In the Heart Of the Mother Country.

WHAT MAY BE THE RESULT IN THE FUTURE.

The Dominions To Remain Portions Of One Undivided British Empire-The Address Of Hon. Wiltrid Laurier .- The Problem Solved In Canada--The Feeling Dominating Canada--Allegiance

Accepted By All. LIVERPOOL, June 14.—The colonial premiers and their ladies, including the Canadian premier, Wilfrid Laurier, and Mrs. Laurier, were the guests on Saturday evening of the Liverpool chamber of commerce in the concert room of St. George's hall. A large and distinguished audience gave an enthusiastic welcome to the visitors. Among those present were Sir Donald Smith, the Canadian high commissioner; Sir George Baden Powell, Sir John Lubbook and Lady Lubbook, the Earl Crewe, Sir Arthur Forwood, James Boyle, the No other colonial premier can hope to United States consul at Liverpool, and H.

The duke of Devonshire, president of the British empire league, made an address. After detailing the objects of the league, he said: "There never was a period in our history when the colonies and dependencies filled so large a place in the heart of the mother country as they do now. While it is too much to say that the colonies occupy the attention of the statesmen to the exclusion of more domestic matters, there is something in the air, something which, if I am not mistaken, is growing into a great and irresistible force, speaking to the mind and heart of the people and telling them that they are citizens of a greater state than that contained in the little islands in the northwest of Europe.

"I am sorry to say that I am old enough to remember a very different state of public opinion, which, I believe was due to the influence of such distinguished men as Cobden and Bright, and admiration of the United States of America. That admiration was admirable in itself, but perhaps. at that time it was somewhat exaggerated and misdirected as a guide for our relations with our own colonies. We were at that time told, that while we should endeavor to avoid the mistakes which lost us the North American colonies, and that above all we should never again be guilty of attempting to retain our colonies by force, yet, we might complacently look forward to the time when our colonies, having grown to maturity, would reacefully sever their connection with the motherland and become independent republics on the model of the United States.

Continuing, the Duke of Devonshire said, after alluding to free trade: "Very few people now regard the example of the United States as the inevitable or necessary result of our colonizing energy, but, on the contrary, we look forward with pride and exultation to possible future creations, not only of a Canadian dominion, but of Australian, West Indian and African dominions, all of which may, perhaps, rival the United States themselves in extent and prosperity; dominions, which instead of becoming separate and independent states, will remain portions of one undivided British empire. To-day we are reaping the fruits of the more generous and statesmanlike policy prevailing of latter years, and of the success which has attended the great policy of Canadian federa-The duke of Devonshire, continuing, said: "It is fortunate that to-day we are able to receive on our shores a premier, not of one of our self-governing colonies, but of a federation of eight: a statesman whose acceptance by the Canadians—as well by the French Protestants as the Catholicswas a sample of the vitality and reality of the federation (loud cheers), and we receive him with still greater gratification, inasmuch as the first measures proposed to his parliament was a long step in the direction of closer commercial connection between Canada and this country. We see in that proof of the desire of the Canadian state backed by the Canadian people to add to the strength which has been gained through the wise measure of federation, and to render the bonds uniting us closer and more permanent. Among all representatives of the colonies now in England, none is more warmly welcomed than the Canadian premier, who has shown in his own person the capacity of our free institutions to break down even such barriers as race and religion, and whose great measure of federation it was hoped would set an example which should be followed by other colonies in the near future. It was said that history has taught that democracy is incompatible with an empire, but, judging from the example of the United States, I do not see any reason why the democratic character extended empire. We are about to present to the world the spectacle of a nation imperial, but, at the same time free. I hope that future history will record that our people have shown themselves equal to the unprecedented task they have under-

At the close of the duke's address the audience called persistently for Mr. Laurier, The premier said: "You have been told been brought up under British institutions. and I have learned that no state can exist unless it respects law. The law this after;

Laurier responder

Upon rising the Canadian premier was greeted with unusual honors. In his response he asserted that Cana's had solved the problem of freligious t or nee and civil and religious liberty n lding: "The Canadians of English and French origin have learned under the happy auspices of free institutions to-respect and love one another. In my chief position of responsibility I have been instructed by the people of the dominion to represent them at the jubilee and to convey to city on Wednesday.

