DEATH OF CHARLES DOLLAR
FOUND DEAD IN THE YARD NEAR HIS FARMHOUSE.

The Teachers' Convention and the Admirable Address made by Dr. Alexander Mack, a Gleaner, at the Annual Meeting of the Lennox and Addington Teachers' Association met in the assembly hall of the collegiate institute on Friday and Saturday last. The session opened Friday at nine a.m., the president, A. E. Lang, B.A., in the chair. The first part of the programme consisted in general business committees being formed to consider articles in the constitution of the association and reports of other important matters. An excellent address was given by the president. Some of the points touched on were "Defects in Our Educational System," "Greater Remuneration For Teachers' Work," "Grading Certificates," "Legislation." In closing the address the president said he desired to see the teachers brought closer together and become more united in their aims.

In the afternoon a circular from the education department was read by E. Burton, P.S.I., requesting that Friday afternoon preceding the 22nd of June be devoted by the teachers to a general review of the principal events, improvement, inventions, etc., that have taken place during the reign of Queen Victoria, and that a portrait of her majesty be placed in every school. Interesting papers were given by J. Brown, principal of the Napanee model school, on "Grammar and Composition," and by J. Matheson, Newburgh, on "The Relations of Play to School Life." Each subject was afterwards fully discussed by different members of the association.

The evening session opened at eight o'clock. The chair was occupied by W. S. Herrington. He expressed the pleasure it gave him to preside over such an important body as the teachers of Lennox and Addington. A vocal selection by Miss Coxall was admirably rendered, after which the speaker of the evening, Prof. Alexander, Ph.D., Toronto university, was introduced. The subject, "The Function of Poetry," was treated in an edifying, interesting and masterly manner. The close attention of the audience showed their appreciation of the lecture. Votes of thanks were tendered the lecturer, the chairman and Miss Coxall. The meeting closed with the "National Anthem."

On Saturday a session opened at 9 a.m. Reports were received from the various committees and adopted. The next business was the election of officers which, according to the new regulations, are: President, vice-president and secretary and treasurer, together with a committee of management of five members. It was moved and seconded that voting be done by ballot. Nominations were taken and the following were elected: J. Matheson, Newburgh, president; Mrs. Toboy, Napanee, vice-president; J. E. Matheson, secretary and treasurer; committee of management, Messrs. Burrows, Lang, Nesbitt, McKay and Miss Nicol; auditors, Mr. French and Mr. Brown.

A course of reading for teachers was fully discussed, several books being mentioned that would prove valuable assistants to the teachers in their school work. A paper by Mr. Morgan, Bath, "Character Training in our Schools," showed careful thought and preparation. Interesting papers were given in the afternoon by Mr. Perry and Mr. Milne, subjects, "Teaching History in the Public Schools," and "Geography of the Northwest." Discussions followed each paper. Votes of thanks were given to the retiring officers for the efficient manner in which the work had been done and also to those gentlemen who had so ably taken part in the programme. The meeting closed with the "National Anthem."

A sudden death occurred on Saturday last. Charles Dollar, York Road, one of the oldest and most respected residents as well as one of the best known in the county was found dead in his yard. He had lived alone for a number of years and it is not known just at what time the spark of life fled. He was noticed in the morning by his neighbor, around doing his chores, and as his sister, Mrs. Bell, and her husband were returning from market they discovered him dead, only a short distance from where his wife was found dead some two years ago. Deceased was born in Kingston in September, 1817, and was in his eightieth year, but no one would have taken him for more than seventy. His father was an old British soldier and took part in the war of 1812. He was present at the battle of Lundy's Lane and after disbanding settled in Kingston. Five children were born to him, three of whom yet live, Nelson and John of Napanee, and Mrs. Samuel Bell, of Ernestown. Louis, another brother, died only a few months ago. His wife was Miss Bette Bell, a sister of Samuel and William Bell, of Ernestown, who, it will be remembered, was also found dead in the yard. They had no children. He was for some years a member of the township council of Fredericksburg. He was a man of very quiet retiring disposition, a consistent member of the Methodist church and a staunch conservative. He was a man of very temperate habits and a life long advocate of temperance and of a most cheery and pleasant disposition. He was one of the youngest old men in the neighborhood. He was never known to be sick, and was in Napanee the day before his death in his usual health.

Mrs. Mitchell, of Deseronto, Mich., are visiting her father-in-law, Robert Mitchell, Mill street. D. P. Howwood spent his 24th in Kingston. Mrs. Young, an old lady, mother of Bayard Young, of Napanee, had a paralytic stroke on Saturday last while shopping at Lakeshore & McKenty's. She was conveyed to her son's residence, and medical aid summoned. H. Douglas is spending his 24th in Toronto with his daughter, Mrs. Dewing. Mrs. J. McAlister was shaking hands with his many friends last week. Luman Sherwood is spending a few days with his father, superintendent H. B. Sherwood. Charles Stevens was in Picton last week. Miss Leah Sherwood, of Toronto university, is also under the parental roof. Charles Parrot, of Belleville, is renewing acquaintances in town this week.

