THE DAILY WHIG. "Opiter per Orhem Ditor." SELECTING HIS HEAVEN. A young man at the last "smoker" of the Macdonald club, one who has only recently cut his eye teeth and whose mother may not know he's out, gave those who sat before him to understand that he had such a hatred of the grite that he would not want to go to heaven if they were there. He was, therefore, trifling with a serious subject. He was giving evidence of a biterness of spirit of which any christian should be ashamed. He was presuming to dictate to the Father of all men as to what he liked and disliked and wanted or did not want in the future state. He is, therefore, a remarkable young man, and very naturally struck all who heard him with amazement. Talk such as his can be lightly passed over. To mundane affairs he should confine his attention, and so live in unity with his fellowmen that in confidence he can leave the choice for celestial honors to one whose judgment is not warped by the petty prejudices of this life. PARTY RECONSTRUCTION. A demand is made by the Toronto World for a reconstruction of the conservative party. "The men who brought about the recent disasters must retire," it asserts, and this it does with a full significance of its meaning. The recent provincial elections, under the direction of the Tappers, in pursuance of a plan of campaign which they designed after their fall from power, in accordance with their personal whims and wishes, have been adding to the disasters of the party until the life is about crushed out of it. Only in one instance has the party, or any fraction of it, become merry over its misfortunes, and that is supplied by the Macdonald club of this city. It held a meeting on Wednesday evening, erected an altar of incense in the form of fifty pipes, and in an atmosphere of smoke of varying density proceeded to show how cheerful they could be while under a cloud. It was suggestive of Nero's fiddling while Rome burned. The fact that the speakers, in most cases, talked lightly over the party's defeat showed that they were either not alive to the necessities of the hour, or that they succeeded in disguising their troubled feelings. That they may remain in this entrancing mood is the hope and desire of the liberal party here. Why? It guarantees a perpetuity of liberal rule since the city has joined the country in an utter repudiation of the present leaders of the party. What do the experiences of the past six months indicate in both? That Sir Charles Tupper must go. He is no longer the dictator, the leader, the guide. He has been blundering since he supplanted Sir Mackenzie Bowell in the conservative command. He boasted what he could do in federal politics, and scolded himself out of office and the esteem of the governor-general. He boasted that he would recover power, through the provincial elections, and in Nova Scotia and Quebec has been rebuffed in a way that no one with his pretensions has yet experienced. He boasts that he will carry Ontario, and in preparation for the attack has summoned Whitney and Birmingham and others to Ottawa to consult with them and advise. Hence the World's worry and call for relief. It sees what the end must be and insists that, having eaten enough of humble pie, having had sufficient humiliation, the party should rid itself of its misguided leaders. The World is on the right track, but the party it serves does not see the point, and the liberals have noticed this with satisfaction. THE DUTY ON TOBACCO. Now we have, from Ottawa and Montreal, further and reliable evidence of the misfortune which befall the tobacco manufacturers by the change of the tariff. Some time ago it is said that efforts were made to get information touching the proposed changes, and what was regarded as a straight "rip" was secured and to the effect that the duty was to be increased, and, as under the old tariff, on the manufactured article. At once the word was passed along, and each manufacturer was left to exercise his genius in the direction of profiting by the news. Many had loaded up with raw material in view of the Cuban war, and the inevitable shortage in crop as a consequence, and these added to their store in order to get the possible advantage of the new tariff deal. When all was over, when men were worked night and day and the largest possible production of the finished article had been passed out of excise, when the local importation of the leaf had aggregated over 8,000,000 pounds, the tariff was brought down. Then came the grief, the wailing, the awful shouts of despair. The tobacco men rose in their indignation. They could not blame anyone for the folly—the government knew nothing about it—and yet they sought some vent for their suppressed feelings. They called a meeting in Ottawa, talked all one day, talked themselves tired, decided to ask for a mitigation of the duty, and left seats on duty on parliament hill. Meanwhile, as a sort of scare or bluff, they have been closing their factories. They are indulging in a bit of distemper. They think the government will be disturbed, as one paper puts it, by the slamming of factory doors. Perhaps it will. And then again perhaps it will not. The Montreal Herald has been specially investigating the case, and its remarks: "In the past when changes in the tariff have taken place, the cry that the factory would be closed and people thrown out of work has been freely raised, but hitherto, as at present, the real reason for the close down has been the price of tobacco given: Though the price of tobacco by package or plug is now a trifle higher than before April 23rd, it is conceded by storekeepers that they will soon get back to five and ten cent plug or package instead of six and twelve, as now charged. The fact is the manufacturer has to make new moulds to reduce his sizes for every plug or package, and this takes some time to figure out just the little morsel that has to be taken off to square the ten cents per pound duty. Again, in nine out of ten retailers confess to having been loaded up with goods just previous to April 23rd, and now they will want little for months to come. "Why, then, would the manufacturer not shut down until there is a demand for his goods," said a small storekeeper. "When we want goods you but they'll open up and give out to us." That's it in a nut shell. The factories are not closed for good. The manufacturers are merely taking stock. We'll hear from them again. Mr. Davin became very angry when accused of making motions in different sessions and not voting for them. But that is the record which Hansard supplies. In the language of Mr. Richardson, M.P., Davin in emergencies either took to the woods or crawled under the barn. The Toronto Star has it that "the Gracco-Turkish situation seems to be much the same as it was 'befoh de wah,' except that several thousand Greeks and Turks are mouldering cold and low."

