

TERRIBLE CRASH! Sugars Down Again MONTREAL TEA HOUSE.

T. J. Donoghue & Co Have just received and offer for sale 500 Boxes Lager Pilsener...

TO ALL THE GENTRY OF KINGSTON! THOSE WHO HAVE SECOND HAND CLOTHING TO DISPOSE OF WILL please leave their orders with WILLIAM DAVID...

WILLIAM DAVID, DEALER IN New and Second Hand Goods OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

CHEAP JOHN For Sale, ONE LARGE FAMILY CARRIAGE and two Spring Wagons and Buggy.

FOR SALE, ON the Southwest quarter of Lot 24, in the 5th Concession of the Township of Kingston...

WM. DAVID Owner The Cheap Broker, Princess Street, Kingston, July 3rd, 1877.

KEEP WARM! STOVES! IN GREAT VARIETY AT McKelvey & Birch's, 23 BROOK STREET.

STOVES! For a Hall or Parlor Stove CALL AT MY NEW STORE, PRINCESS ST., OPPOSITE BUTCHER'S STORES.

COAL OIL AS CHEAP AS ANY HOUSE IN THE TRADE! All orders connected with the trade promptly attended to. GEO. CLIFF.

STOVES! STOVES! COME AND SEE THE Crown Jewel, AT WM. DUNN'S

BEFORE BUYING HALL STOVES CALL AT HORSEY'S HARDWARE HOUSE AND SEE THE "QUEEN."

K. & P. RAILWAY WOOD YARD, On Hand 3000 Cords of First Class Hardwood!

COAL THE undersigned are prepared to deliver Coal of the best quality, SCREENED AND DRY.

R. Crawford & Co. COAL DEPOT James Swift, T. LAWRENCE WEAVER, KINGSTON Wholesale and Retail Dealers in All Descriptions of Coal

THE undersigned are prepared to deliver Coal of the best quality, SCREENED AND DRY.

COAL THE undersigned are prepared to deliver Coal of the best quality, SCREENED AND DRY.

COAL THE undersigned are prepared to deliver Coal of the best quality, SCREENED AND DRY.

COAL THE undersigned are prepared to deliver Coal of the best quality, SCREENED AND DRY.

COAL THE undersigned are prepared to deliver Coal of the best quality, SCREENED AND DRY.

COAL THE undersigned are prepared to deliver Coal of the best quality, SCREENED AND DRY.

COAL THE undersigned are prepared to deliver Coal of the best quality, SCREENED AND DRY.

COAL THE undersigned are prepared to deliver Coal of the best quality, SCREENED AND DRY.

Daily British Whig. WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCT. 24, 1877. GOLD in New York 3 o'clock 102 1/2

For a Good and Cheap Overcoat of any color or quality go to A. A. LEVEY'S Clothing Emporium, Wellington Street.

CITY AND VICINITY POLICE.—William Crindis, drunk, fined $2 or 10 days. William Procter, Thomas Lindsay, and P. O'Neill, drunk, were dismissed.

SEPARATION.—Napane wants a separation from the county. By all means let her separate. The county need not feel bereft; it can get a hearty welcome back to its old headquarters here, or to new ones at Newburg.

WELCOME.—Mr. Justice Moss was warmly welcomed on his arrival here to-day. He is very popular with the legal fraternity.

STUDENT'S SEPER.—The students of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons will enjoy themselves at a temperance supper which is to take place at the Anglo American Hotel on Friday evening at 8:30 p.m.

GREAT SALE.—The extensive offering of real estate, at the instance of the Bank of Commerce, is attracting attention not only in Guelph but all over the Province as well. The tenders will be received on Saturday.

METEOROLOGICAL.—The weather has become fair and warm in the lower lake region, and fair in the St. Lawrence and Maritime Provinces. Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours, fresh to brisk southerly to westerly winds; fair to cloudy weather.

THE "CITY OF JERUSALEM."—The tug Chiefstar, and pumps and lighter, have arrived back from the Sisters, where the propeller City of Toledo had run ashore. It is said the boat was not in as bad a position as was reported; that she has proceeded to and Ogdenburg that her cargo escaped uninjured.

COMPLIMENTARY.—Judge Moss has passed a high compliment upon the Court House, so commodious and well fitted for judicial purposes. In his address to the Grand Jury to-day he spoke very highly of the improvements which have lately been made in our public buildings.

