Rowson, brother, was groomsman. After the wedding breakfast the happy couple left on a visit to Horatio Day, Harrowsmith.

POPE WINS THE ROAD RACE.

THE RESULT OF THE TWENTY-MILE ROAD RACE.

The Way the Racers Got Off—Rankin Had a Serious Smash—The Features of the Afternoon—The Lively Sports at Rockwood Hospital.

The bicycle races yesterday could not be considered a success from any standpoint. In the first place not more than fifty spectators were on the ground, and secondly, a sufficient number of racers did not put in an appearance to make the events interesting, and thirdly, the ending of the handicap race was not satisfactory, as it is only conjecture as to who won. The first condition may be accounted for by lack of advertising, the second partially from the small size of the prizes and unforseen events, and lastly, from improper starting. The handicap race was called for half-past two o'clock, but the first man did not get away until about twenty minutes past three. Sergt. McIntosh was the limit man, but he had not got half way around the track when his rear tire burst, and he had to return for repairs, occasioning about a half hour's delay. Finally, when he did get off, he succeeded in getting no further than the hill beyond Cataraqui, when his tire again gave way, and he turned about and rode home on the rim. The other men present were sent off, and after the scratch Maud had been gone about eight minutes, Melville Robinson put in an appearance. He was sent off from the scratch without doing the mile on the track, the same as the other riders did, and therein lies the difficulty of deciding just who won the race. Rankin attempted to wheel out of the gate at too fast a clip and his wheel slipped. In trying to save himself he ran into the street car track and smashed the front wheel of his machine completely, besides injuring himself; tearing the flesh badly on the back of his hands and injuring a knee, as well as scratching his face. Of course he was counted out of the race, which is to be regretted, as it was thought he was a winner. The other riders were started on the time here given:

	H.	M.	S.
H. C. Martin	3	30	00
E. J. Pope	3	34	15
M. Robinson	3	31	45

The actual riding time for the twenty miles of these three, the only starters who finished, as given by A. C. Johnston, was as given below:

	H.	M.	S.
E. J. Pope	1	01	44
M. Robinson	1	05	30
H. C. Martin	1	11	15

Adding two and a half minutes to Robinson's time for the mile he should have done at the start of the race, brings his time to 1:08, which allows Pope to win by two minutes twelve seconds. This is only supposition; he might have done better, but it is not likely, all things considered. The time of both is remarkably fast, as a stiff breeze was blowing right across the road, from which they derived no benefit either going or returning.

While the road race was in progress two other races were carried out. There was to have been a third race for policemen, but none of the city's protectors showed up. The first of these was a married man's one mile race, in which R. Watson, Sergt. Boutillier, F. J. Hoag and Br. Simons entered. The last named dropped out at the finish of the first lap, and the first three finished as their names appear. Time, 3:24 2-5. The second event was a soldier's race, and Gr. Burton, S. S. Brooks and Br. Simons entered and finished in the above order. Time, 3:25 4-5.

Sergt. McIntosh was indeed unfortunate, as his tire was punctured on three different occasions. He says he has ridden nearly four thousand miles on the same wheel and yesterday's accidents were the first he had met with.

Rockwood Annual Sports.

The sixth annual athletic sports of the Rockwood hospital for the insane were favored yesterday by excellent weather and close competitions. The championship of the year goes to W. Dohaney, with a score of twenty-nine points. He was closely followed by J. Lawless with twenty-three points. Coxworthy and Gilmour were considerably "in it." Much pleasure was added to the programme by the events open to patients only. Master Charles Clarke made his debut as a mile runner and bicyclist, and won both his events with plenty to spare.

The committee of management deserve much credit for the prompt manner in which the different sports were brought off, the whole programme of twenty events being finished before 4:30 p.m.

The various prizes were presented today. Appended are the results:

Putting the shot—Dehaney, 33 ft. 6 in.; Shannahan, 32 ft. 9 in.; Gilmour, 28 ft. 9 in.

Married men's race (over 35)—Potter, Graham, Marsh.

120 yards hurdle race—Gilmour, Lawless, Coxworthy.

