List Save For Distillers. OTTAWA, April 22.-There was a very large attendance in the galleries as well as a large attendance of members in the house this afternoon, owing to the great interest which has been taken in the new tariff.
There was a good deal of preliminary business to be disposed of before the budget

Hon. W. S. Fielding rose to address the house at 4:35. He was enthusiastically cheered by liberal members. He did not waste much time with any preliminary re-marks and at once went into the financial questions of the country. Taking the figures for 1894 and 1895 and comparing them with those of 1895 and 1896 he showed that the revenue collected for the former year was $33,978,129, as compared with $36,118,550; an increase in the latter year of $2.640. 431. The revenue in 1895 and 1896 fell short of estimate of Mr. Foster by $370,-

In referring to the different articles on which the revenue decreased, he pointed out that the consumption of liquor was the lowest on record in this year. The expenditure for 1895 and 1896 was such as to leave a deficit of $330,000, and the deficit of the previous year being over $4,000,000. Coming to the year 1896 and 1897 he said that the revenue to the 20th of April last was $30,254,404. Add to this the same revenue as was received last year from April 20th to June 30th, which was $7,892,251, so that the revenue for the cyrrent year would be $38,146,650. That might be too large a revenue, therefore he would deduct $850,000, which would leave a revenue of about $37,300,000. The expenditure up to the 20th of April last was

From the 20th April to 30th June next the expenditure would be $12,392,949, or in all $37,857,779, so that the difference between the revenue and expenditure would leave a deficit of say about $600,000 or probably a little more. It would be well within a million dollars and probably not more than $600,000. Turning to estimate for the years 1897 and 1898, Mr. Fielding said that the expenditure would be about $38,250,000 and the revenue $37,500,000, leaving a deficit if these figures were correct, although he thought there would be considerable savings, of about $750,000. The national debt would be increased for 1897 and 1898 by about $2,750,000 and for 1896 and '97 by $11,750,000. He next came to what he called a more interesting part of his speech, and that was the tariff changes. In doing so he gave a history of hew protection was first adopted by Sir John A. Macdonald in 1878. He argued that Sir John was no more a protectionist than he, Mr. Mackenzie, was. Sir John adopted it as an expediency so as to attain power. He gave statistics to show that the national policy had been a failure. After doing this he quoted the liberal platform of 1893 and said that by it the liberals were going to stand. From this he proceeded to show that the manufacturers would be benefited more by a revenue tariff than by high protection. The result of the national policy, according to the testimony given by some parties before the tariff commission, was that Canadians preferred buying foreign goods to Canadian goods. That was a terrible arraignment of the tariff. It was, therefore, time that such a change was effected as would encourage Canadians to buy Canadian goods. The time was not ripe for free trade. No manufacturer had any rights invested in the national policy. Still while this was the case there were conditions to be considered beyond the manufacturer. The tariff was going to be a preferential tariff for those countries that were ready to deal with Canada and operating against those countries that

It would give a preference to British pro-Taking up the tariff bill he stated that duties on ale and porter were to remain the same. On all spirits, including whiskey, there was to be an increase of fifteen cents per gallon. It was now $2.25 per gallon and would be increased to $2.40. Champagne was unchanged. Wheat is made twelve cents instead of fifteen cents, Cornmeal is made twenty-five cents per barrel instead of forty cents per barrel. The regulations in regard to the grinding of corn in bond for human food is abolished. The duty of 3-10c, on raw rice is increased to three-fourth cents. The duty on the clear rice remains the same as at

Coming to the duty on coal oil, Mr. Fielding said that the present duty would be reduced from six to five cents, making a reduction of one cent. There is to be no reduction in bituminous coal for the present. It will remain at sixty cents should the duty be reduced by the United States to forty cents, then Canada would do likewise. It is forty cents at present in the United States. It is proposed to increase the duty by the Dingley bill, If the United States would not reduce the duty on coal to forty cents, then Canada would put a duty on athra-

On vinegar the duty is de-creased from six cents to four cents. On per thousand to $3 per thousand. There per thousand to $3 per thousand. There is a duty of ten cents on raw leaf tobacco unstemmed and fourteen cents etemmed.

Mr. Fielding gave notice of a resolution which will reduce the general tariff by one-eighth the first year and one-quarter the next year to all parties giving such fair treatment to Canada as Canada considers it gave to them by this minimum tariff.