THE CATTLE TRADE.—The Waterloo Times states that Mr. A. D. Williams, of Belleville, N.Y., and Mr. Morrison, of the Cape, have purchased and taken over from Canada, within the past four weeks, 1,900 sheep. They are also buying and shipping cattle and hogs. Two thousand sheep, purchased on the Canada side, have been received at Cape Vincent within the past few weeks.

THE "JOURNAL."—The first number of the Queen's College Journal for this session was issued to-day. It appears in a new dress, and is printed upon toned paper. Our spry little contemporary is certainly an established institution, and is conducted with remarkable ability and success. We trust it will fully appreciate the mechanical work upon it which is done at the Whig office.

PASSED DOWN.—The following vessels passed down through the Welland Canal yesterday: Lincoln Fall, Great Bay, Kingston, lumber; A. Muir, Chicago, Kingston, barley; Prince Alfred, Muskogon, Kingston, lumber; Maunilla, Chicago, Kingston, wheat; Arabia, Chicago, Kingston, grain; Antelope, Milwaukee, Kingston, barley; Lily Hamilton, Chicago, Kingston, wheat; Two Friends, Chicago, Kingston, wheat; Hydrabad, Chicago, Kingston, wheat; Oriental, Toledo, Kingston, corn.

PRINCIPAL GRANT.—The Queen's College Journal reports shortly to hear that the University of Glasgow, in recognition of Mr. Grant's advancement in the principality, has conferred upon him the Doctor's degree, as ex-principals Snodgrass was presented with a doctor's hood shortly after he was appointed in 1864. Our contemporary suggests that Principal Grant's assumption of office should be marked by an epoch at Queen's, he should be received with all proper ceremony and honors, and no doubt the Chancellor and Professors will unite in extending a fitting welcome.

NEWPORT.—The great railroad route between Newport, Rhode Island and New York, known as the great shore line, or Wickford route, has now become an established fact. During the past season this route has done an immense business, considering the state of the times. The greatest portion of the fashionable pleasure travel between New York and Newport has passed over this route. George McMiller, President of the Wickford R.R. and Steamboat Company, and his associates of the connecting lines, via New York, New Haven, New London and Stonington, deserve praise for the manner in which they have conducted this route.

NIAGARA.—The New York papers and the Press generally, on both sides the Atlantic, during the past year have very frequently spoken editorially of the great Suspension Bridge at the Falls of Niagara, which spans the river just below the Falls, from Porter's Grove to the Clifton House. The Fall Mall Gazette, London, (Eng.) says: "The swags of this enterprise is mainly due to the Hon. Delos DeWolf, of Oswego, N.Y., who is the President of the Niagara Falls Suspension Bridge Company. Mr. DeWolf is a live man; his energy and enterprise know no limit. He personally superintended the construction of this bridge, and saw that the best materials were used, and that it was put together in the best and most substantial manner and it is safe to say that the new Suspension Bridge at Niagara Falls is one of the strongest and safest structures of the kind in the world. It is the main thoroughfare for travel between the United States and Canadian side of the river, for foot passengers and vehicles, and is universally used by the visitors to the Falls; hence it has become an established fact that the new Suspension Bridge is a grand success. It is well as otherwise. All who visit the mighty cataract will find that the best view of the entire Falls will be obtained from the new Suspension Bridge.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BANK OF MONTREAL.—On its being known that the Directors of the Bank had declared an interest of six per cent. for the half year the stock in the Montreal market advanced 2 per cent., but there was a falling off to the extent of 1 per cent. towards the close. A despatch states the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Pictou has been suspended on account of irregularities.

WIND WAFTS.—The Avizora opened to-day. Tenders will be received until noon of to-morrow for the damaged portion of the schooner Niagara's cargo of grain.

Next Monday evening a meeting will be held for the nomination of officers for the Y.M.C.A. for the ensuing year. Mr. Galloway, Misses Strachan and McIntyre, Misses Northmore and Cook stand as played at the Grangers' entertainment, Oatavari, last evening.

Manion, who gouged out the two eyes of McDonald, of Ottawa, was sentenced to five years at Kingston. A young man over in Oswego county dropped his hair. His sweatshirt, a pretty $10,000 girl, went back on him for it. This is the first crop that has been a failure this year.