LIFE AMONG ZULU WOMEN.
IN SOME RESPECTS THEY ARE WELL OFF.

Some Strange Marriage Customs Described—Polygamy the Custom of the Country—What is Known About Them.
 The daughter of Lishop Colenso, who has lived among the Zulus and labored to secure the liberation of the Zulu chiefs imprisoned at St. Helena since the capture of Cetewayo, entertaining high respect for that savage South African race and accuses England of failure to do them justice. At her father's house she frequently played hostess to Great Zulu chiefs, and when the Zulu troubles began that many-galied, quiet residence was the one sought by men's dwelling where racial differences were forgotten. In an interview on the social and domestic relations of the Zulus, Miss Colenso gives, in The Humanitarian, London, interesting facts in support of her estimate of the moral character of the race.

"What is the position of the Zulu women?" I asked Miss Colenso, "are they entirely uneducated?"
 "I do not consider that they are at all uneducated. As an example of the honor which is paid to women, take the fact that women have ruled as great chiefs among the Zulus. There is no written or unwritten law. . . . Polygamy is, of course, the custom of the country, but each wife demands and has a separate hut for herself and her children, and it is very much her castle; the husband has a right to enter it, and she need not allow another wife or the children of another wife to cross the doorstep against her wish. It is in a sense her property—not that she could sell it, but she has a dominant ownership. No Zulu would dream of marrying another wife until he was in a position to provide her with a separate hut. The system imparts a dignity to the wife which is found nowhere else. Polygamous people where a separate home is not provided for each wife. You have none of the petty jealousies and quarrelling which distinguish harems of the east among Zulu women, who, as a rule, are most friendly to each other, and the many wives of a chief will live in a little colony of huts, each mistress in her own house and family, and interchanging friendly visits with the other ladies similarly situated."

Courtship is unrestricted, and there is freedom of choice within the restraints "told of" to marry. Miss Colenso says:
 "There is a sort of leap-year arrangement which permits a girl to make the proposal of marriage to a young man with the utmost decorum and secrecy. For example, if a Zulu girl has her heart upon a young man she will suddenly disappear from her home—her relations are not supposed to know where she has gone, and she takes a confidential friend with her who sees to the home of the favored suitor, and if his parents receive her, she is treated as his future bride, and arrangements for the wedding begin. If she does not find favor with the young man, she is not received, she is returned to her own home with thanks, the object of her unrequited attachment usually making a handsome present to ease her feelings. A very romantic case of this kind came under my notice. I had a dear little maid-servant, who was quite a young lady in her way, and was the daughter of the first chief my father befriended when he was sent prisoner to the Cape. She was taken care of at the mission, and educated at our school, after which she came into my service. Her ways were very nice and particular, and she was most refined and delicate in her feelings. As the daughter of a great chief she would have had many suitors if it had not been for European intervention, but as she was a Christian she was quite 'out of it.' In due time, however, my young friend suddenly disappeared. She had set off, I discovered, with a companion, for the home of one of the principal chiefs. Her visit was received with favor, and she is now his honorable wife, and occasionally comes to see me when I am at home in Natal."

Divorce is unknown, but a wife may be sent back to her parents for misconduct. Marriage laws are strictly enforced against both sexes.
 At home the woman's will is law, and the charge of the family belongs specially to her. Women do all the field work, but they are not beasts of burden. Miss Colenso says significantly:
 "A Zulu woman with a hut of her own and her children around her, and a nice little patch of land which she cultivated and reaped the produce, assisted by her boys before they were old enough to serve the chief, was a person of some consequence. I am not sure but that many English wives might envy her life of freedom and independence, and as to field labor it is not regarded by the Zulu woman as more drudgery than the work about a house performed by an European woman of the same social position, and it must certainly be admitted she is allowed possession of the fruit of her labors, which English law has, only within modern times, given to our women, and even now the unwritten social law is prone to regard the husband as sole proprietor of the joint earnings of himself and his wife."

A laborer named Spain, living at Seafort, was killed by a train at Goderich, where he had just applied for work.

RICH GIFTS FOR THE QUEEN
WHICH THE CHINESE AMBASSADOR CARRIES TO HER.

Magnificent Specimens of Far East Art—What Will She do With "Joan's" Sticks, Though?—Sent by Special Ambassador.
 VANCOUVER, B.C., May 24.—Chang Yin Huan, special ambassador to Great Britain, in addition to carrying the congratulations of their imperial majesties the emperor and empress dowager to her majesty the queen empress on the occasion of her majesty's diamond jubilee, also carries with him a number of presents from both the emperor and the empress dowager to the queen. The empress dowager's presents consist of rare porcelain and jade stone cups or vases of fine workmanship and great antiquity; some the celebrated Tibetan "joan" or incense sticks, (for burning on the altar of longevity) and the pine tree (emblem of longevity) moulded entirely of variegated candles, moulded into all sorts of shapes and devices, but all aiming at one motto, "longevity." The foregoing are contained in six square boxes made of valuable, beautifully polished wood called Tzu tan, resembling mahogany. In addition to the above there are also two rectangular boxes of the same material containing, it is said, gold and silver wares of exquisite and rare workmanship, specially woven for their majesties as at the celebrated looms of Soochow and Hang Chow, or eight boxes in all. On top of two rectangular boxes is engraved the legends: "Eternal spring finds its home in the kingdom of the sea," and "Refulgent light surrounds the lady of the moon." On the top of the six square boxes is engraved the solitary character shou, or "longevity."