the queen an expression of their loyalty and devotion. This resolution, for such it was, has changed the relations of Great Britain and the colonies. Especially is which now does not contain even a shadow of discontent. The authority of the queen does not rest upon military force, but from the Pacific to the Atlantic rests upon the cheerful allegiance of 5,000,000 of people who feel themselves a nation. "The feeling dominating Canada one of pride in her local autonomy and legislative liberty, connected with imperial unity. Whatever occurences there may have been in the past, the past is closed for ever and a new era has dawned and allegiance is accepted in Canada by all.

"The general sentiment is for closer commercial union. The time may come when the present conditions of citizenship will be felt to be inadequate. A solution for this will be found in the old British principle of representation." Mr. Laurier was followed by Sir Edward Nicholas Coventry Braddon, premier of Tasmania, and Hon. Sir John Forrest, premier of West Australia. Sir John Lubbock replied to the addresses of the colonial and other visitors. The colonial representatives are the guests of the Earl

His tariff reciprocity proposals are designed to place the mother country in a better position to trade with the dominion and that is the English ideal of imperial federation. No other premier can receive so hearty a welcome, but every one has been greeted warmly, and the greatest enthusiasm is shown whenever any colonial premier makes anafter dinner speech or addresses a public assemblage. A tour has been arranged by the empire league which will fill the greater part of this week with provincial festivities, Edinburg, Glasgow and Manchester being visited in turn. The Press Comments.

LONDON, June 14.-All the morning papers comment upon the speeches of th duke of Devonshire and Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier at the banquet given Saturday evening at Liverpool by the chamber of commerce. Most of these comments are in a tone of lively satisfac-

The Times says : "This silent, gradua process of awakening throughout the country on the trade question has brought about an astonishing change which is now beyond all controversy. The recent tarif legislation in Canada and the discussion as to Australian confederation seem co in dicate that we may be on the eve of some remarkable development, but the remarks of Mr. Laurier and those of some of the Australian ministers showed signs that all is not plain sailing.

The Morning Post says: "The duke of Devonshire's speech is a funeral oration on the Cobdenite school. It is obvious enough that the lead taken over the seas on this question finds a response in the growing opinion of the British people."

The Standard says: "The duke Devonshire's candor was complete and creditable."

The Daily News contends that M Laurier's tariff, proposing to discrimin ate in favor of British goods is "remarkable step toward the repeal customs duties within the British empire.' It thinks it in excusable that the duke o Devonshire should join in Tory calumnies against John Bright, and reminds him that Mr. Laurier is the head of a liberal ministry and that Canada is a perfect example of successful home rule. The Daily News concludes its editorial by urging the government to denounce the German and Belgian treaties. The Daily Chronicle says : "It must be admitted that the duke of Devonshire represent a good deal of floating opinion. but we shall do our colonial friends ill-service if we lead them to suppose that England will ever join the protectionist ring We think it a very doubtful policy to denounce the treaties with Germany and Belgium, and thereby risk losing a fu greater volume of trade in order to gain slight advantage with Canada, whose trade must, sooner or later, by the laws of na ture be largely concerned with American markets."

TO HOLD MINING CLAIMS.

New Regulations Have Been Made by

OTTAWA, June 14.-A new set of regu latious to govern the placer mining districts of the Yukon have been promulgated by order-in-council. It makes some important changes in the regulations in force in dominion mining lands. The registration of claims is to be made in the Yukon before a gold commissioner, appointed by the government. Heretofore the entry fee for a placer claim has been $5, with an obligation on the part of the miner to perform $100 worth of development work during the first year to entitle him to hold his claim; he had sixty days within which to record his discovery. Under the new regulations the miner locating s placer claim within ten miles of the gold commissioner's office is given three days in which to record his claim with an allow ance of three days extra for every further ton miles his location is distant from the office and the fee is increased to fifteen dollars with a yearly payment of $100 in stead of the performance of assessment de velopment to that amount to enable him to hold his claim. Prof. Robertson, agricultural commissioner, leaves for England next Saturday week.