Mr. D. B. McTavish, formerly of Kingston, has finished his law studies, and put out his shingle on his own account. Mr. McTavish is to be congratulated upon this stage of his legal career, and we entertain hopes of his attaining a brilliant success in the future.

The U. S. Mails. The inefficiency of the U.S. service between Waterford and Cape Vincent is being considerably talked about, and not unreasonably or impertinently so, considering the injury done to the public interests, but less in Canada than in Jefferson County, by the circumlocution and delays which the mails are subjected. Our neighbors are a very good people, but they cannot afford to sneer at our postal system. The discussions back and forth have resulted in greater efficiency in the sorting and changing of mails at Cape Vincent, but a great want has yet to be supplied. There should be no stoppage at all at the Cape, and a mail agent will yet, some day or other, have to be placed on the route from Waterford. No intermediate delivery is made, and if a letter be posted at Cape Vincent for the nearest station it has to travel the whole line to Waterford to be sorted and sent back again, for aught we know, by a dog cart service, journeying over three-fourths of the line a second time. And yet there is a contract for the carrying of the mail with the R. W. & O. Railroad, and two express trains run each way daily. Once a mail conductor was placed on the Cape Vincent branch, but the P.O. Superintendent, alarmed at the bold stroke, drew him off again without a fair trial and on very slight enquiry into the feelings of the people. Even now one of the mail conductors of the Ogdensburg branch "lays off" daily at Waterford, when he might as well be continued on to Cape Vincent, and have that rest which the Government is so solicitous about, and for which indulgent travelers and Kingston correspondents are made to exercise their patience.

Infant Baptism. Last evening Rev. Mr. Galbraith continued his lecture on Baptism in the basement of the Synagogue Street Church. His subject was the circumcision of Abraham, as recorded in Romans iv., 11th verse. He showed in a very clear and satisfactory manner the connection between circumcision and baptism, that both rites were established by God as the sign and seal of His acceptance of those upon whom the rite was performed. Abraham received it for his faith, but his children of eight days old, who could not believe, received it the same as Abraham, and were accepted by God. He would therefore challenge those who disbelieve in infant baptism to show any good reason why infants should not be baptized because of their want of faith, when the Jewish infants of eight days old could acceptively receive the rite of circumcision, which was only given to Abraham for his faith and obedience. He pointed out from Scripture how baptism must have been performed upon infants, from the number of households that received baptism from the Apostles, because it would be very singular if there were no children in any of these families that became Christian. He showed very clearly from the early writers of the Church, such as Justin Martyr, Irenaeus and others, that baptism was considered as indispensable, and took the place of circumcision in the Church. Even Tertullian, one of the early fathers, who was opposed to infant baptism, admitted that it was an observance of the Church, and should be performed in case of sickness.

