New Styles Introduced for Boys and Girls. The Real Little Lord Fauntieroy Suit, the Battenberg Overcoat and Other Novelties.

There are new styles in dress for the little men and women as well as those of larger growth. Numbered with decided novelties for little men of 3 to 7 years is the "Real Little Lord Fauntleroy" suit shown in the annexed cut. This picturesque costume may be made in black or colored velveteen, velvet or plush. The broad silk sash and lace collar worn with this suit adds decidedly to its

LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY.

COVERT COAT. THE BATTENBERG. The covert coat, illustrated in the same cut, is well adapted for boys and youths, being at one and the same time comfortable, stylsh and neat in effect. The Battenberg overcoat is intended for boys from 3 to 8 years of age. It is trimmed with a border of astrachan and military braid. The cap worn with it is of cloth, trimmed with astrachan. Many of the little girls' costumes are in good style. One for a girl of 11 is made in the directoire style. The material is a terra cotta Amazon cloth. The front is of plush, with box plait and and silk sash. The back is the long directoire style, and has two double plaits, fastened with buttons on each side. A jacket bodice, with revers of plush, and coat sleeves with large directoire plush cuffs. Another costume, for a child of 7, is made of reseda tinted vigogne cloth. The back of the bodice is made with three broad plaits in the Norfolk style. The front of the bodice is pleated and turned back, with broad band of a gray tint woven into the material. The sleeves are puffed at the top, and have broad bands of gray for the cuffs. A round skirt, gauged on the bodice and fastened at the side with ribbon bow. The edge of the skirt is finished with a broad band woven in the material. The new smocks, with ba; fronts and kilted skirts, with loosely tied sash, will be much worn by girls of all ages this winter.

In the cut here given is illustrated a plaid woolen frock for a little girl of 5 to 7 years. The skirt is plain in front and has box plaits at the back. The plaited bodice is of red cashmere and the sash and corselet are of red sitk. The sleeves are also plaited.

Features of the English Cowns. As a rule, the skirts are all made with long straight folds, and no over draperies; they are by no means scanty, but are well set out at the back, panels of either braiding or plaits at the side. The novelty in the bodices is the triple front-viz., the bodice itself cut with revers. Under this is a low moire or cloth waistcoat, like those worn by men with dress coats, and the waistcoat proper. But many variations of braiding and fur trimming are rung upon them. Green and black is a favorite combination; very dark green mostly. One such costume had a braided waistcoat, then a low moire black waistcoat, and braided revers to the bodice, the front of the skirt richly ornamented with wide and narrow braid. The bolice had a habit basque. Quite original and different from most of the other models is a gown in soft wool of two shades of reseda; the front loose, draped in classic fashion from the left shoulder, and bordered with handsome gold galon, worked in green and gold cord. This was all of the darker shade. The lighter appeared in the vest and in the side plaits on the skirt, where were some more green and gold galon. Pink happily combines with green, and this tender tone has been introduced as panels and waistconts into another dark green gown, the pink braided and appearing at the cuffs; the braid used was gold. Tweed gowns are the medium for displaying handsome braidings, and are useful, effective and durable. The guards' colors, navy blue and red, are well worn this season, as in most other years. A dark red gown had the all round basqued bodice covered with horizontal rows of inch wide braid, tapering at the waist and ending in loops at the point of the basque. This is a style which diminishes the apparent size of the waist. It is carried out on the skirt with similar loops and close set horizontal perpendicular rows of braid are carried all round the skirt to the depth of a quarter of a yard.

While the tendency to brooches of regular form is stronger than it was last season, the new goods are represented by delightful conceits in the way of brooches, flower pins, fly pins and lace pins that are confined to no restrictions as regards their outlines. Cats have appeared as designs for ornaments, including brooches and scarf pins. Cats of silver with Rhine stones for eyes and gold cats with eyes of diamonds are in request, so are cat's eye stones cut to represent a cat's head and set in gold or silver frames. Flower pins appear to be as popular as ever. There have appeared not only the pins representing a single flower, but a branch of blossoms or a bouquet in which a variety of flowers appear. Round branches of flowers have also made their debut in the world of fashion. Pansies of natural size are the fashion now; the petals are beautifully formed in enamel, and the gradation of the varied |. tints are most faithfully given. Sometimes one sees three large parma violets tied up with gold threads and having dewdrops of diamonds on their petals. The edelweiss is admirably copied in dull enamel; so is the morning glory and a number of other favor-

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE.

