AN INTERESTING COMPARISON.

In 1893, the province of Ontario, with a population of 2,111,979, spent for legislation $138,924, or 6½ cents per head of the population. For the same year Quebec, with a population of 1,488,586, spent for legislation, including pensions, $210,868, or 14.16 cents per head of its population, which is more than twice the rate of expenditure in Ontario. Quebec has a legislative council, although Ontario, with a bigger and wealthier population, has none.

There are ninety-one members in the legislative assembly of Ontario, and only seventy-three in that of Quebec. For 1893, the indemnity paid to the members of the Ontario assembly amounted to $56,102.40, or an average of $616.50 in Quebec, the indemnity paid was $50,137.40 or an average of $823.80.

Not only the permanent officers of the Quebec assembly are twice more numerous, but also, for the same position and the same services, they receive much higher salaries than those paid in Ontario:

	Ontario.	Quebec.
Speaker	$1,500	$3,000
Clerk of House	1,800	2,400
Assistant Clerk and Clerk of Routine	1,500	1,600
Librarian	1,600	1,800
Accountant of House and Stationery Clerk	400	1,600
Sergeant-at-arms	600	1,600
Housekeeper and Chief Messenger	700	800
	$8,100	$12,800

QUARREL AMONG THE BLEUS.

The conservatives of the province of Quebec are at variance in regard to the needs of a gerrymander. This word implies something which Quebec does not want, nor any other province, and should not have, namely, a carving of constituencies, without regard to shape and size, and with the one evil design in view, of manipulating the votes of the people to partizan purposes and ends.

La Minerve, representing the French bleus, demands this, and the Gazette, representing the English bleus, opposes it. The conflict between them is very interesting. La Minerve is quite candid in alleging that parliament has the power to alter the boundaries of the constituencies as it pleases, which the Gazette admits, but argues that this readjustment should be conducted according to a given rule, and that this rule in the past has been applied even ten years, following every new census of the people.

There was an adjustment in Quebec in 1892, but it does not appear to have satisfied the bleus. It was not one-sided enough. It did not sufficiently hive the rouges. An attempt was made in that direction, and some constituencies which had been going liberal were expected to go so no more. But the bye elections removed that delusion, and nothing will do La Minerve but have a new deal in the gerrymander here. The Gazette will not hear of this, alleging that it is better to tolerate the present order of things, the consequences of failure to get what was aimed at in 1892, for another seven years than introduce a redistribution measure next session "which will violate the constitutional principle hitherto scrupulously respected, and whose continued observance is absolutely necessary if partizan gerrymanders are to be guarded against."

It's a pretty quarrel our conservative friends are having, and the liberals are content to let them have it out, feeling satisfied that it cannot affect them no matter how it ends. A gerrymander cannot be carried in the next session, so that there needn't be any worry about it.

A BREEZE BY THE SEA.

The New Brunswick legislature has been dissolved, and the new elections are on. Polling takes place on the 16th, so that the disturbance caused by this sudden appeal to the people will be of short duration.

The legislature had not lived its full term by about a year, but Hon. Mr. Blair, addressing the people in a manifesto, informs them that it is not expedient that provincial and federal matters should become mixed, as they would be if the dissolution were postponed a little and occurred about the time the dominion house was going to pieces.

Mr. Blair looks for the endorsement of his government, (a coalition one, and the only one that has existed in Canada for any length of time), on the ground that it has been economical, that it has aimed at certain reforms and brought them about. He enumerates some of these reforms thus:

"The abolition of the official residence of the lieutenant-governor; abolition of the legislative council; reduction in the number of members of the executive, and of the salaries of ministers and officials, and other economies. The main portion of his manifesto relates to the finances, and not without some warrant, too, takes credit for having succeeded in avoiding the large increase in the cost of government which liberal rule has brought to all the other provinces.

"It has not escaped your observation, that during recent years there have been such changes introduced in the methods of transacting business, and in all matters of clerical and official detail that the cost of almost all civic, municipal and corporate government has increased.

"An examination of the public accounts of the dominion, as of those of our sister provinces, will almost without exception, show a considerable, and in some instances an immense increase in this class of governmental expenditure.