Committee of management—A. McLean, J. Dennison, W. T. Wilson, M.D., J. J. Harty; judges, C. K. Clarke, M.D., J. M. Forster, M.D., J. Gage; starter, W. Potter; scorer, J. Davidson; time-keeper, W. Cochrane.

Another Toronto Press Opinion.

Toronto News: Wilson, Queen's back, is a star. He can make the fastest running kick of any man in the union. When he first played football it was said he was very "lucky." But now it is conceded that there is a good deal more than luck in his phenomenal running kicks.

If "Chickie" McRae hadn't kicked that second goal there would have been a good deal of Queen's money left behind.

Fox and Curtis rushed splendidly for Queen's. Fox is quick as a flash. He would gain ground nearly every scrimmage.

Kennedy, Queen's big center scrimmage man, has the record for playing the ugliest game on Saturday.

Sporting Paragraphs.

The Toronto golf club wants to come to Kingston to have a wrestle with the local players. Arrangements are now pending.

Moffat and another well-known footballist will likely play with Queen's on Saturday against Osgoode hall. These two will materially improve the scrimmage of the local team.

The average weight of Queen's players in Saturday's match was 150 pounds, while Osgoode's went as high as 168. This was quite a consideration in the latter's favor, especially in the scrimmage.

The committee having charge of the bicycle races yesterday has decided to give Pope the time prize, Martin first prize and Robinson second prize.

Fox, the old quarter-back of Queen's team, arrived in the city from Toronto today and will practice with the local kickers for the match on Saturday. He will remain here for the remainder of the season.

Alfie Pierce, the luckiest of lucky mascots, says he never enjoyed himself better than he did in Toronto on Saturday. After paying all his expenses he had two dollars and a half left out of the purse with which he was presented by the students of Queen's.

Queen's football teams had a splendid practice match yesterday afternoon. They realize the necessity of hard practice to win the games Saturday, and intend taking advantage of every hour to get themselves into condition. Jack Elliott's left eye is simply "out of sight." Baker's head came into contact with it in a scrimmage last Saturday, and the result was a long, deep cut, just above the eye-brow, which necessitated it being drawn together by a surgeon. The flesh surrounding the optic is about the color of an old boot. It is completely closed. Capt. Curtis also sports a pair of beautifully colored optics. Kennedy's are likewise "off color."

A constable came up from Hull, P.Q., last night to escort to that city a convict named Bowen, who hails from Ottawa, and has been in the penitentiary here for some time past. He is wanted to give evidence at a trial to take place in Hull within a few days.

Last Day For The Discount.

Yesterday was the clerk's busy day in the water works department. It was the last day on which the discount was given on water rates for the current quarter, and citizens flocked to the office "from early morn till frosty eve" to get the benefit of the reduced rates.

The Bells Of St. Andrew's.

A member of the congregation of St. Andrew's church asked, this morning, whether anything further is to be done in the matter of obtaining a chime of bells for the church. He says that so far as he knows the committee that went to Troy some months ago in connection with the matter has not yet reported.

Great Value in Clothing Made to Order.

Provost, at the New York Clothing Store, Brock street, has decided to sell at close prices all his suitings and trouserings, consisting of Scotch and English tweed, fancy silk mixtures and worsteds, at prices to defy competition. Also great variety of overcoatings in meltons, beavers and serges, also Irish freize. Remember he guarantees a first-class fit.

Almost a Dead Union.

Enquiry was made to-day at to the delegates the local branch of W.C.T.U. intended sending to the provincial convention which opens in Toronto on the 29th inst., when it was learned the local branch was practically defunct. About a year ago officers were elected, but since that time no meetings have been called, and the work the society should do has been more or less neglected.

The Official Programme.

To-day was issued from the WHIG presses the official programme for the inaugural ceremony of the Macdonald monument to be held to-morrow. It is probably as fine a piece of printing as the city has yet produced. The fine tone engravings are given of Sir John, of the monument as now located, of the entrance to the park and of the grave at Cataraqui. A memorial tribute written by Donald McIntyre for the committee also appears. It is a souvenir which every citizen will eagerly secure.

Their Graves Are Forgotten.