On dit that the Ontario legislature is to be dissolved at once and a new election ordered. But it appears to be a false alarm. It originated with the conservatives. Goldwin Smith calls the election in Quebec a landslide for the conservatives. The Macdonald club acts as if it were a toboggan slide. The Toronto Telegram has it that "the days of clerical terrorism are over in Quebec." LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. The Launch Of The Cherokee. TORONTO, May 12.—(To the Editor): In a recent number of your journal a request is made for some record of the launch of the "Cherokee" in the early Forties. At page 830, Vol. 2 of the "Cherokee" work The Landmarks of Toronto, may be found the following account of her.—GRANDFATHER. The Cruiser Cherokee. During the latter end of 1843 was commenced at Kingston a vessel of 700 tons burthen which, when launched the following year, received the name of the Cherokee. She was built under the direct superintendance of Mr. Tucker, the naval constructor, sent out from England by the imperial government. She was commanded by Capt. Davis, R. N. Her chief officer was lieutenant Riccalton, while Mr. Pierce was her surgeon. Her armament consisted of six and nine pound guns, eighteen in all. She cruised between Kingston, Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara. Other trips from Kingston to Toronto and back again were made by the "Cherokee" under the command of Captain Thomas Dick almost invariably piloted her. His fee for this service was five pounds each way, but he thought himself well compensated by the good time he had aboard with the officers, and he used to distribute his pilot fees among the men. After sailing about lake Ontario for some years the Cherokee was taken to Halifax, and after being lightened up was sold to Captain Gaskin, who was assisted in his purchase by E. M. Yennock, late of Kingston, then connected with the bank of Montreal. Captain Gaskin ran her as mail boat between Halifax and St. John's. Another vessel named the Mohawk, also a gunboat but of very much smaller dimensions, being only of 150 tons burden, was built at Kingston about the same time as the Cherokee. She cruised on lakes Erie and Huron. Her first commander was Lieut. Tysen, R. N. He was succeeded by Lieut. Herbert. The Mohawk was broken up early in the "fifties."

HE WAS NOT DEAD. But He Will Visit Friends in Real Flesh and Blood. W. C. Little graduated from Queen's university, in 1889, as M.D., and soon after went to Europe, where he walked the leading hospitals in the various large cities. Later he went to Australia, and settled to the practice of his profession in Warracknabeal, Victoria. His friends heard nothing from him for some time after this, until the great financial crisis in Australia, when many of the leading banks closed their doors. It was reported at that time, that Dr. Little was one of the sufferers, and that he had lost all he had possessed, by the failure of a bank. Later again, came the intelligence of his death, and as time passed, and no word came from him, this report was accepted as having been true. The doctor's many friends will be pleased to know that his death was incorrect, for in the Warracknabeal Herald of April 12th, a copy of which has been received by a citizen, appears a two-column report of a meeting held in the town named, to bid him God-speed on a trip to England and Canada to visit his relatives. It is expected that he will arrive in this city in a few days. Out On A False Scent. Yesterday forenoon the police received information to the effect that a couple of men had, on the preceding day, been offering for sale to hotelkeepers at Joyceville, boxes of cigars, at prices so low as to cause suspicion that the goods had not come into their possession legally. Police constables Aiken and Kennedy went out to the village to investigate, in the belief that the cigars in question might be portion of the booty secured by the burglars who broke into E. C. Sears' store, corner Montreal street and Raglan Road, a few nights ago. The supposition proved incorrect, however, and the policemen returned to the city last evening. May Be A Suit For Slander. An interesting case may come up here for trial as an early date. At a recent examination before Judge Price a local contractor was in the witness box, being questioned by a Clarence street lawyer. A statement made by the witness did not meet with the approval of the lawyer, who, it is alleged, called the contractor a prevaricator. The lawyer will be sued for slander. A Big Turnout. There was a large turnout of members of the 11th bat. at the semi-weekly parade last evening. The men were packed through various battalion movements and by their behavior earned the commendation of the officers. At the conclusion of the parade major Skinner complimented the men on their steadiness and general military deportment. Fireworks, rockets, Roman candles, vertical wheels, mines, etc., at Rees'.

