R. P. WILDER TALKING STUDENTS OF QUEEN'S

There is Ample Room For All Who De-Doing-Christianity Does Elevate the

The missionary meeting in Convocation hall, Queen's university, last evening, was attended by a large number of people. proceedings throughout were interestic Men's Christian association, connected with the college, presided. After prayer by Rev. Dr. Hooper, and the singing of a hymr, the chairman, previous to introducing the speak er of the evening, R. P. Wilder, made brief allusion to him. He said he was the son of the late Mr. Wilder, a missionary to India, and also the founder of a magazine known as the Missionary Review, The scene of her husband's late work. Mr. Wilder is a missionary volunteer, and will go to India as soon as he completes his course at college.

Mr. Wilder, during the course of a very able address, dwelt at length on foreign mission work. He alluded to the tour which Charles Darwin, a scientist, took in 1832. During the trip Mr. Darwin visited several places and among them was a point in South America. The people there were found to be in a very uncivilized condition, and Mr. Darwin thought they could not be influenced by missionaries. An expedition was started to this place and among the missionaries sent was a son of Mr. Darwin. The result of the work of the missionaries is that it is now a Christian community. When Mr. Darwin saw the change which came over these heathen people he became a regular subscriber to foreign missionary work.

Mr. Wilder pointed out that it was not the fault of the gospel that there were so many heathens in the world, for wherever the word of God has been taught the people who heard it have been elevated morally and socially. They should stop and think of the millions of heathens that were in dark. ness. In arguing that they should take an active part in missionary work be recited several passages of scripture to prove that Mr. Tepe of Bond Hill, Ohio, will wear a never sinned. This man proved to be the greatest thief in India. Reference was made to the great sacrifices which the Hindros made for the sake of their religion. They submitted themselves to different kinds of torture to please their gods. By the aid of a map, showing the two hemispheres, the speaker located the countries that were without Protestant missionaries, and pointed out the great need of men for missionary work. He thought the best thing that could happen this country would be for many young men and women to go to foreign lands and preach the gospel. Orvil Hannaford, Canterburry, N. The Y.M.C.A. at Portsmouth Fully Instituted Last Evening-Fine Addresses. The opening of the Y.M.C.A. rooms at Portsmouth, last evening, was attended with great success. Quite a large audience assembled to hear an address from T. S. Cole, the provincial secretary, who attended the Gananoque convention. He spoke particularly on Y.M.C.A. work at home and abroad, how the association had extended its branches to almost every part of the world, and the attractions offered to young men. Outside of spiritual work there are in the larger associations gymnasiums, educational classes, and amusements of every description, also many social attractions. He made mention of the advantages of a Y.M.C.A. to any young man going abroad, who, holding a membership or letter of introduction to the secretary of a foreign association, was made welcome in a strange land. After a few pointed remarks on spiritual work he left the meeting in the hands of the president. Revs. Messrs. Dobbs and Rattray made a few excellent remarks to the young men, after which the meeting was brought to a close.