Capt. English, R.A., writes as follows to the city council: "There are at present some four or more tombstones, in memory of officers and men of the Royal engineers, Royal artillery, and 83rd regiment, lying in a heap in Aberdeen park, off Queen street. From appearances they have been very recently damaged. As an officer of the Royal artillery, I should be glad to know if the city council means to relay these stones, either in the park or any other cemetery. Until such necessary steps are taken I trust you will be able to prevent any further damage."

A Beggar From Bowmanville.

Albert Mackie, the tramp who promised to leave town yesterday, and was given a chance to do so by the police magistrate, fell into the toils again yesterday afternoon. He had begged enough money, on the strength of his wooden leg, to get intoxicated and forgot his promise to "vamoose." This makes his third arrest in three days. Citizens should turn a deaf ear to his appeals for money, as he uses all he can obtain to buy whiskey. He belongs to Bowmanville, and that town should have the honor and credit of supporting him.

This morning it was decided in the police court that as Mackie could not be depended upon to fulfil his promises to leave the city, he should be escorted by the police to the outer station, and put aboard a train for his home.

It is said that Hon. J. F. Wood is after a senatorship. The Brockville Recorder advises him to take anything in sight, for in all probability the golden opportunity will soon have vanished. The WHIG scribe met a Brockville tory the other day and he said Hon. J. F. would never be the member again. "I and about 200 more tories will not vote for him. The 'Kitley Blues' also are not all for him as in days gone-bye."

The Excursionists Delayed.

The excursionists, who took advantage of the steamer North King's cheap trip to visit Rochester, did not have an overly pleasant outing. While entering Brighton harbor the steamer ran aground and was delayed over five hours and instead of getting into Charlotte between seven and eight o'clock on Monday morning she did not arrive until about two in the afternoon. She left again at midnight and reached Brighton this morning, leaving there again for Kingston at six o'clock. The wind delayed her trip down and she was not expected to arrive here until four o'clock this afternoon.

Patterns To Be Made Here.

Supt. Leigh, of the locomotive works, has written to the mayor and council stating that contrary to a rumor that has been current for some days, the patterns used in constructing this waterworks pumping engine, will, if the firm be awarded the contract, be made in Kingston, and that over $1,500 will be expended for labor in this regard alone.

A Small Blaze.

The fire department was called out last night to smother a blaze in the house of Thomas Cambridge, Sydenham street. A lamp fell on the floor and burst, starting a blaze which was extinguished without the aid of the firemen.

TRILBY! TRILBY!! TRILBY!!!

But It Was a Decidedly Fresh Company That Put It On.

Last evening a large audience greeted, at the opera house, the Trilby company, who promised to present "the sensation of the age." Those who had read Trilby, and the still greater number who had not read it, were alike anxious to see how it would be interpreted by the dramatist, and, therefore, it was one of the star houses of the season. The troupe arrived in the afternoon, not, from Belleville, or even from Parrott's Bay, as was currently reported, but from New York state, probably New York City. This was their first performance and evidently, and making all allowance for lack of full rehearsals, natural to the inauguration of a tour, there was still such an air of freshness about the company that it is safe to conclude, that with the exception of Edmund Drury who played Svengali and Miss Lorraine who played Trilby, they are mere amateurs of a very limited experience. They were unfortunate in choosing Trilby for their experimental tour, as it is a piece requiring the adjuncts of fine scenery and unusually good acting to maintain public interest. Last night the play was tame from the very start, with none of the vim and finish to be encountered in a first-class company, and as a result the audience grew impatient, and the few hisses which attended the fall of the curtain at the end of the second act grew into occasional interruptions in the third act, and in the fourth act there was so little respect paid to the performance that Svengali advanced to the foot-lights and declared the play would not go on until silence was secured. However, silence did not follow and the actors went on with their lines, which, of course, could not be heard even across the stage. Quiet was obtained in a few minutes, however, and the play proceeded to the point where Trilby sang "Ben Bolt" with considerable expression and in good voice, and brought forth the only hearty applause of the evening. At this point act four was cut short, if we use the words of the programme in the incidents—the cut direct. The fifth act was short and was proceeded with without serious interruption till at the last, in Trilby's dying act, there was another outburst of ridicule, the reason for which it would be difficult to understand. The two performers worth singling out are fully equal to their roles, but their support was exceedingly amateurish. This granted, there is still no excuse for the depth and the absolute rowdyism exhibited. The troupe should not go without marks of disapproval, but that disapproval could have been exhibited shortly and sweetly at the end of the acts. There is such a thing as fair play not only to the troupe but to the audience, and we trust that it will be a long time before the conduct of last night's gallery is repeated.

