OF KINGSTON.

for Their Several Purposes-A Fin-Everything Ready for the Fair,

The new fair grounds are indeed credit. the Crystal Palace so far beyond the city's centre, and, after considerable agitation and more or less opposition, it was decided that a stock company should be formed and uitable grounds secured within the city and at a convenient distance from all points. The government was induced to grant, at a very moderate price, a plot of land, con prising over forty acres lying within the radius of Princess, Alfred and Nelson streets. Stock books were opened and enerous response was made by citizens and esidents of Frontenac. A company was incorporated, and to-day they have proper ty valued at nearly $50,000, while some $33, 000 has been expended in putting the ground and buildings into the excellent shape they were found by a WHIG reporter yesterday. ATTEN STORES IN lower end of the limits. These are fenced of twenty-six acres, lying at the in and approached by a half dozen different streets. Alfred street, leading off from Princess street, has been newly macadamized and rolled, and has a surface as smooth as a billiard table. Fine sidewalks have been laid to the main entrance off Alfred street. There are also entrances on York and Nelson streets. Entering the grounds one is struck by the compactness presented The main building is directly opposite the entrance, and is a huge building 214 x 188 feet, of giass and wood, surmounted by a fine tower 110 feet high. There are two wings jutting out of the building from the centre. The palace is airy and tasty in its interior arrangements, and is reached flights of stairs through mammot doors. It is arranged so that all the exhibits will be on raised platforms and railed off from the throng. The interior is painted a pleasing blue, while shields of all nations are found hanging about the supports, adding attractiveness to the building. One thing strikes the eye, the portrait of John Wilmot, but nobody would know the face was that of the genial superintendent unless so. The artist was not at al successful in his likeness. The building outside is painted cream and terra cotta, while variegated colors appear on the tower. Flags will float from each end of the wings and from the tower flag. Immediately below the main building a cosy cheese and butter room is situated. It has every ac commodation desired, and when cheese and butter is being manufactured will indeed be an attractive spot. An arcade also goes underneath the palace while a row of booths fills up the space near the arcade and facing the main entrance.

On the east side and close to the fence appear the turn stiles under cover, and the ticket sellers' offices. Then comes t quarters of the officers and the directors and public dining rooms on each side of a kitchen. Following are toilet rooms for ladies and then a row of 124 sheep pens stretching along the easterly side of the grounds. There is accommodation for 360 sheep. The horse stalls, painted white, occupy the space about the south and west sides. They are substantially built and numbered. There are 248 stalls, 41 of which are

Adjacent to the track the first building encountered bayond the palace is the grand stand, a covered building capable of holding | friends in Ogdensburg. 350 people. It is very strongly built. Entrance is had through two stairways. The stand is 80 x 26 feet. Underneath the grand stand is a public dining hall. Opposite is the judge's stand, a neat square building, of Mr. J. Wilmot's own designing. Near to it, an i opposite the grand stand is the stage, 30 x 50 feet, upon which the special attractions will be presented and the performances conducted. It is well situated and can be easily viewed from any point in front of the various buildings.

After passing the office of the Midland agricultural association, in rear of the grand stand, "Agricultural Hall" is reached, a building 168 x 56 feet, the lower flat of which will hum next week with machinery driven by a twenty five horse power. Horti cultural hall above is 58 x 36 feet and an excellent room for the display of flowers, vegetables, etc.

The fowl house is adjoining, a neat building 75 x 18 feet, with three rows of coops totalling 196, besides 100 feet of shelving for pigeon and bird cages. The roof is of glass and the building is capable of the finest ventilation. There are pathways of three feet between the coops.

The carriage shed is 129x35 feet, capable of holding three rows of carriages. The display this year will be so great that the overplus will have to be placed in tents adjacent. Iwo cattle sheds lie beyond the carriage shed. These are 150x36 feet, with raised aisles, so that people can view the animals without trouble. In each shed there is accommodation for 160 cattle, but this year the display will be so great that 600 feet of shedding will be built on the north side to accommo late the overflow. The pig shed is located at the north-west corner, and is described as the most perfect shed in the country. It is 150x18 feet, and has all the conveniences for over 100 animals.

The fine track that surrounds much of the ground is more of a circle than an elliptic. It is well built, and is half a mile in circumference. For show purposes there is not a better track in Canada.

WHAT GIRLS CAN DO.

A Prohibition Party Would Speedily Arise -A Good Time is Coming.

ance would prevail. The men engaged in the liquor traffic admit themselves that it i against the side of right. The temperano movement is progressing rapidly. Learned and scientific men are taking part in the Dr. W. B. Richardson, from scientific standpoint, has taught the work the deadly effects of liquor upon the human system, and has been enabled to show people something which they had never known before. While science goes forward in the matter of temperance, look at the progress being made by the churches. Twenty bishops of the Church of England are tetotallers, and it was a disgrace to bishops who are not total abstainers. Prominen men are exercising a great influence in the cause. He was glad that the evil effects paume with 12 Uzerno. The specks told the people of Australia and England that if Canada progressed as she has done that the coming in of the new century is going to impress the christian world more than the beginning of any other century The work that has been done in the temperance cause has been accomplished through the united might of the christian people atterly forgetful of denominational laws, utterly forgetful of those things which formerly used to be Chinese walls between them. If the Canadian people continue is the direction they are now travelling their efforts will be crowned with success. The hely spirit will be poured upon the people thousands will flock to the means of grace. He hoped they would help on these times. They know that God will hold them responsible for the right use of their money and talents, and would hold them re sponsible for the right use of their votes. Their votes were talents, and they should use their franchise aright. "I declare, said the speaker, "that I will permit my right hand to be laid on a block and cut off before I will put my hand in a bal lot box and east a vote for a man who is not favorable to the temperance cause." Some men hold they are conservatives others that they are liberals. He failed to see the difference between the two sides. There are men who are prohibitionists and they want a third party, but the question is whether suck a step would be safe. Perhaps would not be best to do it. They must, however, take stronger grounds respecting the austaining of candidates for parliament who are favorable to the temperance cause. Prohibition committees formed throughout the country would do great good. Combinations are powerful. The speaker said the women and girls could do a great deal towards forwarding temperance work Girls should make their lovers choose between them and a whiskey barrel. He would sooner carry his daughter to the grave than see her married to a man who used liquor. If the girls would insist on their lovers being temperance men, they would have prohibition in a very short time. PERSONAL MENTION.

