this afternoon. The exhibition is the best that has ever been held by the association. A look over the stalls will convince the visitor that the not congratulate the members of the jury | His Position is Now Intellerable-Lord ladies of St. Andrew's are deligent and skilful workers. On the work table are many curiosities, besides numerous splendid specimens of ladies' work. Mrs. Mackie and Mrs. Dr. Fowler preside at this department. A canopy of flags add to the delightful appearance of the goods displayed. Mrs. Craig and Mrs. Cochrane direct the operations of about one hundred assistant lady waiters at the tea table. The bill of fare is very choice.

An attractive point is the flower table. It is packed with some of the most beautiful gems mother earth can produce. Misses H. Hamilton and Davis are the superintendents of the bower.

The cake display is elegant, and is attended by Mrs. A. Ross, Misses Strange, Harold, and L. Begg.

The heaviest and fattest geese and turkeys that have been seen in this district for a long time can be purchased at the poultry table, in charge of Mesdames Taylor, Leslie, and H. Wells.

Fruits of all description are exposed to view in a most tasty mannner. Mesdames | men but he saw nothing in the contention. Harkness and Gibson manage this table. They are artful saleswomen and make their business pay.

Persons needing candies call on Misses Minnes and Patterson and are supplied with pure goods. Something new is the dairy department. This table is well stocked with fresh butter, eggs and milk. The display is an excellent one, and everything is kept in good order. Sales are made rapidly. The eggs were nearly sold as three o'clock. The maids are: Misses Thompson, Maggie Spankie, A. Greenwood, R. McIlroy, A. Polly and A. McBride.

The pickle and preserve depot is in charge of Misses Fraser and Hamilton.

The stationery or variety stall contains some interesting articles, including the photograph of Rev. Mr. Mackie. The ladies in charge are Minnie I. Spankie, E. Mowat and B. Fowler.

An excellent programme has been prepared for this evening.

They are Greatly Excited, And Not So Without Any Good Reason.

Paris, Dec. 12.-Last evening exciting scenes among the small investors discussing the prospects of the Panama canal company around the company's offices and in the Place de la Bourse. It was rumoured that the company was likely to obtain an advance of 40,000,000 francs on its Panama railway shares. This, it is estimated, will enable the company to meet engagements until the commission, which it is rumoured will be sent to Panama, shall have come to a decision.

Paris, Dec. 12.—Several newspapers say if the issue of the Panama canal loan proves a failure, the government, in conformity with the proposal of the extra parlirmentary commission, will introduce a bill in the chamber of deputies, to enable the company to meet its engagements. A new company, under the leadership of the Credit Foncier, will then purchase the canal.

A MOTION VOTED DOWN.

The Closure, or Gag Law, is Applied-They Won't Hear the Facts.

LONDON, Dec. 12.-In the house of commons last evening, on the report of supplies, Mr. Labouchere moved a reduction of £5,000 in the Irish constabulary vote. He condemned the employment of constables to collect evidence for the Times. Mr. Balfour protested that the chairman had ruled that it was inconvenient to discuss such a matter in connection with the estimates. The speaker said that such a matter was only relevant if it referred to the misconduct of constables. After speeches by Messrs. Dillon and Tanner Mr. Balfour, amid cries of "No, no!" from the opposition, moved the closure, which was carried 141 to 39.

In regard to Christmas presents or New Years' gifts so much dissatisfaction and jealousy has been created in the past and profits are so small it has been decided not to give any.

JUDGE PRICE DWELLING ON THE TREATMENT OF CRIMINALS.

He Asked a Grand Jury to Consider the Subject of Convict Labour ... Its Sees No Force in the Contention That Crime Should Prevent Men I rom Working-Should We Have a "Country Gentry"in Prison ?