"It would not, therefore, have justified complaint if our expenditure in this direction had also grown, but we take pride in the fact that that class of expenditure which may be designated as controllable is not greater, but is less by thousands of dollars annually than it was when we took office."

"There is nothing of exciting or particularly absorbing interest in the premier's appeal to the electors," says the Mail and Empire, "and the contest promises to be waged largely on personal and local grounds." Moreover, "it may throw no light particularly upon the probable results of the federal fight next year." This suggests two conclusions, that Mr. Blair's government is pretty sure to be sustained, and that it will not do to admit that this must be accepted as an indication of liberal power in New Brunswick. That would never do.

TWO VIEWS OF A MAN.

Mr. Girouard, who has been appointed a judge of the supreme court, is complimented upon all sides as one who is eminently qualified for the position and one deserving, in all respects, of the honor it confers. In passing, however, it is interesting to notice the grounds on which two distinguished authorities admit that Mr. Girouard has got his deserts.

The Mail and Empire finds, in the study of his political life, an event in regard to which he demonstrated his independence and influence. With the Metis uprising, which Louis Riel led, many of the French sympathized. Some French members of parliament, and supporters of the government, threatened to make trouble unless their representations in respect of the case were listened to. They had a secret caucus, prepared their ultimatum and fired it at the premier. One of the leaders of the revolt is now a member of the government, and showed his particular fitness for office by surrendering then, as he did on a recent occasion, and at least swallowing his opinions if he could not swallow himself. Mr. Girouard was not one of the revolters, but, we are told by the Mail and Empire, studied the issue so fully as to reach an independent view of it, and maintain it throughout the exigencies of that great crisis. Therein he established himself firmly in the public esteem, and he has held it throughout his long public career.

Hon. P. Mitchell regards the elevation of Mr. Girouard as specially fitting for an entirely different reason. Mr. Mitchell, writing to the Montreal Herald, recalls the occasion when the Grand Trunk railway was having a bill passed through parliament which possessed some very objectionable features. Mr. Mitchell says he opposed the measure with all his might, but Sir John Macdonald's interest was enlisted, and it seemed as if he was about to be overpowered by the influence and pressure of the government. But Mr. Girouard arose, backed by Hector Cameron, of Toronto, and insisted that justice should be done, and the result was that the bill was defeated.

"It is rare," writes Mr. Mitchell to Mr. Girouard, "in these days of party-ism to find anyone courageous enough on an occasion like that, inspired by pure sense of justice and fair play; and you could have had no other possible reason to openly oppose the action and influence of Sir John and the government as you did on that occasion; and perhaps outside of yourself and the other gentleman named, there was no other one of a powerful party that would have taken such a step and laid themselves so open to a possible charge of disloyalty to their chief; but, as I stated before, you seem to have been inspired with the desire to place justice and fair play beyond that of party, and you did it, and instances like this at the present day are exceedingly rare amongst party men."

All this is a tribute to Mr. Girouard's political independence. What of him as a lawyer? He has stood at the head of his profession, and so he becomes an adornment to the bench.

THE DUKE AT OTTAWA.

An Ottawa Editor Taken For Miss Vanderbilt's Lover.

The Duke of Marlborough was among the visitors at the great fair at Ottawa last week. He was expected a day earlier than he arrived, and the young ladies of the capital of every station and set were curious to see the young man to whom Miss Vanderbilt had pledged her heart, hand and millions. The duke was consequently a very much expected visitor. In the afternoon, on Thursday, a sharp eye was kept on every knight and cabinet minister, and even real live members of parliament were watched, moreover, in case they might have in tow the Duke of Marlborough. The genial member for Brockville, Hon. Mr. Wood, was noticed walking through the grounds talking most interestedly to a dignified and rather handsome young man, who answered the published descriptions of the duke. Some Know All, from near Westport, Ont., who knew Mr. Wood, said the young man talking to him was Miss Vanderbilt's lover, and in a few minutes a crowd gathered. Finally a number of aldermen were attracted, and they persisted in telling the strangers that Mr. Wood's friend was Mr. Grace, an Ottawa editor, but they would not have it, and the crowd increased until the young man and his friend passed through to the grand stand.

A Beautiful Spot.