A $5 suit $3.50; a $4 suit $3. Dunlop, King street. Owing to the muddy condition of the roads the Frontenac bicycle club did not take its usual weekly run last night. Collins Bay was to have been the objective point. Next Thursday, weather and roads permitting, the club will take a spin down to Kingston Mills. 7 lbs. peach jam, 35c. Crawford. At the Frontenac cheese board yesterday George Lake intimated that in this district there are too many small cheese factories and if two or more of those would amalgamate at different points, making large factories, better results would be obtained. This was an expression of opinion that met with the approval of the entire board. 7c. for a can of blueberries; 7c. for a tin of catsup; 6c. for a pint bottle of catsup; It required the hard cold cash to secure a line of men's fine worsted black coats and vests. A resident of King street west says the worst strip of sidewalk in the city extends from opposite the knitting mill west to the residence of alderman Walkem. Pint bottle catsup, 6c. J. Crawford. James Richardson & Sons have found that their grain transshipping business has so increased as to necessitate the use of another elevator and storehouse. They have leased the Great Trust elevator No. 2 at Toronto. The building has been leased for only one year, with the option of extending the time if the rush of business continues. The firm has already sent two cargoes to unload there. A UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT. Sweetest Music Drawn From Stones and Glasses. People like variety and they certainly had it last night. The city hall was filled to about two thirds of its capacity, the novelty of the evening being a performance on musical rocks by the Till family, of Bayonne, N.J. The entertainment was unique and excellent. It opened with an overture, "Qui Vive," by the rock band. In rendering this number the Till family, father and two daughters, used an instrument patterned after the xylophone, except that the bars which, in that instrument are of metal, were in the one referred to made of long and narrow bars of rock gathered from the home of Mr. Till in the north of England, where he received his musical education. The music drawn from this huge and barbaric-looking instrument was exceedingly sweet and in wonderful range. The "Chimes of Westminster" imitated on the "swinging harp," caught the unanimous approbation of the audience, and an encore vigorously called for was generously given. A recitation by Mrs. Etta Till was encored also, as was a contralto song, "Daddy," by Miss Mildred Till. "Nearer My God To Thee," "Abide With Me," "It is Well With My Soul," rendered on the musical glasses, could not be more excellently and tenderly given on any regular musical instrument. Both the harp and the rock execution were perfect and drew forth universal expressions of surprise and pleasure. The second part of the programme was fully equal to the first, and the Till family may rest assured of full houses and cordial receptions on any future visits to Kingston. At the conclusion of the entertainment Mr. Till invited the audience to join in singing the national anthem, which he had not heard for twelve years. DEPLORABLE STATE OF CUBA. American Citizens Are Badly Treated—Many Are Starving. WASHINGTON, May 14.—The senate committee on foreign relations, last night, had the Cuban question under consideration on the basis of the report of the sub-committee appointed yesterday to confer with the president and secretary Sherman. The report was proposed by senators Davis and Foraker. The republican members of the sub-committee, senator Morgan, the democratic member, declined to participate in it. The contents of official reports from the present time to within a week of the present time. This report confirms the newspaper reports as to the situation of affairs in the island, and goes even farther in depicting a deplorable situation than do most of the newspaper stories. The special stress is laid upon the condition of American citizens in the island. Of these there are hundreds in a starving condition and most wretchedly clothed. Deaths of Americans from starvation are daily reported. They are scattered in all parts of the island, and are shown no consideration whatever because of their American citizenship. They are generally persons who reside in plantations, who have been driven from their homes to the towns or concentrated, and who, being among strangers and without employment, are compelled to subsist on almost nothing.

