THE BARLEY MARKET.

Oswego, Oct. 13.—Comparative receipts of Canada barley at this port to date are : 1888, 335,383 bush.; 1887, 667,795 bush.; 1886, 482,564 bush.; 1885, 443,658 bush. 1884, 448,229 bush.; 1883, 132,889 bush. Our market has ruled steady, and prices are unchanged. Eastern maltsters are holding cannot sell on the basis of prices asked for Canada barley. Brewers are taking some, but not freely. Holders are rather more willing to sell to day, but as those who have already commenced malting are all taking a few thousand bushels prices are steady. The situation seems to have developed into a stand-off between the producers and the · NOT · FORGET | consumers. The question is, Who can hold out the longest? The receipts of western barley are daily increasing, and the state crop is commencing to move. Sales to-day:

Davy had over-reached the Psalmist's margin, being 84 years old. He passed his lengthened period on a farm in Quobin, on the banks of a pretty river, and through kindly disposition was held in general esteem. A staunch reformer in politics he followed the destinies of the party from its inception, and saw many noble enactments traced on the statutes through its efforts to the tendency of a fairer dominion. Whilst thus engaged he made sure of his own important election with the blessed. The funeral on Wednesday was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Young preached an able sermon, and the remains were conveyed to Wilton cemetery. The same day the infant son of Joseph and Mrs. McConnell was taken in its third year. Then came the very sudden death of Mrs. John McDonald, in her 62nd year, from heart disease. The lady was devoted to her family and church, and was among the worshippers attending mass on Sept-20th and photographed by Father McWil. liams. The remains were deposited in the

After finding the body the hunters, when half a mile south in a slash, came across a suit of clothing, evidently those of the deceased. The coat and vest are dark blue serge, pants dark grey striped material. In the vest was a lady's open faced gold watch with chain and locket, $11 in money, a Catholic emblem, a picture of himself, a railroad ticket second class from Owen Sound to Boston, on which the name Wm. Engineer Condie saw what had occurred and whistled for the brakes, at the same time reversing the engine. When the train was brought to a standstill it was discovered that the unfortunate yardsman had been run over. His mangled body lay by the track covered with blood. It was found that three or four of the cars had passed over his legs and that his body had been frightfully bruised. He was taken to the hospital and one of his legs taken off at the thigh and. the other below the knee. The injured man lingered until 2.10 o'clock yesterday morning, when death relieved him of his suffering. He was 39 years of age and leaves a widow and three small children.

Fong Tang Will Stay in Canada. NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 16. - Fong Tang and wife crossed over to the American side last night by the foot bridge, stopping at the New York Central Hotel, Suspension Bridge, N. Y., all night. After breakfast this morning they walked to the New York Central depot to get their baggage rechecked for New York, and ran into the arms of the American custom officers, who forthwith hustled him back to Canada. Fong Tange says he will take up his residence in this town and engage in the laundry business. The four detained Chinamen have not as yet received any information in regard to their admission into the United States from Montreal Police Catch Two Men Making Bogus 25-Cent Pieces.

MONTREAL, Oct. 17 .- What is supposed to be a gang of counterfeiters has been arrested by the police. Sergeant Courtois was notified that some parties were coining money in a shop on Montcalm near Robertstreet and accompanied by Constable Morel, the sergeant entered premises and found in a shed in the rear two men melting white metal, pewter and lead in a large ladle. On a bench near were some plaster of paris noulds with the impress of 25-cent pieces. On examining the place the officers found a trap door in the floor and under it some more metal, moulds, mould boxes, and an instrument for milling the edge of silver coins. A third man was also found there but he seemed to have nothing to do with the alleged counterfeiter. The officers, however, arrested the three and took possession of the tools and metals. The three prisoners were brought before the magistrate and gave their names as Eugene Harrison, 26; Elzear Michaud, 20, and Adolphe Desjardins, 40. The last named was discharged, and made a deposition against the other two, saying that he had seen them working at casting 25 cent pieces in plaster of Paris moulds, that their first attempt had not succeeded well, but they were trying more. Harrison and Michaud were sent to stand their trial before the Court of Queen's Bench.

The increasing confidence of the Conservative party in Balfour makes Smith's tenure of the leadership of the House of Commons more important than ever, at least during this Parliament. When Lord Randolph Churchill resigned the Conservative party welcomed Goschen with acclamation, feeling continue to act as leader, Goschen was there to take his place. But it is no secret that many Conservatives in the House would prefer any leader to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, for, with all his genius and ability, the Conservative party would rather be led by a man born and bred among themselves. In Balfour they find a chief whom they can follow, but his apprenticeship is party in depriving Goschen of the leadership were Smith to retire during this Parliament. Smith will, therefore, remain at his post, for no one has shown more unselfish patriotism than he. When dissolution takes place and he gets his well-carned repose, Balfour would naturally succeed him. Judging by the progress he has made in public estimation in the last two years, his promotion to the leadership of the party would be most popular.

Balfour's Speech.

Sir Morell Not Dismayed at the Prospect of Libel Actions,

LONDON, Oct. 17 .- The wholesale misappropriation of a large portion of Sir Moreil Mackenzie's book by American, German, and English newspapers, notwithstanding the extraordinary precautions adopted by the publishers to insure inviolable secrecy, will add a very discreditable chapter to the history of modern journalism. The literary pirates managed to place their wares in several markets, for The Neue Freie Although the early sheets of necessity passed through a variety of hands, this most recent development of piracy has furnished Sampson, Low & Co. with a clue to the probable offenders, whose position would, under ordinary circumstances, place them beyond suspicion.