One of the neatest pamphlets of the season is that issued from the Pine Forest inn, of Summerville, S. C. It is a mammoth hotel, beautifully situated in a region of pines twenty-two miles from Charleston, with frequent and rapid train communication. The climate cannot be surpassed the world over. The congress of physicians three years ago at Paris declared that Summerville was one of two places on the globe for those suffering from pulmonary diseases to find relief in breathing pure, dry air, fresh from the health-giving pines. Nervousness and insomnia yield quickly to this atmosphere. Canadians seeking a winter resort cannot do better than select Summerville and its Pine inn. The owner is F. W. Wagener, of Charleston.

Principal Grant Criticised.

Winnipeg Tribune.

We take pleasure in telling Mr. Grant that his letters have not affected public opinion in this province one iota. If they have had any effect it has been to consolidate and strengthen the sentiment against a return to the detested and detestable system. We regret to add that Dr. Grant in appearing as a disingenous advocate of concession and compromise in the hour of trial has lowered himself in the eyes of the country.

Failure Impossible.

When nerviline—nerve pain cure—is applied. It matters not of how long standing, its penetrating and pain subduing power is such that relief is almost instantaneous. Nerviline is a nerve pain cure. This statement expresses all. Try it and be convinced.

Yellow Oil used internally relieves and cures croup, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis and similar complaints. Used externally it cures rheumatism, lumbago, sprains, bruises, falls, chilblains, frost bites, cuts, wounds, insect bites, lame back, neuralgia, etc.

MILES ON YACHT RACING.

He Talks About The Sport And Treatment Of Lord Dunraven.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Yachtsmen who witnessed the race between the half-raters Ethelwynn and Spruce IV. agree that they have received an education on small boat sailing. Commodore E. C. Benedict, of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian yacht club, which offered the challenge cup, said at the club dinner the other night: "We have started in an infant class of yachting, but our experience this year will put us far ahead. Our friend Brand has brought us over a new brand of boat and he is well up in the techniques of yachting. Among the other speakers was General Nelson A. Miles, who was to-day named commander of the army of the United States. He is a close friend of Lord Dunraven. He said: "My sympathy is with our brothers on the other side—they who have challenged. I have a letter from Lord Dunraven written a few days before he sailed. The whole of the letter indicates that we have mistaken him. 'I am sorry,' he says in his letter, "that I cannot come to Governor's island on account of this unfortunate business and of this correspondence, which is so distasteful to me. For I should like to come and talk with you about the west, the noblest part of this country. I shall come back.' I think," continued the general, "that you have treated Dunraven rather badly. He is a good member of society and he thought he had a ship that was the best in the world, but it did not turn out as good a ship as we had. But we must give the English the credit of being a stalwart nation and my sympathies are with them, because they have challenged again and again. I hope that they will take the cup over there sometime, but I hope it will be only when their boat has sailed three times the course just ahead of our boat."

INTERESTING INTERVIEW.

An American Will Make Arrangements With a Canadian Firm.

OTTAWA (special) Sept. 30.—An American who has been here interviewing the members of the government of private business, has left for Toronto, where it is understood he will try and make an arrangement with the Dodd's Medicine Company of that city for the establishment of a manufactory of Dodd's Kidney Pills in New York state. He declined to specify the locality. During his stay in Ottawa he has been investigating the now celebrated case of G. H. Kent, who was saved by this remedy when in the last stages of Bright's disease, and has satisfied himself of the genuine nature of the case. He asserts that the medicine is now universally used throughout the state.

KILLED BY ELECTRICITY.

A Resident of Joliette, Que., Grasped a Live Wire at a Fire.

JOLIETTE, Que., Sept. 30.—A fire which broke out in the tannery belonging to Mr. Henricheon at an early hour Sunday morning totally destroying that large establishment, together with the Henricheon residence adjoining, both valuable pieces of property. The loss will be between $15,000 and $17,000. There is some insurance but the amount cannot be learned.

A sad fatality occurred during the progress of the fire. An electric light wire had been broken by the firemen, and the wires were hanging down into the street. August Lancot, while at work at the pump, unthinkingly grasped the wires to place them out of the way and was instantly killed. The electric light station was telephoned to at once and the current shut off.