Pittsburg. Presentation.—On Thursday evening last several young gentlemen assembled at the residence of Mr. John Stuart, Pittsburg, for the purpose of presenting his daughter, Miss Emily Stuart, with a valuable gold ring, as a slight testimonial of their appreciation of her services as what shall we call it, pianist or organist as the young lady is a proficient in both instruments—during the late concert in Pittsburg. Since the early age of twelve years Miss Stuart has been the organist (unpaid) of the Middle Road, Pittsburg, Methodist Church, and has faithfully fulfilled her duties, despite her delicate health, without any remuneration, and consequently for one evening's attendance at a different place, and where she undoubtedly would have officiated at the instrument, without any expectation of reward, this must to her have been a pleasing surprise.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BANK OF MONTREAL.—On its being known that the Directors of the Bank had declared an interest of six per cent. for the half year the stock in the Montreal market advanced 2 per cent., but there was a falling off to the extent of 1 per cent. towards the close. A despatch states the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Pictou has been suspended on account of irregularities.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BANK OF MONTREAL.—On its being known that the Directors of the Bank had declared an interest of six per cent. for the half year the stock in the Montreal market advanced 2 per cent., but there was a falling off to the extent of 1 per cent. towards the close. A despatch states the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Pictou has been suspended on account of irregularities.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BANK OF MONTREAL.—On its being known that the Directors of the Bank had declared an interest of six per cent. for the half year the stock in the Montreal market advanced 2 per cent., but there was a falling off to the extent of 1 per cent. towards the close. A despatch states the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Pictou has been suspended on account of irregularities.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BANK OF MONTREAL.—On its being known that the Directors of the Bank had declared an interest of six per cent. for the half year the stock in the Montreal market advanced 2 per cent., but there was a falling off to the extent of 1 per cent. towards the close. A despatch states the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Pictou has been suspended on account of irregularities.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BANK OF MONTREAL.—On its being known that the Directors of the Bank had declared an interest of six per cent. for the half year the stock in the Montreal market advanced 2 per cent., but there was a falling off to the extent of 1 per cent. towards the close. A despatch states the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Pictou has been suspended on account of irregularities.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BANK OF MONTREAL.—On its being known that the Directors of the Bank had declared an interest of six per cent. for the half year the stock in the Montreal market advanced 2 per cent., but there was a falling off to the extent of 1 per cent. towards the close. A despatch states the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Pictou has been suspended on account of irregularities.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BANK OF MONTREAL.—On its being known that the Directors of the Bank had declared an interest of six per cent. for the half year the stock in the Montreal market advanced 2 per cent., but there was a falling off to the extent of 1 per cent. towards the close. A despatch states the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Pictou has been suspended on account of irregularities.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BANK OF MONTREAL.—On its being known that the Directors of the Bank had declared an interest of six per cent. for the half year the stock in the Montreal market advanced 2 per cent., but there was a falling off to the extent of 1 per cent. towards the close. A despatch states the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Pictou has been suspended on account of irregularities.

THE WEMPLE HOUSE.—This restaurant, which has risen to a place of "fame" in its class very rapidly, has been renovated and improved, so that nothing is lacking in the line of comfort or appearance. The House is a young hotel in itself, five new rooms having been recently fitted up in addition to those already in use since the opening. As far as a public house can possibly be, the Wemple House is select and private, and though it has the largest and most popular run of custom yet attained here, its respectability has not once been compromised. As a lunch house it is a great convenience.

BASE BALL.—The base ball season of 1877 may be said to have ended. During the past season the absence of professionals was a marked feature, and a step in the right direction. Although there may not have been so many close, exciting games as might be expected from professionals, yet there were many good games and excellent play exhibited on several occasions.

In the early part of the season a number of gentlemen, admirers of the game, purchased a pretty and costly flag of silk, for which the three local clubs, St. Lawrence, Earls, and Beavers, had to play each three games, and the Club winning the greatest number of said games was to be declared the champions, and be presented with the flag. The result was that the Beavers, who need not feel at all ashamed of their play, were the first to fall to the rear. The old St. Lawrence appeared to have luck, but not the very best of play, on their side from the beginning, and the Earls, who at one time thought of "throwing up the sponge" on account of the absence of some of their best men, determined to make a desperate effort, and by excellent play overcame all obstacles, and at last tied their opponents, each having won four games. It now remains to be seen whether the St. Lawrence or Earls are to be the champions. It is said that the latter club objects to play any more this season, and the latter is eager for the fray, the difficulty being about the appointment of a day to suit both clubs, but as this will be the last and decisive game of the season, it is thought that employers, whose patience and kindness may have been overtaxed by letting their employees away, much to their inconvenience, on several occasions the past season, will not refuse them an hour or two on another occasion, for the purpose of completing their game.

A meeting of subscribers to the Championship Flag, was called for last night at the Anglo American, when it was decided to appoint Saturday next at 2:30 p.m. for the decisive game. If the weather should prove unfavorable the game must be played on the first fine day afterwards, and the club which fails to put in an appearance will forfeit the game.

It is expected that next season this fine game will be revived with renewed interest, as steps are being taken to have an enclosed ground, second to none in Ontario.

It would be well if London, Guelph and other places would take the hint from Kingston and have not only purely local teams, but a regularly organized society and play their own games without the assistance of paid men. Local clubs would then more frequently play each other friendly visits without the fear of being completely scooped out.