Italy enjoys at the present moment the distinction of being the only civilized country in Europe, where it is possible to commit bigamy without exposing one's self to any danger of punishment. Since the institution of the kingdom in 1870, the authorities have insisted that only a civil marriage is legally binding. On the other hand, the church refuses to recognize this form of matrimonial union as valid, and requires the faithful to go through the religious service, venting its displeasure on those who seek any civil sanction to their alliance. The government has repeatedly tried to secure the enactment of a law providing for the punishment of any priest who shall have performed the religious marriage service without the latter having been preceded by a civil ceremony. But the vast body of the people in Italy are Catholic to the core, and would not tolerate any measure which had the appearance of encroaching on the rights of the church. The result is that to-day large numbers of unscrupulous people, take advantage of this condition of affairs to have two wives-one in the eyes of the church and the other in the eyes of the civil authorities. And they can do this without the slightest danger of being called to account or of being punished. -New York Tribung.

A Mighty Flock Of Pigeons. New York Times A flock of wild pigeons so numerous as to recall the hunting stories of days that were supposed to have passed for- and has somewhat the appearance of ever, has taken possession of a grove in Shasta county, Cal. When the birds are on their foraging expeditions, they are said to form a line a mile in length and from 100 to 200 yards wide, while the sound of their wings is like that of a furious storm. At night they gather in a black oak forest, where, over an area of about 160 acres, they seem to cover every twig and bough. So numerous are they that people in the vicinity kill as many of them as they can carry away, doing the work with clubs and stones rather more effectively than with guns. Local ornithologists say the birds are the true wild pigeon once common in Kentucky, Ohio, and Indiana, and afterward often seen further west, though rarely in flocks so large as this one. They are described as not quite a foot long from the tip of the bill to the end of the tail. The prevailing color is a bluish grey, some parts with green and purple reflections, and with two broad and distinct bars of black across the wings. The lower part of the back is white, while the tail is a deep gray, with broad, black bar at the end. The bill is blackish brown, and the legs and toes are of reddish orange. The birds show great uniformity in both size and Making A Surgicul Visit. Many of the stories related of the high spirits, good humor, and the gallantry of the late surgeon Fyfe, who was shot dead while attending to the injuries of captain Byrne, who linger-ed after the horrors of Benin only to die "at home." One of the most characteristic of these anecdotes refers to the period when the future surgeon was qualifying for his profession. He was spending a vacation on board a hospital smack belonging to the North Sea mission, when there came a signal for medical aid from one of the fleet. The sea was too rough to launch a boat, so the young practitioner leaped overboard and swam the distance. He set the skipper's broken leg and remained on board helping the crew till the smack rode out of the gale.

Chill's Splendid Fleet. From Plymouth there has just set sail the most powerful naval squadron that has ever crossed the Atlantic under any South American flag. Its destination is Valparaiso, and it constitutes the recent additions to the fleet of the Chilian republic. The squadron is composed of ten vessels, namely, the armed cruiser, Esmeralda of 7,000 tons, the Ministro Zentono of 4,000 tons, and the Almirante Simpson of 1,000 tons; the transport Andamos of 5,000 tons, four torpedo destroyers, capable of making thirty knots an hour, and a couple of large torpedo boats for ocean use, with a speed of twenty-seven knots. Esmeralda is declared by naval experts in England to be the most powerful ironclad afloat. Besides these ships, Chili has still building in England an ironclad of nearly 10,000 tons, which is to bear the name of O'Higgins, school ship, and six torpedo boats. With the fleet that Chili has already afloat and the vessels now in course of construction, Chili bids fair to become in time a powerful rival of the United States for the naval supremacy of the western hemisphere.-New York

The Destructive Lamprey. There is in the New York rivers and lakes a parasitic fish, the lamprey, which lives entirely by sucking the blood of other fishes, attacking even such vigorous fish as the black bass and the pickerel, Professor Gage, of Cornell university, has seen twelve thousand of these lampreys spawning at one time in the inlet to Cayuga lake alone. By actual count twelve out of every fifteen bullheads caught in Cayuga lake and tributary streams have been attacked by these blood suckers, and Professor Gage, who had made a special study of the lampreys, makes the sober scientific statement that they annually destroy more good food fish than all the hooks and nets of all the legal and illegal fishermen of New York state. The lamprey is about the size

The introduction of the bicycle into the postal service of England has made it possible for letters to reach the hands of persons living at a distance from post office towns with much less delay than formerly, and there is no sphere of work in which the bicycle has proved more valuable than that of the postal service.