THE PROGRAMME ARRANGED. What The Pupils of The Public Schools Will do on Jubilee Day. At a meeting of the board of education last evening Prof. Dyde, chairman of the committee having in hand the arrangements for the proper observance of the queen's diamond jubilee by the pupils of the public schools, submitted this report: (1) That we recommend that essays or papers be written by the pupils of the collegiate institute, commercial class in the Central school and senior fourth classes of the public schools on, "Canada Under Victoria Since Confederation," and that the senior third and junior fourth classes write on, "The Life Of Queen Victoria." (2) That for the best of these papers prizes as prizes be awarded thus: Three prizes for each of the public school grades referred to; four prizes for the classes of the collegiate institute, and two for the orphan's home. These prizes to be limited in value to $25, and to be selected by Prof. Dyde and the secretary of the board. (3) The papers to be judged by members of the board or others named by this committee; to be 1,500 words long when written by collegiate pupils and pupils of the commercial class; 1,200 words when written by pupils of the senior fourth, and 900 words when by pupils of the senior third classes. (4) That the jubilee be observed by exercises arranged by the teachers, with the approval of the inspector and the committee, in all the rooms, and that the kindergartens and other classes in the public schools, up to the junior third, be given souvenirs of the occasion, of an inexpensive but suggestive character, to be determined by the committee at a subsequent meeting. (5) That on Monday afternoon, June 21st, the kindergarten classes and half-time classes be given an outing at a convenient and suitable place, where, the weather being favorable, healthful diversion may be had under the direction of the teachers of these classes. That these teachers be requested to meet and draw up a programme for the little ones, and that the committee be requested to see to it that the playgrounds in various parts of the city be kept in good order. (6) That the pupils of the other departments assemble in the different school buildings and march to the skating rink, accompanied by their teachers, and that at the rink the prizes for the jubilee papers be distributed and patriotic choruses sung. (7) That at the close of the performance in the rink the pupils be marched to the city park, there to participate in a series of games. A band to be in attendance and play during the games. (8) That the principals of the schools be asked to arrange those games and co-operate with the trustees in the exercises of the day. (9) That the committee be empowered to act in the further elaboration of the jubilee programme. ATTACKED HIS FATHER. The Police Magistrate's Daily Lesson Was Short To-Day. In the police court this morning Robert Dalzel Knox pleaded guilty to having been drunk yesterday. He was very penitent and promised the magistrate that he would never again be guilty of such an offence. He was allowed to go. The case against P. McKegney, whose dog tore a boy's clothes a few days ago, was further adjourned until Monday. On Thursday last William Baker, a youth who has already been in court several times, was acting in a most disorderly manner on Elm street, shouting and swearing "at the top of his voice." He was covered with blood, which was streaming from a knife-wound in his hand. In answer to enquiries, information was obtained to the effect that young Baker had attacked his father with a "butcher's knife," and that in taking the weapon from him the sound had been inflicted. The matter was reported to chief Horeby by P. C. Kennedy, and Baker appeared in court this morning. The case was adjourned until Monday, 17th inst. Victorian Order of Nurses. At a meeting of the local committee having in charge the inauguration of the scheme for the founding of the Victorian order of nurses, a number of collectors were appointed to canvass the city. The wards were sub-divided and the divisions given over to the charge of so many collectors. In this way the city will be well and thoroughly canvassed. The secretary, Alderman Walkem, had books ready prepared for the collectors, who will begin their rounds to-morrow. It is hoped that the collectors will meet with encouragement in their tour of the city. Pint bottle catsup, 6c.; 2 lb. tin blueberries, 7c.; 2 lb. can catsup, 7c. J. Crawford. LITTLE FRED. ALIEN LABOR LAW. The Committee Takes No Definite Action As Yet. OTTAWA, May 13.—The special committee appointed to deal with the alien labor bills met this morning and elected Hon. L. H. Davies chairman. Both bills are copies of the American law. The chairman favored legislation to apply to such places as are injuriously affected by the present American law. He objected strenuously to the bill applying to the border line between Maine and New Brunswick. This would mean disaster to hundreds of Canadian men, who go annually to the Maine woods. The trend of travel in the maritime provinces was all towards the United States. There might be circumstances at Detroit or Buffalo which would compel Canadians to do something in self-defence, but this arose not so much from the law as from the interference of busybodies like Dr. Barry. Similar unpleasantness had sometimes been created by United States officials in vessels running between maritime ports and the New England States. Mr. Cowan said he had reason to believe that the United States government is considering a measure to relieve Canada from the operation of the alien labor law, and he advised deliberate action on the part of the committee, until they knew the result. The consensus of opinion favored an alien labor law, applying only to countries which enact such legislation against Canada. Hon. L. H. Davies moved that an extra clause be added as follows: "This act shall only apply to such countries as have enacted or retained in force or may enact any laws or ordinances applying to the dominion similar to this act, and the governor-general-in-council may bring the same into effect, and may make its application to local points, and thereupon the act shall come into force on the following day, and with power to withdraw the same." The committee adjourned to give this matter their full consideration. Electricity For Hamilton. BUFFALO, May 14.—A deputation of prominent citizens of Hamilton, Ont., is here to-day to consult with the civic authorities as to the success in Buffalo of Niagara power transmission. If satisfactory, electric power will likely be transmitted to Hamilton similar to the way in which Niagara power is transmitted to Buffalo. It is proposed to generate the electricity at Decew Falls, twenty miles from Hamilton, where there is a water hole of 200 feet. W. J. Bryna, the defeated U. S. presidential candidate, will lecture in Massey hall, Toronto, on June 14th.
