EQUALITY OR REWARD,

and procrattinates, and says: "Fill see you next week," or "I'll see you next The fact is, he does not want to But when the great day comes of which I am speaking, there will be no escare. We will have to face all the bills. have sometimes been amazed to see how an accountant will run up or down a long line of figures. If I see ten or fifteen figures in a line and I attempt to add them up, and I add them two or three times, I make them different each time. But I have admired the way an accountant will take a long line of figures, and without a single mistake, and with great celerity, announce the aggregate. Now, in the last great settlement there will be a correct account presented. God has kept a long line of sins, a long line of broken Sabbaths, a long line of profano words, a long line of discarded sacraments, a long line of misimproved privileges. They will all be added up, and before angels, and devils, and men, the aggregate will be announced. Oh, that will be the great day of settlement. I have to ask the question: "Am I ready for it?" It is of more importance to me to answer that question in regard to myself than in regard to you; and it is of more importance for you to answer it in regard to yourself than in regard to me. Every man for himself in that day. Every woman for herself in that day. "If thou be wise thou shalt be wise for thyself; if THOO BELLY THERE, ADOM MANNE AND AND THE LOSS OF THE PARTY OF THE PART are apt to speak of the last day as an occasion of vociferation-a great demonstration of power and pomp; but there will be on that day, I think, a few moments of entire silence. I think a tremendous, an overwhelming silence. I think it will be such a silence as the earth never heard. It will be at the moment when all natious are listening for their doom. THE PHILOSOPHY OF EQUALITY OF REWARD.

I learn also from this parable of the text that our degrees of happiness in heaven will be graduated according to our degrees of usefulness on earth. Several of the commentators agree in making this parable the same one as in Luke, where one man was made ruler over five cities and another made ruler over two cities. Would it be fair and right that the professed Christian man who has lived very near the line between the world and the church-the man who has often compromised his Christian characterthe man who has never spoken out for Godthe man who has never been known as a Christian only on communion days-the man whoe great struggle has been to see how much of the world he could get and yet win heaven-is it right to suppose that that man will have as grand and glorious a seat in heaven as the man who gave all his energies of body, mind and soul to the service of God! The dying thief entered heaven, but not with the same startling acclaim as that which greeted Paul, who had gone under scorchings and across dungeons and through maltreatments into the kingdom of glory. One star differs from another star in glory, and they who toil mightily for Christ on earth shall have a far greater reward than those who have rendered only half a service.

Some of you are hastening on toward the reward of the righteous. I want to cheer you up at the thought that there will be some kind of a reward waiting for you. There are Christian people in this house who are very near heaven. This week some of you may pass out into the light of the unsetting sun. I saw a blind man going along the road with his staff, and he kept pounding the earth and then stamping with his foot. said to him, "What do you do that for?" "Oh," he said, "I can tell by the sound of the ground when I am near a dwelling." And some of you can tell by the sound of your earthly pathway that you are coming near to your father's house. I congratulate you. Oh, weather beaten voyagers, the storms are driving you into the harbor. Just as when you were looking for a friend, you came up to the gate of his house, and you were talking with the servant, when your friend hoisted the window and shouted, "Come in! come in!" Just so, when you come to the gate of the future world, and you are talking with death, the black porter at the gate, methinks Christ will hoist the window and say: "Come in! come in! I will make thee ruler over ten cities." In anticipation of that land I do not wonder that Augustus Toplady, the author of "Rock of Ages," declared in his last moment: "I have nothing more to pray for; God has given me everything. Surely no man can live on earth after the glories I have witnessed." Oh, my brothers and sisters, how sweet it will be, after the long wilderness march, to get home. That was a bright moment for the tired dove in the time of the deluge when it found its way safely into the window of the ark.

The Latest Women's Club.

The organizations among women are of every conceivable kind and nature, from the church sewing society to the women's suffrage associations. The latest is perhaps the most for the gossip lover; politics for the pubunique. It is called "The Ekndly Club," is lic minded; facts and fancies for the not officered, and has its headquarters in New York city. Its object is the cultivation of kindly thought by kindly words and by the suppression of "evil speaking, lying and slandering." The only qualification demanded of a member is that she shall sign the form of membership and pledge herself "to strive earnestly to cultivate kindliness of thought and word; to resolve never to repeat derogatory or ill natured remarks of another, never to belittle any one, never to spread unkindly gossip or scandal."

The badge of the society is a pin with the design of a bridle, bearing as motto, "The Law of Kindness." Those who do not care to wear the pin can choose the violet button used by the society. The dues of the membership are $1 a year, to be used in defraying expenses of publication and distribution of leaflets concerning kindliness. The meetings take place once a month at the headquarters. -Ney York Sun.

A Ring of Evil Omen.

A ring has risen into great prominence as being the cause of the misfortunes which have lately afficted the royal house of Spain. The late King Alphonso XII gave it to his cousin Mercedes when he was betrothed to her, and she wore it during the whole of her short married life. On her death the king presented it to his grandmother, the Queen | Corn, cotton, potatoes, syrup, cattle, Christina. She died very soon after, when hogs, horses, farm lands, city lots, or it passed to the king's sister, the Infanta del general merchandise. BURDETTE'S PHILOSOPHY.

HIS HEAD IS NOT HILLY. In all the excitement of the most exciting of many campaigns, the one through which we have just passed, there is one man who has always kept his spirit level. The carpenter, foolish one, the carpenter.

THE GREEDY SAVAGES. "Yes," said the Indian commissioner, sadly, "it is very discouraging indeed. I went to the reservation myself to see if something could not be done to prevent the Indians from starving to death. established two additional day schools and had the Indians taught to sing and instructed in the use of the globes, hoping by the elevating and refining influences of education to divert their minds from gross and earthly appetites, but they seemed to take little interest in such things and continued to die right along, and I am afraid we will be compelled to give them something to eat before it can be stopped. I consider it an evil which resulted from the military administration. I think the army officers taught the Indians to eat and it is impossible for

That's the objection we have to the statements of very wise people. When they want to assert or prove anything they always start out with a supposition that is utterly and absurdly unsupposable. Now, nobody ever saw a baby with an arm 95,000,000 miles long, never; even Boss Tweed wasn't born with such fingers, and he had a reach that was amazing. But if we simple and unlearned people should say: "But suppose the sun was made of ice, and the baby didn't get its fingers burned after all?" The wise man would crush us with sneers and scoffs, and say: "Absurd; you cannot suppose such a thing." And then they go on supposing babies with arms 95,000,000 miles long, as calmly as though that was the normal size of a baby's arm and that they usually came in triplets, at that. What, ho! Without there! Remove this wise man; he makes me tired .-Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.
