CENTRAL FAIR.

Opening of the Show To-Morrow. On the eve of our annual Exhibition or Central Fair, we cannot but hope tha the result will be fully equal to anticipa tion. The ties and connections with the Provincial Show being virtually sunder ed, it should be the aim of the city county people to make it answer to them all that its parent enterprise was in th past. We are very glad to notice so much interest taken in the matter, and we certainly expect the best results First, we do fervently hope that fair weather will attend the Show. We confess that we are always haunted by ap prehension about this time, especially as our experience in the past has been such as to create these fears. Last year, our readers will remember, overcoats and umbrellas were all the rage and the most popular thing going, barring the mud This year the prospects are more encouraging.

The entries have been pouring at a lively rate, but goods will not arrive until the morn ing, so that it will be afternoon before order will be made out of chaos, and re gularity out of dire confusion. The Judges will be placed at work immediate ly, and we fancy the majority of the awards will be made on the first and opening day.

Of the local industries there will be good representation, and we are given to understand the produce of the district will be offered in fair display.

Of all the features by way of amuse ment the band competition will be most interesting. But two bands are entered at present-the city band and that "A" Battery." The competition will be on Thursday, but the bands winning the money are required to play on Friday afternoon as well. Ho for the fair ground! will be the prevailing exclamation for the next three days.

From the start the Cuthbert had it all her own way, and walked away from the rest of the boats until coming home to the winning flag, when a violent squall came up, which caught her out in the bay, and threw her back, the Dauutless and Madcap being under the lee shore. He mentioned many instances of the presence in this world of such, who were

The devil exults in nothing more than in the belief of His non-existence, and the greater the scepticism the more active his labor. But what are God's purposes in respect to man? What prom ses were given to man, to be fulfilled on His second coming? Eminently those given to the seed of Abraham. He callthe Patriarch to Him and promised him a land which which would be the everlasting inheritance of himself and his seed, and through them the families of the earth should be blessed. God did not mean that Abraham and his children should have a monopoly of these blessings, but that they should be a fountain out of which streams of living waters should flow. He referred to the four promises made to Ahraham, and then spoke of the aptitude of some men to substitute Israel for the literal Church. If on the day of Penticost the Christian Church took the place of the Jewish then the Jew should have disappeared from history, he should have mingled with the nations until no trace of him could be found. Was it so? On the contrary they heard of the Jews in the market places, in the exchanges, in the most prominent places on the earth, they were often men controlling public sentiment, and yet as a race they suffered the judg ment of God, and were looked upon as a despised and exiled people. But they are to be gathered together, for Christ so promised it to the son of David. (11 Samuel.) Gabriel said unto Mary (Jesus theatre of those wonderful works by being the son of a virgin) that unto her should give THE THRONE OF DAVID.

It was then in ruine, the twelve tribes had been scattered by the Roman Empire, and hence he never when he rose from the dead out for the Lord's inheritance, and if David's throne, but the throne of Almighty God. He has not sat on the throne of David, but he will do it. When prophets shall be fulfilled. But there was another class of promises which are tound in the New Testament. In conand ascension into Heaven there came a new dispensation. The Holy Ghost came from Heaven, and the old covenant other. They saw in the first promise the Christian Church held a higher place THE JEWISH NATION.

The Church of the body of Christ, the wards unfolded. First then was the higher glory that will belong to the tribes of Israel. He then directed attento the Lord's remarks on the eve of crucifixion, that He should be identified with them and He they with Him, that the world might know wherein they had called Him. For eighteen centuries God was gathering the bride of His Son, and by and by, at lineament complete, and the second man shall have his bride, his Eve. When he does come he will raise the dead, change own glory, and the marriage of the lamb shall be celebrated. This to us is most cheering news, a glorious hope of coming joy, that Christ will be with the Church of his making. Those whom God has gathered together, and engrafted into the body of his Son, shall be lifted up before angels, archangels, seraphims cherubins in the presence of the Eternal Man. But all this cannot be accomplished without judgment. And before the Kingdom of Christ shall be established, he predicted the
