Now how did that law get upon statute book? was it put there by the Puritant by the Goo-Goos, as they call them, was it put there for the glory of God and to ensure a holy observance of the Sabbath? Not a bit of it. It was drafted by Tammany politicians, passed by a democratic legislature, and was made a law by the signature of David Bennett Hill, the democratic governor of

If its purpose was not for the observance of the Sabbath, what was it then? "Aye, there's the rub," with a devilish ingenuity, worthy of the futher of lies himself; it was framed exclusively for the purpose of blackmail, and from the hour of its passage down to the overthrow of Tamnany last year, it was one of the most remendous powers in the hands of the high police officials for the terrorizing and robbery of the ten thousand liquor saloons with which this city is cursed which made their proprietors as virtually the abject slaves of the police as the serfs were formerly in Russia, or our negroes were in the south. Sunday was their great day, and if they wanted to do business they must pay; resistance was useless; it was police tribute or ruin. In financial transactions, the captain of the precinct seldom came in contact with the poor wretches who were being fleeced; an in dividual known as the "wardman" attended to that, and took toll from the gen-

Mr. Roosevelt found these laws on the statute book, just where the demourats had placed them. He had sworn to see the laws oboyed, and did his best to keep his oath; this is the extent of his offence and nothing more. No saloon-keeper complains of police black mail now; no illicit gains are traced to his coffers; be might have perjured himself and saved his party, but he did not do it, so Tammany carried the day. There was great rejoicing at the wigwam as the returns came in on election night; many of the Tammany braves who have been out at elbows and rather seedy for the past year, started in for a regular ghost dance, for

When she entered the Vanderbilt family, from every member, she reseived unlimited kindness. Then came the divorce. It was evident that William K. Vander bilt was not a happy man; he realized that he had made a great mistake in marrying her; she was in no way suited to him, and when the time came he was willing to pay a good round sum to get rid of her. At last came the wedding of her daughter with the Duke of Marlborough. Thousands of invitations were scattered all over the land, many of them people whom she had never seen and who had

I believe that she would have ignored her daughter's father at the church, where he went to give the bride away, if she had dared, and seriously considered taking that office upon herself. The slight she attempted a hateful thing to do, and one that New York society will not readily forget; but those who knew Alva Smith as a girl are not at all surprised, and I heard an old lady remark, who was a friend of the Smith family, "That's just like Alva."

FAINTING SPELLS FROM KIDNEY

A Sufferer for Eighteen Months Cured by South American Kidney Cure. For eighteen long months Mrs. J. Hallman, wife of a well-known flour and feed merchant of Berlin, Ont., was troubled with an 'affection of the kidneys. As illustrating how seriously kidney trouble may develop, the pain in Mrs. Hallman's case would become so severe at times as to cause fainting spells, and it was dangerous to have her left alone in the house. "During all this time;" she says, "I never knew what a comfortable night's rest was. I doctored, and, in fact, tried everything; but nothing seemed to relieve me for any length of time, I saw South American Kidney cure advertised in the local paper, and the case described seemed to be my complaint exactly. I purchased a bottle, and relief came in a few days, and the second bottle cured me of all kidney trouble." Sold by N. C. Polson & Co.
