Convict Farewell Had "Pals" Who Did Not Desert Him.

M. McBriarty, government plumber, and H. Linall, commercial traveller, both of Toronto, came from the queen city last night on the train from which the convict Farewell jumped, in his attempt to regain his freedom. The Report Referred Back.

The court of enquiry that was appointed to investigate as to the condition of the bugles in use by the buglers of the 14th batt., P.W.J.R., found after full inquiry had been made, that five of the instruments are worn out and of no further use. They were, therefore, condemned and a recommendation was made that the militia department be asked to issue new ones to replace them. For some reason which the members of the court decline to make known, the report was referred back to its authors by Lieut.-Col. Cotton, D.O.C.
