the house. I often wonder that so little use is a dozen siphons of plain soda cost 90 cents, perhaps less in large cities, and if you are known to your druggist you will not be charged for the loan of the siphons. Keep syrup—and you can have flavored soda at a moment's notice. In fruit season half fill the glass with fresh fruit syrup and sugar, fill up from the siphon and you have a drink for the gods.

Soda milk is an excellent and nourishing drink in hot weather, and will remain on the most delicate stomach, when anything but koumiss would be rejected, and is simply soda from the siphon and milk.-Catherine Owens.

Pillows and Bolsters.

Pillows are now made about twenty-four inches square for the usual double bed, which is four feet six inches broad. The bolster is made round, with a shaped piece set in each end. The new way, says Harper's Bazar, is to set the bolster behind the pillows-not under them-or else have for day use merely a pair of pillows or else only a bolster, as when the pillows are set on the bolster they hide the handsome wood of the head of the bedstead. Shams have a square center ornament and border of cut work like Irish point, or of drawn work, which is hemstitched, or the trimming is embroidery or linen lace (torchon or Smyrna), or else braid lace. When a bolster only is used, and color is preferred, the spread of cretonne or of sateen, or brocaded silk, is made long enough to cover the bolster also,

Ornamenting Plain Glass.

A mode of ornamenting plain glass suggested by The Decorator and Furnisher is to paint the decorative design on silk or linen, and as soon as the surface has been varnished pressing it downward on the glass, after which the back of the linen or silk is gently rubbed, so as to exclude air bubbles. Before using either of these textiles, they must be stretched on a frame, and, if water colors are used, sized with isinglass, but no sizing is required with oil colors. The gloss of the glass will less interfere with the effect if a judicious selection of colors be made, preference being given to those which are subdued. Such paintings, well executed, appear to advantage in the shaded recesses of mantels and cabinets, Cheap Cuts of Meat.

Many of the so called cheap cuts of meat are preferable, for instance, the shoulder of mutton is much more delicate than the leg, and, as most persons know, the price is low. The English, who of all people know what good mutton is, always give the leg to the household and save the shoulder for guests or first table. However, meat is not the only thing you must learn to choose. Every housewife does not know that a delicious stew may be made of round steak, which costs a mere trifle compared with the choicest sirloin and porterhouse steaks. First pound the round steak, then cut it into small pieces and proceed as with any meat stew.

Utilizing Old Carpets.

Ingrain carpets, worn beyond repair, should be cut into lengthwise strips, and woven the same as a rag carpet. It is unnecessary to sew the ingrain cuttings, weavers generally preferring to overlap the strips as they weave. Mats and carpets assume quite a Persian look when made in this way, and are very durable.

When the carpet is only worn on the edges or in certain spots the good portions may be sewed together, a border put on and a good looking rug made.

A Convenient Work Case.

The Lousewife, or work case, shown in the accompanying cut is a convenience every housekeeper ought to possess. Ladies living in cities can buy these conveniences, and therefore need not be troubled with making the same; but readers who may not be able to purchase will be glad of a model from which to make a duplicate.

WORK CASE, OPEN AND CLOSED. The foundation and the pockets are made of double ecru linen and are bound with brown woolen braid. The strap to hold scissors, thimble, etc., is of leather. The flaps are embroidered with an outline design in stem stitch.

Helpful Hints.

Double butto: • les closed with small collar buttons, that are taken out before washing, are used on pillow slips by some ingenious housekeepers. This obviltes holes and rents in the hems caused by the wringer pulling off firmly sewed buttons.

A little borax dissolved in the last rinsing water will whiten clothes surprisingly, says a laundress. Never allow canned goods, lobster, salmon, soups or vegetables to stand in the cans after they are opened, nor on any account add vinegar or sauce of any kind to tinned food while still in the tins.