A MODERN EVICTION.

Thomas Derry Sent to Jail Yesterday, His Wife Evicted Last Night.

A genuine "old country" eviction took place last evening on Wellington street between Queen and Barrack. Thomas Derry, sent to jail yesterday for a month for drunkenness, has, with his wife, been living for some months past in a little, rough-cast house, numbered 234 Wellington street. The house is the property of Thomas Dunn, grocer, whose store is at the corner of Queen and Wellington.

The tenants have not been able to keep up payment of their rent and the landlord grew impatient and tired of waiting. Yesterday, when it became known that Derry had been sent to jail for a month, he determined to take possession of the house, and seizing the opportunity when Mrs. Derry had gone out, nailed up the door. The woman returned to find herself debarred from entrance, and, she claims, straightway took legal advice as to the course she should pursue. Whatever the lawyer advised her to do, she returned, broke in the door, and took possession again.

She did not remain in the house for a very long time, but crossed the street to a neighbor's residence. The landlord, determined to put an end to the campaign at once, procured assistance, took a wagon to the house, made his way in, put the furniture out on the street, from where it was loaded on to the wagon, and carted away to a stable where it was locked up. Mrs. Derry was given shelter for the night by a friend, and so the matter stands at present.

A reporter of the WHIG called on Mr. Dunn and was told that the Derrys owed nine months' rent, besides a grocery bill amounting to nearly $25, the total amount of their indebtedness to Mr. Dunn being about $65. They have been given every chance to pay the amount little by little as they were able, but the landlord said instead of doing this they spent every cent they could get for liquor. Their goods were seized by Mr. Dunn some time ago, but the seizure was not executed as he did not wish to be too hard with them. Mrs. Derry, he said, had a house to go to last night when he took possession of his own.

The reporter was shown the books in which the account for rent and groceries was kept, and the total amount was over $64.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

An Enquiry Made.

KINGSTON, Oct. 22.—(To the Editor): Could you give reasons why the Roman Catholic children are not to be among the singers to-morrow at the unveiling of the statue of Sir John? I think the subscription list will show Roman Catholic subscribers, and why not let Roman Catholic school scholars have the same privilege as the public school pupils.—SUPPORTER OF SEPARATE SCHOOL.

Where He Made the Decision.

Sir John Macdonald's entrance to public life has been told by a Kingston lady. Alwington house being damp and cold, Lord Metcalfe, governor-general, moved into the stone residence now owned and occupied by Mrs. Fraser. One evening young John A. Macdonald was a guest for dinner, and afterwards in the drawing room Lord Metcalfe suggested that he should become a candidate for the representation of the city against Anthony Manahan. Sir John there and then consented, and within a few weeks was elected member for Kingston, a seat which he held for over forty years. Thus his political birth-place is within near view of the site of the monument to his memory.

Kingston Veterinary College.

To-morrow morning at ten o'clock the new college will begin its sessions in the collegiate institute building which has been allotted for this special work. Dr. Bell arrived from Erie, Pa., to become the permanent principal and the building up of another useful institution in the city. Students are here from several parts of eastern Ontario, and it is hoped that a great number of young citizens will also take advantage of the classes. Certainly a great many of them need the instruction.

FUNDS FOR THE LINDSAYS.

THE FATHER IN KINGSTON HOSPITAL WILL RECOVER.

He Will Be Disfigured But Not Incapacitated—Mrs. Lindsay and Surviving Children Will Have a House in Flinton—The Aid That Has Been Afforded.

