> The presumption is, from the way in which the strike ended last year, that these two miserable traitors made a handsome sum then from the different street railroad companies, and they no doubt expected to duplicate the set tlements this year.

Success had emboldened the mercenary scoundrels. There were no its or ands or buts about their propositi as t was the bold, rascally offer of a traitor and a thief to sell out the poor men who trusted all they had in the world to their keeping, who faced starvation and suffered for weeks and were kept from going back to their old places when the opportunity was offered them; but they were held back by the lying reports that the bosses were breaking down and that the victory was won for shorter hours and higher wages. It goes without saying that they have been for centuries the greatest of the world's financiers, and to-day in the fine arts of music, sculpture, painting and acting, they hold their own in every land, and in competitive trials have carried off their share of the world's grand prizes. I only mention this for what follows. We have here an association made up of excellent and worthy people, the sole business of whose life is the conversion of the Jews. For many years past, aided by the money that these good people furnished, missionaries have been maintained at Meru-

A few years ago a gentleman appearus that he wanted. Oh, no. It was the rich merchants and bankers, the menprincely capital, whose names are better known around the world to-day for their magnificent charities than for their great capital, which afforded them the opportunity of obeying the Master's command. He wanted and promised to convert the men who have built hospitals in our midst, who have founded splendid charitable institutions for the widow and orphan and the helpless. What the object was in trying to convert such people as these I could not perceive; people who had been registered as God's chosen for thousands of years. It seemed to me that they were quite good enough to take their chance of heaven with any creed or sect since God placed Adam in Paradise. The new missionary went to work on a good fat salary, and from time to time brought in first class reports, but no Jews. Then reports came naughty things, which a good, pious missionary ought not to do. The result was an investigation, all the charges were proven true, and now the prince of Jerusalem is looking for a job. A still greater sensation was the baptism and reception into the Catholic church of Colonel DeLancey Kane. Colonel DeL. Kane is known in fashionable life as one of the best gentleman whips and club men in New York. He occupies a high seat in the sanhedrim of the 400, for there is no bluer blood than his among the elect, and no great social function is considered perfect without him.

I know a great many people who look upon our fashionable set as a godless, frivolous lot, whose whole life is given to getting up balls and masquerades, breakfasts, dinners and other fashionable functions; never was there a greater mistake; as a whole they are strict in the performance of every Christian the border. duty. DeLancey Kane for the past fifteen years, has been a vestryman of Trinity church, the richest church corporation in the world, and for the last three years has been a trustee of the church. He was baptized by Archbishop Corrigan, assisted by an imposing array of priests. When Colonel Kane married Miss Iselin, the daughter they should be reared in the Catholic church.