The deceased gentleman leaves a large family in destitute circumstances.

Hamilton's Butternut Pills for Dyspepsia One a Dose.

It is too often forgotten that impaired digestion, flatulence, sour stomach, eructation of gas from the stomach, all have their origin in a disordered condition of the liver. No remedy can equal Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut for the cure of all diseases of the liver, stomach and bowels. They are vegetable, mild in action, and safe for old and young under all circumstances. Sold by all dealers in medicine and at Polson's drug store.

What Corbett Promises.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Corbett after his exhibition in New York starts for Texas to go into training to be in readiness for his fight. The champion said, regarding the probable change of date, that he will enter the ring with Fitz at any time with twenty-four hours notice. "I am always ready to fight," said Corbett, "It makes no difference to me how soon the fight comes off; the sooner the better for me, and I may say that I will knock Fitz out in ten rounds."

Sick Headache.

Biliousness, constipation and all liver and stomach troubles are quickly cured by taking Wade's Mandrake Liver Pills. One pill a dose. 25 doses for 25c. Sold only at Wade's drug store.

HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL.

The Good Folks of Sharbot Lake Had a Fine Time.

SHARBOT LAKE, Sept. 30.—The Methodists of Sharbot Lake had a grand harvest home on the 27th inst. The ladies did everything in their power to make it a success, and right well did they succeed. Such tables, loaded with meats, cakes, pies and almost everything that the most delicate taste could desire, are seldom seen even where affairs are considered a decided success. When the ladies of this popular "summer resort" take matters of this kind in hand and go at it with a will, they get things up in first-class style. They well deserve the most hearty vote of thanks received at the close of the day. We next pass on to the popular chairman from the limestone city, Arthur Clown. He deserves unqualified praise for the manly way in which he filled the chair. He is cheerful as a boy but has the knowledge that experience alone can give in guiding a public meeting and keeping everybody good natured as well as himself. Several speakers were present and all gave speeches of a high order and interested everybody, but it takes that cool-headed clergyman, Rev. H. Visser, to draw the money out of the people's pockets and cover that subscription list in aid of the "parsonage fund" to the satisfaction of the trustees. The people say he is a useful man in any community. The harvest home over and a little recreation many were ready for the evening lecture by Rev. Mr. Edwards, of Brock street church, Kingston. The lecture was one of the best ever heard in this county. If somebody hears in the near future that Mr. Edwards is becoming famous as a lecturer it will not surprise at least some of us. He pulls things up by the roots and calls them by their names. He is one of the most practical men that has struck Sharbot Lake. The lecture over and a good night's sleep the people were not satisfied but had a grand ten cent social on the evening of the 28th, and whether you speak of finance or as a social gathering or whatever part you wish the entire affair was a grand success.

The choir of the Methodist church was in attendance in all the services and rendered valuable help. We have reason to be proud of our choir and of Rev. A. J. Lidstone, who is a grand help in the choir and in speaking and in getting things in general ready. He is, taking it all in all, a No. 1 young man.

An Unbusinesslike Customs Law.

Hardware and Metal, Toronto.

It is a law of the customs that if an article has risen in price between the time of its purchase and its passage at the entry port, it shall pay a duty based upon the appreciated figure.

On account of sharp advances in the United States, this law has been particularly irritating to importers. This much, however, is to be said in favor of the law: it works both ways. If an importer can prove that the value of the article has depreciated in the primary market since he purchased it, then he shall be only charged a duty based upon the lower price.

The idea did not emanate from any business man; it is unbusinesslike. It was conceived by politicians to further their ends. It is another Yankee innovation for saddling the people with a tax without their knowing it. As a matter of fact it is only in theory that it works in favor of the importer on a depreciated market. In practice it is seldom, if ever, anything else but in favor of the customs department.

The onus is always upon the importer. If a customs official conceived the idea that since the article passing through was purchased an advance in price has taken place it devolves upon the importer to prove contrary if the official in question happens to be in error; and it usually takes more than an affidavit to do it. But if the market has depreciated and the importers desire to take advantage of the provisions of the law, his task is even greater than in the other direction. Rather than go through the circumlocution necessary to establish their claims it usually pays importers better to let the authorities have their way.