Modern Criticism. "In this classic composition the appropriate language, giving himself up to fancy, might have been to have strayed away from the true path which seemed to be pointed out by the opening bars, and to have lost himself in a wilderness of wild flowers, till he found himself suddenly brought back by the volucellos, viola and the clarinettes, which quietly at first, but afterwards with more self-assertion persisted in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

The above is a choice clipping from a recent criticism of the Mendelssohn, and we reproduce it in order that the readers of the Whig may obtain an idea of the beauty of a scientific knowledge of music and metaphors. It is only a rare individual, endowed with rare ability, who can think in this plain, practical, common sense age, while listening to the performance of a band of musicians, no matter how cultured, of "straying away from the true path and losing himself in a wilderness of wild flowers," or it is every one who has had the privilege of seeing violoncellos, violas, or clarinettes displaying their self-assertion, and "persisting in recurring to the original idea."

MORE BIGNAMY.—Another Kingston Man in Disgrace. Yesterday a middle-aged man, whose appearance resembled a tramp, but whose address revealed better breeding, was locked up in the Western Station, Toronto, on a charge of bigamy. He said his name was George Newbold, and lately living in Toronto, he had been a brakeman on the Grand Trunk. Mrs. Newbold says she became acquainted with Newbold fifteen years ago at Kingston, where she married him, she at that time having considerable money. With part of this she set him up as a patent medicine dealer. Newbold soon after emigrated to Kingston, and was only released by his wife paying $300. They then removed to Ottawa, where her husband continued in the medicine business, perambulating the adjacent country, making his headquarters in the Capital. He went to Carleton Place, telling his wife he was going to establish a business there. While there he kept company with a young woman in that village, and afterwards they lived together as man and wife, but whether married or not is not known. From here he stole a horse, for which he lay in Ottawa jail and Central Prison six months, in 1872. Mrs. Newbold came to Toronto where she has since resided, supporting herself and two children by a patronage agency. Meanwhile her husband having been discovered he took up quarters at Trenton, as Dr. Stuart, and married a girl named Nichols, a year afterward deserting her and her child. Newbold turned up in Toronto the other day, and his wife seeing him avoided a contact with him. Subsequently she informed the police who were unable to find the man. Yesterday she saw him coming towards her and she ran in the direction of the police station near at hand. He followed her, and when she gained the door she pointed him out to a policeman. Newbold ran, but was secured. The prisoner says his father was a Major in the British army, and that he always treated his wife as a gentleman should.

ASSIZE COURT. The Fall Assizes opened this afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the arrival of His Lordship, Mr. Justice Moss, from Belleville. Mr. Senkler, of Brockville, will arrive to-night.

GRAND JURY. The names of the Grand Jurors are Samuel Baker, Adam Barr, Charles B. Booth, Robert J. Carson, Robert Carroll, Patrick Conroy, Arthur H. Dawes, Samuel Donaldson, Robert M. Ford, Robert Gibson, Samuel Harper, Thomas Hogan, Thomas Keyser, Edward Law, Thomas Lomon, David Lillis, Thomas Merritt, Dennis Moriarty, S.C. McGill, Miles McKim, John McNeilly, John Rutledge, Keigh Spafford, Royce Spoor. CIVIL DOCKET.

Ridford v Dawson, slander; Rogers for plaintiff, Britton for defendant. Schmitz v Snider, seduction; McGuire for plaintiff, Snook for defendant. Gilmory v King, Company v Calvin, rating dispute; O'Leary for plaintiff, Rogers for defendant.

Dolan v Topping, slander; McGuire for plaintiff, Britton for defendant. Graham v Sills, crim. con.; McGuire for plaintiff, Britton for defendant. [These five cases were held over from the last Assizes, but we understand that all of them have been privately settled.]

Daly v McCartney, trespass; Bawden for plaintiff, Britton for defendant. Foster v Thompson, seduction; Britton for plaintiff, McGuire for defendant. Russell v McGuire, seduction; McGuire for plaintiff, Britton for defendant. Britton v Roskidge, action on account; Britton for plaintiff, Preston for defendant.

Britton v Shortell, ejectment; Britton for plaintiff, Sneyter for defendant. Gilmory v Miller, ejectment; Britton for plaintiff, Doroche for defendant. Dow v Waggoner, action on account; Britton for plaintiff, Rogers for defendant.

Ferguson v Whalen, ejectment; Muir for plaintiff, McGuire for defendant. Rutledge v K. & P. RR, action on account; Muir for plaintiff, Britton for defendant. Edwards v Smith, negligence in setting out a fire; Dickson for plaintiff, Muir for defendant.