New and Pretty Ideas That May De Helpful in Christmas Fancy Work. Christmas gifts begin to be the subject of consideration with many ladies who manufacture themselves the tokens of remembrance presented to their friends. Those who are engaged in this work may find something helpful in a few suggestions here given.

It is rare to meet with anything new in pincushions, but one lately devised is original. It is in the shape of a crescent moon of yellow plush, across which is placed a raised black satin bat. The pins are stuck around the moon, which is flat, and the whole is suspended by silver cord.

Those who paint could hardly make anything more dainty for a housekeeper than a set of finger bowl doilies painted on bolting cloth. These should be exactly six inches square including hem or fringe,

A late idea in night dress cases is to make them of soft Oriental silk, the lining either quilted, plain or elaborately embroidered. One recently made was of terra cotta silk worked in filoselle and gold thread, in lighter shades of terra cotta and blue. The case was the usual oblong shape, but in the center there was a diamond of velvet with small pieces in each corner, and across the diamond and across the opening there was a ruche of soft, pinked out silk. They are also made in signs all over.

An attractive scrap bag can be made with four strips of any prefty material you have cut one end of each to a sharp point and line with suitable material; join the pieces with the seams on the right side and bind with any nice flat braid or ribbon. Finish at the top with a plaiting of ribbon and at the bottom with ribbon loops, and suspend with ribbons. Velveteen of good quality bound with ribbon in pretty contrasting color looks

Elegant and quite new in the way of the still popular "crazy patchwork" is a quilt recently made, in which the colors used were restricted to gold, white and cream only. All the pieces were worked with gold filoselle and joined together with feather stitching of pieces being all worked by the maker and her friends in half a yard square sections, Beveral friends worked one section, inscribing' their names on one scrap, their favorite flower or some device on others, adhering all the time to gold filoselle. Every section was neatly joined, and when the quilt was complete a band of gold colored plush about a quarter of a yard wide bordered it all around. The lining was of gold colored sateen. The effect was extremely good, and the study of it most amusing. This may be a hint to some patchworker.

A Novel Portiere.

The beautiful curtain shown in the illustration is painted in water and bronze colors on coarse linen. The illustrated description of the model originally appeared in a recent

A BEAUTIFUL CURTAIN. This curtain is equally suitable for a portiere or wall decoration, as it can be plainly stretched like tapestry on stair landings, antercoms, etc. The pattern embraces luxuriant foliage anudst large waving poppies and hemlock flowers. The black leaves have the lights set on in gold, and the entirely gold flowers have silver lights. The painting is done with a stiff brush; the colors must be laid on very thickly, and it is therefore advisable to bend the linen a little forward to prevent them running on the loose material. Instead of bronze color, the worker may mix gold and silver powder with bronze tincture, but as it dries very quickly only a little should be mixed at a time. The curtain has the full width of the material mather more than a yard and a half); it is meatly three yards long, exclusive of the fringe (hulf a yard broad), made of the frayed out thread of the stuff, regularly knotted together. For this purpose the threads are divided into groups, an inch apart, which are twice crossed and then simply knotted.

The Buffalo Moth. The so called buffalo moth (Anthrenus scrophularian is an insect which has only in comparatively recent years become known as a pest to carpets, furs, etc. It probably derives its popular name from the fact that the larva is a thick, brown, bairy creature, laid by the perfect beetle. The beetle itself is a smak brown insect about one-eighth of an inch in length and of a mottled light gray, red and black. When this insect has once established a foothold in a house nothing but the most energetic measures will eradicate it. The carpets should be all taken up and sprayed with benzing and afterward thoroughly aired. All the cracks in the floor should also be sprayed with the same substance, and in relaying the carpets strips of tarred roofing paper should be placed around the borders of the room.

How to Choose Ducks and Geese.

Young ducks and geese are plump, with light, semi transparent fat, soft breast bone, tender flesh, leg joints which will break by the weight of the bird, fresh colored and brittle beaks and windpipes that break when pressed between the thumb and forefinger. Buch is Miss Carson's test in marketing.

Household Hints.

Keep linoleum clean by wiping daily with. a damp clot .. For thorough cleaning som housekeepers use hot water and a little soda or sapolio.

Cream is more easily whipped whan moderstely cold and not too fresh, that skimmed from the mak of the night before being about

Clean zine with kerosene oil. Clean copper with turpentine and fine brickdust; soda is also good.

Fat from mutton, lamb, geese, turkey or ducks will give an unpleasant flav r to my thing with which it is used, and many good cooks consider that its best place is with the soap grease.