THE STREET CAR TRACK SHOULD BE PULLED UP.

Least so Ald. McIntyre Considers-A Committee to Consider a Sulmming Bath Scheme - The Contractor Will be Asked to Cover the Expenses of Several Visitations.

H. W. Poole, Oswego, wrote to the council asking what inducements could be offered if he removed his thermometer works, in which eighty work men were employed, to Kingston. The mayor replied asking him what inducement he would like but has received no reply. The manufacturer made similar requests to To ronto and Montreal.

Ald. Polson thought the city commissioner should be lenient in the interpretation of the law during fair week and allow advertising banners to be thrown to the breeze. The mayor said certainly. There should be certain amount of elasticity about every Ald: Robinson thought there wasn much when he was fined for putting a coat outside his shop.

Ald. Fenwick called the attention of the streets committee to the unworkmanlike way in which Mr. Hutton was building crossings. He certainly should not be paid a cent until the crossings were properly laid. I had been given the contract. He had so expressed himself when it was awarded. He had not the qualifications for building crossings that his predecessor had. He had called the attention of the engineer to the matter and that officer would insist on proper crossing being laid. If not the contract should be annulled.

In answer to Ald. Polson, Mayor Thompson said that the expenses of himself and the engineer in visiting Hamilton and Mon treal, in connection with the water pipes, would be a matter for settlement between Mr. Gartshore and the city. Undoubtedly Mr. Gartshore would have to meet it. The city was well protected in every way. So far Mr. Gartshore had not been paid a cent. There was $4,000 due him, and when this was paid the mayor said he would see that fifteen per cent was retained until the final settlement. Mr. Gartshore was quite will ing to meet the extra cost for pipes purchased in Glasgow, and glad to get off so well, for he had written that the mayor had secured the pipes at lower figures than he could have secured them. The extra cost and expenses would all be deducted from the bills at the final settlement.

A committee consisting of Alds. Swift, Polson, Fenwick, Harty, Shannon, McCammon and Wilmot, was appointed to consider the subject of converting the reservoir into a swimming bath with estimates as to the cost of management and water. There was a weary discussion as to the propriety of a special committee considering a matter that belonged to another committee, to wit, the waterworks committee. The mayor's remarks were called "ridiculous" by Ald. Polson, when he insisted that the water works committee had the right to take steps in the matter. Ald Polson was told that he would be bald headed before he would ever see such valuable property devoted to swimming bath purposes.

Ald. Fenwick had heard of the bad condition of the street railway track, and he wished certain information supplied touching the efficiency of the line, the time cars were run and if, by the violation of the charter, what action the council would take. The questions were referred to the streets committee. Ald. McIntyre hoped Ald. Fenwick would succeed better in stirring up an enquiry into the affairs of the company than he had. He found that the movements of city officials were hampered by the conduct of various aldermen. He declared that the road was a disgrace to the city. He favoured the winding up of the disgraceful, pauper institution. Ald. Wilson defended the company. The citizens running it did so at a loss but they had the interests of the city at heart and wanted to save the road for the benefit of the city. Ald. McIntyre, as a private citizen, could sneer but he couldn't

Ald. McIntyre - "I'll not help any such a pauper institution."

Ald. Wilson said that the claim Ald. Mc-Intyre had against the company was a fraud. The case had been given him to make whatever he could and when he could get nothing he was angered.

The mayor asked Ald. Wilson, as manager of the road, to fill in the centre of the track and make it presentable for fair week. Ald. Wilson said he would, that he would grade up the road wherever the city engineer pointed out He held that the road was in better condition than when it was built. Then he dwelt on the Gallagher claim, and declared that Gallagher had said that Ald. McIntyre had taken up the case on his own motion, without expense to Gallagher.

Ald. McIntyre-"Its false; I say it is false; you know you are saying what is un-

Ald. Wilmot said the road in the Williamsville section was in a disgraceful state. Ald. Wilson said it was not; it was the road that was too low. Ald. Wilmot said that outside the rails it was too low. Ald. Wilson admitted that, but added that if he repaired the track the gravel would not remain on the eighteen inches an hour as the road outside was too low. The company was willing to have the Williamsville end taken up, but it was thought better to let it stay so that when traffic was sufficient Williamsville could have the line. He was very willing to have the track covered over. The discussion will be resumed at the next

A Writ For Damages.

On October 1st, 1884, a blasting accident occurred in the harbor. Men, under the superintendence of Captain Paul, were engaged in deepening it when a charge of dualin exploded. The workmen were injured, and among them was one Townsend. He was stunned, cut, bruised and wounded in the body. The dualin struck him in the breast and groin, and penetrated his left lung. He was for a long time confined to his house. He has had a writ issued against Captain Paul for negligence. He claims $5,000 damages and has retained J. M. Machar as his solicitor, and J. MeIntyre, Q. C., will defend Captain Paul.