And so long as we have so many professional politicians and so few practical business men in parliament and in the cabinet, just so long may we expect to see the mercantile community bled to meet the requirements of political exigencies.

Rule Of Order Rejected.

QUEBEC, Sept. 30.—Before rendering judgment in the libel case of Angers vs. Pacaud, this morning, Judge Routhier decided a rule of order which had been taken against Pacaud for having reflected on the impartiality of Judge Andrews who condemned him to pay $5,000 in the first instance. Judge Routhier defined the liberty of the press as not being any greater than individual liberty, and certainly not great enough to permit attacks upon judges. If it were otherwise, said his honor, our institutions would be in danger, and society would suffer from the result. The rule of order was rejected. Mr. Pacaud having apologized for the incriminating article published in L'Electeur against Hon. Judge Andrews. The court wished, however, that it be understood that the leniency shown in this case shall not stand as a precedent.

Lament of the Local Editor.

News, news, news! It's enough to give a man the blues. Nobody married and nobody dead; nobody broken an arm or a head; nobody come in to talk of the "scrap"; no one got boozy and started a scrap; no one got run in for taking a horn; nobody buried and nobody born. Oh, for a racket, a riot, a fuss! Some one to come in and kick up a muss; someone to stir up the peace-laden air; somebody's comment to give us a scare. Somebody thumped within an inch of his life; somebody run off with another man's wife; someone come in and pay up his dues; anything, anything, just so it's news.

Lame Back

Or side, try Shiloh's belladon ointment, 25c. Wade's drug store.

If you are tired taking the large, old-fashioned griping pills, try Cartier's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

A GRIST FROM CANANOQUE.

DEATHS OF SEVERAL PERSONS—THE DAIRY SHOW.

Harry Lindley is Doing the Town—Married to a Rochester Gentleman—Preparing For a Masquerade Ball—Steam May Take the Place of Water.

CANANOQUE, Oct. 1.—D. Derbyshire, of Brockville, was in town yesterday. A. Petrie, who has been spending a vacation here, left for his home in Cumberland yesterday. E. J. Fewing, accountant in the Merchants' bank, returned home from Toronto yesterday. W. Haynes spent Sunday in Kingston. The water is out of the canals to-day and to-morrow with short time; also on Friday and Saturday of this week. G. H. Burroughs, Cincinnati, Ohio, addressed the Sabbath school of St. Andrew's church last Sunday afternoon on the occasion of the annual harvest service. Harry Lindley and his big company open a three nights' engagement in the opera house to-night.

James McGivern died yesterday morning at his late residence of consumption. Mr. McGivern has been a sufferer for a considerable length of time. He was formerly employed in the Ontario wheel works. Henry McLean and bride, Pittsburg, were in town Sunday. Miss Mary Ramsay, eldest daughter of Alex. Ramsay, was united in marriage to Mr. Bruine, Rochester, N.Y., last evening at the residence of her father, Stone street. The happy couple left on the midnight for their home, via Buffalo, N.Y. L. Fraid, who spent Saturday in Cornwall, returned home on Sunday last. Messrs. A. F. and D. R. Byers, of this place, left yesterday for Queen's university. G. T. Bishop, Montreal, was represented in town yesterday.

The death of Edward Parmenter occurred on Sunday at his late residence. The funeral takes place to-day. Preparations are being made for a grand masquerade ball, to be held in Turner's dancing hall on Tuesday, Oct. 9th. This affair promises to be a very enjoyable one. The Cosgrove family occupy Turner's opera house this evening. Harry Lindley and his company come under the auspicious patronage of Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Hon. Wilfrid Laurier. Everything is in readiness for the great dairy show which opens here to-day. The display of Jersey cattle will indeed be a great sight. Some of the heaviest animals ever seen in this locality will be on exhibition. With favorable weather the show cannot otherwise than prove a grand success. Already visitors are pouring in from various points near and far, and the town bears an "extra lively" appearance at present.

We understand that two of the factories in town are fitting up their machinery to be run by steam power, because of the lack of the vaporous element. About four o'clock yesterday afternoon every prospect for an initial snow flurry was apparent. A short downpour of extremely chilly rain was the only noticeable result.

SHORT AND SWEET.