The gifts of the emperor bore a certain resemblance to those mentioned above and were also enclosed in eight boxes made of the same material.
 Another instance of friendly feeling towards her majesty, and through her towards Great Britain, displayed by the highest nobles and officials of the land, is the fact that their highnesses prince Kung and prince Ch'ing, Li Hung Chang, Wang Tung Ho, ex-imperial tutor and the president of the board of revenue, and other members of Tsung Yamen, including the special ambassador himself, have also conjointly sent several valuable presents to the queen. Following is a list of the presents: Porcelain stand four feet six inches high; eight folding embroidered screens, the frames being made of valuable wood; a pair of jade stone sceptres, and a pair of ancient flower vases of porcelain of very large size.

MRS. HUFF'S STORY.
After Years of Suffering and Anxiety She Receives a New Lease of Life.
Her Rescuer and Deliverer Was Paine's Celery Compound.

It is The Medicine That Brings Health, Happiness and Good Looks to Every Ailing Woman.
 Every sick and ailing woman in Canada will save many weeks and months of suffering and anxiety if Paine's Celery Compound be used at once to strengthen the nerves, purify the blood, and to set the whole digestive machinery in perfect working condition. If you have not yet been benefited and cured by the medicines you are now using, it will be wisdom on your part to put your trust in Paine's Celery Compound which has wrought such miraculous cures in the past.
 The case of Mrs. F. M. Huff, of Salmon Point, Ont., is strong proof that Paine's Celery Compound "makes people well." She says:
 "After receiving so much benefit from Paine's Celery Compound I think it my duty to inform sufferers what this great medicine can do for ailing women to regain health and strength. I have been a great sufferer for years from nervousness and weakness, and have had the advice and attendance of doctors with but little benefit. I was induced to use your Paine's Celery Compound some time ago, and I must confess it is the best medicine I ever used. Nothing else has ever done me so much good, and I now feel quite a different person."
 I trust sufferers will not be influenced to use any other medicine while they can procure yours which does such good work. I cannot speak strongly enough in favor of Paine's Celery Compound, and you may be assured I will always recommend it. You are at liberty to publish this letter in your work.

If There is One Thing

More than another that impresses experienced bicycle riders with the E. & D. wheel it is the high quality of material, workmanship and finish that enter into its construction. Time and money have been sacrificed without stint so long as the "best" was produced. The

E. & D.
 Main feature, however, is the bearing. This is so constructed that dust or rain cannot get into the ball race and the oil cannot get out of the pathway of the balls. For this reason it is only necessary to oil the E. & D. wheel BUT ONCE A SEASON. No oil can is furnished with kit of tools.
 It is worth something to have a distinctive mount. That's why the E. & D. is a favorite with both rider and dealer, and it's easy to sell a favorite. The time will never come when others will be "just as good," remember that.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

Leading Characteristics of the New Woman by Rev. J. Grenfell.
 Rev. J. Grenfell delivered an interesting discourse on the above theme in Brock street church on Sunday evening. After disclaiming any political leanings on the question he said: "I do not wish to discuss the use of the ballot by women, although our moral principles would be safer in the hands of women than in the hands of many who are the ballot for evil purposes. In this Victorian age nobody will deny that woman has rights given by God—the right to make home supremely happy, the right to take a position the service of God, the right to follow the dictates of her conscience and make her way to heaven, and the right to use the warmth and sympathies of her nature to make this fallen world purer, brighter, happier and nobler. There are to day in the christian church multitudes of earnest, capable women, who, if consecrated to God and their time, talents, energies, abilities and influence devoted to His service, would revolutionize and evangelize, electrify and revivify not only the christian church but the whole fabric of society. And they have the right to do so in payment of the debt which as women they owe to christianity. Christianity found woman a slave and burden-bearer and lifted her to the position of queen of the home—the sun and star of society. To day, throughout the British empire, woman is accorded the first place in society not merely as a matter of courtesy, but in honor of her who for nearly sixty years has ruled and reigned in truth and righteousness—her majesty Queen Victoria, while in her courts have gathered the best and purest of men and women. May she be spared many years yet and her vast influence be to God's service. Think of woman's power and influence—think of the women engaged in missionary and temperance work and in the work of social reform. It is impossible not to recognize their worth. O that every woman would take part in the noble task of uplifting and purifying this sinful world."
