The Rise and Fortune of Governor Blake -Hated by the Irish.

LUNDON, NOV. 25. The appointment of Sir Henry to the governorship of Queensland will be cancelled. Blake has been a singularly fortunate fellow. He began life as a dry-goods clerk in Dublin. He had a great taste for private theatricals, and can sing an Irish ballad with great effect, whether comic or pathetic. He captured the daughter of Bernal Osborne, a great wit in his day, who had married a rich Irish lady. Osborne and his wife hated each other for years. She was a stiff, puritanicals woman, and he was a downright man about town and an irreverent joker. When Disraeli died-his last illness was long-every body wanted to know what Osborne-would say. "He overdid it, like everybody else, was the cynical comment of Osborne, who at the time used to frighten people out o clubs by his death's head face, and who soon followed Disraeli to the grave. Mrs. Osborne, like Lady Lytton, once wrote a novel in which her husband was the villain. But she was very wealthy, and occasional. ly they kept up appearances. When their daughter married Blake she was disinherited. Her sister is the Duchess of St. Albans, and it was thought that she should have done better. But Blake fell on his face. When Buckshot Forster was ruling Ireland Blake became one of the coercion magistrates, and he used to tell tales-real or false-of how he and his wife had to wait up alternate nights with a loaded revolver lest he should be assassinated. After Forster fell Blake was sent to the Bahamus, then to Newfoundland, and is now set down for Queensland, which is one of the very best things in the colonial service. It was thought that he, with his comic songs, and Lady Blake, who is very pretty and is a wit like her father, would have woke up the antipodes, but the Queensland politicians have an Irish vote to consider, and the Irish all bate Blake.

LOST IN THE WOODS.

A Young Man's Sufferings Prom Cold And Exposure-Tramping Many Miles.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 27. -On Thursday, Nov. 15th Nov., a young man named Walter Clarke started from E. Jeffrey's, in Faraday township, with the intention of going through the woods to F. Barker's, about a mile off, and then to L'Amable. He went, but nothing was heard of him for the next three days. To fully realize his situation, it must be understood that the centre of the township is a blank, for, the ton. No more durable or well-toned instrument in Canada than the G. M. WEBER UPRIGHT. 120 acres of land here there is neither. house or a road for many miles. On leaving Jeffrey's Mr. Clarke travelled too far to the He travelled a great many miles that day, in all directions, till nightfall It rained heavily, and he got under a rock for shelter, but got thoroughly wet through. To add to his misery, he had no matches wherewith to make a fire. He started early next morning, and late in the day, after a fearful tramp, succeeded in striking Johnston's lumber shanty, at the south-west end of Faraday, about 7 miles in a bee line from where he started, and where he arrived thoroughly exhausted.

CLEVELAND ON TARIFF REFORM.

He is Still Harping on the Question-The Message to Congress.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28. - A Washington special to the Times says it is understood that President Cleveland's message is a vi gorous document, and still keeps to the front the doctrines of tariff reform which he advocated a year ago. The message, it is said, will go into the question upon the new light thrown upon it in the late campaign, and will urge an educational policy on the part of the democratic party upon every occasion on the floor of congress or in local and state campaigns. The president takes the position that there is no other course to pursue. I'wo years ago, in his message, he called the attention of congress to the necessity of reducing the surplus by a reduction of the revenues, but said then that it was for congress to say by what means those ends should be accomplished. As corgress did nothing in response to his message of last De cember, he took the subject in hand himself, and gave what he considered the democratic doctrine, not only as it was understood by him but by the recognized leaders of the democratic party. DONE UP BY DRINK.

A Murder and Horrible Death Have Been Reported From Hatifax.

HALLFAX, N. S., Nov. 28, -Two revolting tragedies from drink are reported to day. Eliza Nixon, aged 35, wife of Thomas Nixon, blacksmith, drank herself to death, leaving a family of little children. At the coroner's inquest a woman swore the deceased drank "a pint and a half of gin a day." This evening William Summers, an old soldier, got drunk and beat his wife. She ran into a next door neighbor's to escape his ferocity. Summers then smashed his stove and all the furniture, followed his wife and continued to beat her in the neighbor's house. This was objected to by Frank Norgraine, the neighbor, and the two men clinched. Summers got his grip on Norgraine's throat, and when he let go the latter exclaimed "My God, I'm dying," and rolled over and died. He was a respectable man, aged 55, a native of Sweden. Summers is a drunken scamp of 35. He was arrested.

The Saving the Motor on a Large Scale | quarters at Detroit. Would Be to Ocean Travel-It May, of Course, Be Another Keely Motor of Which Less May Be Thought When More is Known About It-Result of an Experiment,

The Secor propeller Eureka was launched at Brooklyn, N.Y., on Saturday. The boat and machinery have been entirely rebuilt, and all indications point to the entire success of the new system of marine propulsion. The Eureka is 100 feet long over all, has an extreme width of twelve feet, and a depth of six and one-half feet. Her draught is four and one-half feet aft and three feet forward. Her displacement is about sixty. five tons. A bulkhead divides the messer amidships. The bow is tastefully fitted up as a cabin, and the machinery is placed aft, immediately against the rudder post, and dees not take up more than twelve square

The machinery is unique. In Mr. Secor's system the propulsion is effected by the direct reaction against the external water of the gaseous products of successive explosions of fuel gas and air issuing from sub merged tubes. The machinery consists of a series of heavy steel cylinders, the ends or muzzles of which are open and in direct contact with the water sarrounding the vessel. These cylinders contain no internal machinery whatever, but are filled with air and any inflammable gas or hydro-carbon exploded by the agency of electricity, and which forces the vessel forward or back ward at will. Reversal in either direction is effected by opening and closing suitable gate-valves at each end of the cylinders. The continuity of action is obtained by means of a number of chambers from which the discharges occur, not simultaneously, but in well-defined rotation.