Dr. Kilborn was asked yesterday as to the condition of Mr. Lindsay and he stated that he was getting along nicely. He was quite sure that he would recover. His injuries—large portions of skin being burned off his hands and face—though painful are not necessarily dangerous. They will heal but undoubtedly the poor man will be much disfigured. Mrs. Lindsay has been staying for the past few days with her brother, Robert Lamb, about three miles north of the village of Flinton, but will move with her three surviving children into a little cottage in the village, which has been secured for her, rent free, and there she will remain until permanent quarters have been provided. The poor woman is suffering from the reaction of the awful experiences of two weeks ago, and appears only now to begin to realize her terrible bereavement. Still, for the sake of those that are left to her, she is striving to bear up bravely, and her chief anxiety is to learn of her husband's progress, and to have him once more under her own care. She is, personally, anxious not to go back to the old homestead, for the life there has been very hard and the privations great, but like the loyal and faithful little woman that she is she is prepared to acquiesce in her husband's wishes in the matter, and will consent to no action being taken until he is able to be consulted. Her many friends and advisers in the locality, and those best able to judge, are unanimous in the opinion that it would be better and wiser for them to settle in a more accessible place, nearer to their own people and nearer to school and church.

Rev. Charles Adams, Methodist minister in Flinton, is taking a very active interest in the case, and has done much to further the temporary arrangements for their welfare. He has been appointed by the local sympathizers to administer the family's affairs in the interim, and the funds and goods which have been contributed in the vicinity are in his charge. The clothing and provisions donated through the Globe have been shipped and will reach Flinton as soon as Mrs. Lindsay gets into her little cottage. The Globe's fund has reached $565.75.

Mr. Adams raised the sum of $11 in Flinton. "The sum is small," Mr. Adams says, "but the men are prepared to work when the time comes."

The WHIG's list is still open. Those who have been touched by the sad story should respond, even with small amounts.

THE WIND BLEW HARD.

Navigation on the Lake Suspended for the Time Being.

The sloop Pilot is discharging 3,000 bushels of buckwheat at Richardson's elevator. She is from Napanee.

The prop. Glengarry is delayed at this port owing to the fierce westerly gale. She is waiting to clear for Fort William.

The schooner Glenora will be hauled out on the M. T. Co's ways and rebuilt this winter. She will have an entirely new rail from stem to stern and will be turned out in A 1 condition for the spring trade.

A heavy gale of wind sprung up from the southwest last night and continued to blow all day, making navigation on the lake an impossibility. Vessels that started up the lake yesterday were obliged to run back and seek shelter under the most convenient lee shore.

The str. Bannockburn made a remarkably fast run from here to the canal yesterday. She left here at three o'clock in the morning and arrived at the canal at ten o'clock that night, covering the distance in nineteen hours. She had the schooners Winnipeg and Selkirk in tow, which makes the run all the more remarkable. Twenty-four hours is the usual time for the distance.

Street Railway Happenings.

E. Germain, motorman on the street railway, has left the employ of the company. His place has been filled by W. Mouck, who has charge of the Williamsville car.

The motor burned out in No. 6 car during the big electric storm about a month ago, has been re-wound and will be placed in sweepee No. 1.

No. 17 is jacked up in the barn, waiting for new gears to arrive from Peterboro. When ready for the road it will do duty on the Williamsville branch.

Put Roofs On The Towers.

It is now quite a long time since the roofs were blown off the martello towers on Cedar Island and Fort Henry, and, as yet, there has been no indication of any intention to repair the damage. If the towers are allowed to remain unroofed all winter, they will be hardly worth repairing afterwards. The roofs should be put on, even though the towers are not useful but as memorials of the past. The historical society should take the matter up and the council might ask to have the damage done by the cyclone repaired.

The Last for Tramps.

Hardly a night passes now on which several tramps do not seek shelter at the police station. They spend the night in the cells, and next day make a tour of the city, begging from door to door. Mackie, who was first arrested on Saturday last, had then $4.90 in ten cent pieces in his pockets, which he had begged from citizens. Chief Horsey, in common with the highest authorities on the best methods of dealing with criminals and tramps, advises the lash, if the unwelcome visitors return after having been once warned.

His Comrades' Last Tribute.

Three beautiful floral wreaths and a floral cross have been prepared by florist O. G. Johnston, at the order of the different branches of the Bank of British North America, and which will be placed on the casket as memorials of the esteem in which the late Frederick Brownfield was held.

The tributes came from G. A. Robinson, R. F. Harvey, Kingston; staff, Montreal branch; H. Stekenan, general manager, Montreal; D. Lawson, first agent, New York; staff of New York agency.