Ability is a poor man's wealth.

A rifle-team—a pair of pickpockets.

If you haven't much you can double it by being thankful.

Work to which a man should give his whole heart—courtship.

A pawnbroker's life may not be a wealthy one, but it has its redeeming features.

The man who registers at the hotel at night can be said to be on the "retired list."

Marriage is not one tenth as much a failure as the average summer resort engagement.

Dancing may improve your carriage somewhat, but it is no valuable accomplishment for the horse.

The wife of a Massachusetts minister wears a blue dress on Monday to match her husband's mood.

There wouldn't have been any milk in a cocoanut if some darky man had had the construction of it.

A Pittsburg girl whose lover is a white-washer named Kelsey, always calls him "Kelseymine."

Bright's disease seems to have a preference for great statesmen, and others of the same kidney.

A good many men who are talking very bitterly about the difficulty of getting into a church have never tried it.

If you want to give pleasure to the pretty woman, do not talk to her of her own beauty, but of the ugliness of other women.

An Arkansas lover to his sweetheart: "There is not a globule of blood in my heart that does not bear your photograph."

It is said that "brains will tell." Sometimes they will, and sometimes they will not. Sometimes the more brains a man has the less he tells. It doesn't always answer for brains to tell.

A correspondent asks: "What should a bow-legged man do?" This is a hard question to answer, but when he hasn't got anything else to do, he should be whooping for wider styles in trousers.

WHY WILL

People always laugh when a man on the stage says "damn"?

Girls never get enough candy and ice-cream to satisfy them?

Christian nations not unite to subdue the unspeakable Turk?

A girl christened Mary—sweetest of names—call herself Mamie?

Patti not stop advertising her concert trips as "farewell tours?"

The beanery girl always refer to two cups of coffee as "two up?"

The tobacco chewer sit on the front seat of an open street car?

A man take a seat in a crowded car and allow a woman to stand?

Two young persons sometimes take two hours to say "good-night?"

The hot weather set in just after a man returns from his vacation?

The rain always hold off when you have a heavy waterproof coat with you?

Men keep on consuming summer drinks even when the weather is cold?

Edison not invent a machine for converting the human voice into silence?

Salesmen devote their best efforts selling you something you don't want?

Persons who can't swim deliberately put themselves in danger on the water?

People take out small sailing boats which they do not know how to handle?

Women who are too fat, too thin or otherwise unsightly wear decollete dresses?

Men be so forgetful or careless as to dictate a truly dutiful letter to the absent wife?

Women with wrinkles and baggy eyes wear pink and white clothes at summer resorts?

Bicyclists look as if they were the most miserable creatures on the face of the earth?

Men's tailors always promise to have their work done several days before they know it can be finished?

The girl who has taken her second lesson on the bike prattle about "the delightful sensation of flying?"

How To Use Cottolene

the new shortening, like all other things must be rightly used if you wish the best results. Never, in any recipe, use more than two-thirds as much Cottolene as you used to use of lard. Never put Cottolene in a hot pan. Put it in when cold and heat it with the pan. Be careful not to burn Cottolene. To test it, add a drop of water; if hot enough, it will sizz. Cottolene, when rightly used, delights everyone. Get the genuine, sold everywhere in tins, with trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin. Made only by

The Picnics Are Over.

LAVANT STATION, Sept. 30.—The picnic are over for this season: Presbyterian and Methodist were grand successes. The Adventists of Donaldson's Mills held a picnic on the shore of Caldwell Lake on Sunday, 15th. The day was fine. John McDonald is building a new house here. The South Lavant baseball club visited Flower Station on Saturday and played the North Lavant club. Quite a large crowd witnessed the game, which resulted in favor of the south, this being their second victory over the north this season. Messrs. Boyd, Caldwell & Sons have opened their lumbering shanty at Trout Lake. Hay is very scarce in this locality and is being brought in from Quebec. Burnham Bros. are busy building a store for A. McDonald at the Forks.

Running Sores Cured.

Dear sirs,—I was troubled with running sores on my face which nothing could cure up to the time I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, but after taking two bottles my face was completely cured and it left my flesh clear and sound.—A. HEATHERS, 27 Woolsley street, Toronto.