Yesterday afternoon, at two o'clock, the county court opened with Judge Price on the bench. The grand jury was sworn in as follows: John Irvine, Kingston town ship, foreman; Robert Atcheson, Bedford; G. F. Ashley, John McLean, Pittsburg H. M. Baitlie, R. Beaupre, E. Ferris, John Gray, R. Montgomery, J. B. McIver, G. McMahon, Kingston; W. Black, Hinchinbrook ; Henry Bolton, John Dunlop, J. M. Fair, John Fowler, W. G. McGrath, Kingston township; S. Charles, Wolfe Island Buckley Lake, Liv. Molarland, Portland LOUGH TOWN ledge, John Switzer, Loughboro; Norman Scott, Kennebec. Silence was secured and the address was proceeded with. Judge Price said he could on the lightness of their work. There were four cases to come before them, but they were light affairs. He urged them to hasten through the work as the civil docket was a light one. He advised them to isit the charitable institutions. He was sure they would find that excellent work was done in them, that they were entitled to the support of the public. In the goal there was a larger numbe of prisoners than usual. There was an increase in some crimes in the city and county. Dounkenness in Lingston was also on the increase; when this was so crime in some form increased. He asked the jurymen to visit the peni tentiary and closely examine its workings and form an opinion upon a subject that is becoming very prominent, whether it is desirable to employ prisoners at profitable labor or keep the idle, lazy vagabonds as "country gentry." The present style of living in prison had saused the numbers in them to be largely increased. There were those who claimed that convicts should not be employed in work competing with honest He pointed out to the farmers that they were the most interested in this matter. They were the producers and the ones upon whom the burden of the maintenance of the fellows fell. Would they allow the criminal classes to remain non-producers and non sustaining? This was the question and very soon the parliamentarians, from public pressure and sentiment, would have to take a stand on it. The manufacturing classes were in favor of the country meeting the expense and making the prison places of idleness. The judge pictured the comforts and conveniences provided for convicts. manner not enjoyed by a large number of the working classes outside. It was unfortunate that where millions were invested in capital account so many men were deprived from sustaining themselves while men with wires and families had to support convicts in luxury and idleness.

They were fed, clothed and housed in a They could be made to not only sustain themselves, but to be a source of profit to the country. The late warden of the penihis own resources he could make the institution a profitable concern. The matter had been tested in the United States. Contracts were abolished, and the men exercised like pet animals with the result that the judgment of men of value was crying out against the system, because lack of employment was damaging the health of the prisoners, was driving them into insanity, was making them useless as citizens, graduating them into permanent criminals, and wrecking them body and soul The proportion of workers in prison to those in honest work was so small that any particular employment could not affect the general state of trade in that line. In the interests of the public the criminal classes should be employed, because it was unjust to injure their

Legislation would be speedily required on the point, so he urged an opinion one way or amother. There was no body of men to whose opinion more weight would be given than that of a grand jury selected from the best classes of the community. They should state their views clearly and well so that they could be used by those in authority. They had the

WILL PHELPS COME HOME!

Salisbury to Change Front. NEW YORK, Dec. 12. - The Tribune's London says: "Sundry more or less improbable rumors about the American minister have lately found their way into print, and others may be heard in private. A telegram, or what purports to be a telegram from New York, says it has been known there for some time that Mr. Phelps is not comfortable in London since the Sackville affair. The Sackville affair has no difference in Mr. Phelps' personal relacions with the British government, or with any mem ber of it. They have always been cordial, never more so than now. If all goes well he will remain here till his successor is appointed by President Harrison. But all will not go well it Lord Salisbury persists in his notion of not replacing Lord Sackville during President Cleveland's administration. If the British legation at Washington be left in charge of a third secretary it would not consist with the dignity of the United States to retain a minister at London. Mr. Phelps will, in that case, ask for leave of absence and go home. Thus far no official intimation has been received from Lord Salisbury, nor is it known whether he will keep to his first purpose."

MR. WIMAN ON CANADA.

He Talks on the Advantages of Commercial Union-Canadian Loyalty. NEW LORK, Dec 12.—Erastus Wiman lectured in West Newbrighton last evening to the Kill Von Kull workingmen's club on Canada's relations to this country. "Here are 5,000,000 of people," said he, "whose only hope of successful development and perfect growth lies in a union between themselves and the nation alongside of them, the greatest nation that the world has ever seen, yet so pronounced is the sentiment in Canada against annexation that to-morrow it would be utterly impossible to elect a constable to office, much less a member of parliament, who openly advocated this measure." Mr. Wiman attributed this to an admirable and self sacrificing feeling of tentiary said on one occasion that if left to loyalty similar to that which had held this country together in its time of peril. He then pourtrayed the advantages of commercial union, which would assimilate the two countries. If this produced annexation well and good. If it did not it would produce all the advantages of annexation.