In addition to the cylinders are several devices for the automatic admission of air and of the soil, which is stored in a tank over the cylinders. There are also mechanical appliances for atomizing or vaporising the oil. The electrical spark which causes the combustion is generated between two electrodes, which feed and regulate automatically, and are so arranged in pairs that should an accident happen to one it is im, mediately thrown out of circuit and automatically replaced by its perfect mate. The current is derived from storage battery.

()ne of the ocean racers of to-day consumes about thirty five thousand tons of coal annually, but out of this vast quantity only about 5 per cent. is applied in propulsion or effective work, the remaining 95 per cent. being a dead loss, divided as follows

Loss by general radiation and draught Loss by radiation from cylinder and unused latent heat in steam. Friction on machinery and slip in screw.

Total 95 This new application of power is consider. ed by engineers to be no longer in its experimental stages. Fifteen months ago Mr. Secor obtained tangible results. He pro pelled his boat forward against an ebb tide, running at the rate of six miles an hour, and by these trials showed conclusively that the direct application of the products of com-

The Events Among Royalty.

LONDON, Nov. 28. - The Princess of Wales, still a handsome woman, with her son and daughter, recently arrived from Denmark, after the occasion of her father's jubiler, started from Dover for London and Sandringham, where festivities celebrate Alexandra's birthday. The Prince of Wales is not giving up his hunting. Sir Morell Mackenzie teils him to ride more and travel less by rail. The prince has a stud of hunters, which cost him $50,000 a year.

Warning of the White Cans.

Tolebo, Nov. 28 .- The White Caps have extended their operations to north-western Ohio. All over the trees near the home of ex-Governor Foster at Fosteria, was discovered yesterday a notice warning all men who are in the habit of getting drunk and abusing their families and failing to provide for them, that they will, unless they amend their ways, receive a visit from the White Caps. Similar notices were found in other towns.

Young Reed's Suicide,

MONTREAL, Nov. 23 .- Young Reed, who suicided here. was formerly a lieutenant of the 18th Regiment of Foot, got into a woman scrape in London, went to South America, and finally drifted to the North-West. He arrived here three weeks ago, got acquaint ed with the Lydia Thompson troupe, and became infatuated with Flora Breerdon, who on Saturday refused to marry him. He then went into his room and shot himself.

Another Crank at Large.

Paris, Nov. 28.—Duleep Singh is in Paris negotiating for the sale of his jewels, which are on exhibition. He will buy an estate in South Russia. He stated in an interview that he was on extremely friendly terms with some of the Irish leaders, and that he had received offers to act conjointly with them when the time arrives. He believes himself a prophet, but is evidently a crank.

The Workman's Bill Unpopular.

MR. BLAND HOME AGAIN.

He Comes Back Somewhat Like a Conqueror-Still Troubled With Pain.

Rev. S. G. Bland reached the city this afternoon on the steamer Maud. He was met at the wharf by a number of his friends, who cordially greeted him. He looked a little wan, but this was to have been expected owing to his lack of physical exercise. He was quite cheerful and heartily shook hands with many present.

He walked off the steamer without the appliances so long used, though he had them with him. He handed one to an old esteemed friend saying, "You can have it; struck savagely at Warren, but generally I don't need it."

The Wrecked Canal Boats.

CAPE VINCENT, Nov. 28. - The canal boats wrecked here, laden with lumber for Oswego, had many delays on the trip, hav. ing left Ottawa about one month ago, and reached the Cornwall canal just after the break. They were delayed there three weeks and reached Cape Vincent on Saturday. They had about one million feet of lumber. The wind carried overboard several thousand feet of lumber off the boats, all of which came ashore and has been picked up. The tug Proctor, with two barges from Ogdensburg, reached here at noon to lighter the boats. The lumber will be loaded on cars and forwarded to Oswego.

A DESPERATE PRIZE FIGHT.

The Most Brutal Couffiet Ever Seen in San Francisco-For $1,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28. - Featherweights Jack Havelin and Tommy Warren met at the California arhietic club last night and fought for a purse of $1,000. The men entered the ring at 118 pounds. The betting before the fight was not heavy; and odds in favor of Warren. Time was called at 9:15 o'clock. In the fifth round Warren aucceeded in starting blood freely from Havelin's nose, and his face and body were covered with it. Havelin was knocked down twice by terrific blows on the head. The next two rounds were repetitions of the former. Warren made Havelin stagger under his blows. Blood continued to flow from his nose and from a cut under his eye. In the eighth he gave Warren two ugly blows in the neck and tried for Warren's wind The fight progressed with varying success and Havelin appeared during the next few rounds to be recovering. In the twenty-first round Havelin was knocked down twice and was hardly alle to atrike a blow. Warren was fresh, the only digfigurement being a swollen lip. Havelin presented a pitiable appearance. His lip and eyes were terribly swollen, and blood poured from his face and body. In the twenty second round he was knocked down once, and in the next round five times. In the twenty fourth round Warren sent him to the floor six times. He came forward for the twenty fifth, but was hardly upon his feet b fore Warren sent him under the ropes. He again stood up only to be knock. ed under the ropes a second time. This time he made an effort to rise, but was only upon his knees when time was called and the referee awarded the fight to Warren.
