His nominee had served the city for about fourteen years, being in the school board, and also in the city council for a number of years. His father before him had also served the city faithfully and well. He book-keeper and accountant. He had had sacrificed his personal interests in behalf of the city, otherwise he would not be an applicant for the position of city

Ald. W. Robinson asked if the $1,200 mentioned as a salary would cover the entire cost of the office, or must the council pay an additional sum for an assistant. In reply the mayor said that the salary of the late incumbent was $1,900, with an additional $400 for an assistant. Ald. Robinson, continuing, said he would like to see the salary connected with the office placed at about $1,500 to cover the salary also of an assistant. The hours were not very long, about four altogether. He was accustomed to working sixteen hours a day. He had his own opinions, and since being in the council he found that his opinions were generally the same as the citizens at large. The motion was put and lost. Ald. W. Robinson called for the yeas and nays, the result showing a straight party division: Yeas-Mayor Skinner, Alds. Robinson, W. Robinson, Stewart, Toye The mayor declared the motion lost. Ald. Elliott tried to make the pathway smooth for all concerned, by moving, seconded by Ald. McKelvey, that the salary of the city clerk be $1,500, and that the clerk appoint an assistant who must be a stenographer and typewritist, and must attend all committee meetings and take the minutes, and do all the stenographing and typewriting in connection with the dis ferent municipal offices. Ald. Elliott submitted that members of the council would concede the importance of having a person in the city's employ who could do this kind of work, and the present was the opcortunity to make the desired change. Such an employee would save the city hundreds of dollars in various ways. Ald, Donnelly read the by-law covering the appointment of a city clerk. The law was clearly defined, there being no provision for the appointment of an assistant city clerk. Such appointment was empowered in the clerk, subject to the approval of the mayor. So much money was allowed for the salary of a city clerk ; there was no provision for the payment of the salary of an assistant. Ald. Tait took the same view of the mat ter as the previous speaker.

Ald. Wright asked it the office of assistant clerk was also open. The mayor answered in the negative. Ald. Wright thought a competent clerk could be secured for less money than the sum named in Ald. Elliott's resolution.

Ald. Walkem pointed out that there was no provision made in the statutes for the appointment of an assistant clerk by the city council, unless during the illness of the clerk. The consolidated by-laws provided for the clerk securing an assistant, whose salary must be paid by the clerk. In any case a stenographer could be secured for half the sum which Ald. Elliott provided for in his resolution. Plenty of stenographers could be secured for $200 a year. He asked the mayor to rule Ald. Elliott's motion out of order. Ald. W. Robinson thought Ald. Walkem was trying to "pull the wool" over the eyes of the council by his interpretation of Ald. Elliott's resolution, which merely provided for $1,500 for the city clerk's salary. If the clerk desired an assistant the salary of such must be borne by the dizziness, shortness of breath, smothering

Ald. Elliott Was Right. Mayor Skinner, in council last night, was wrongly advised in his contention that he had sole right in appointing one commissioner of the court of revision. Alderman Elliott, holding that the council had to confirm the appointment, was correct in his interpretation of the law, for when the by-law was presented the council confirmed the mayor's selection. Had the nominee been unsuitable the council could have easily baulked the passage of the by-law and only passed it by the substitution of another name by his worship.

On Sunday afternoon a horse driven by a lady shied at the corporation steam roller at the corner of Princess street and University avenue. The vehicle was thrown almost on its side, but the driver retained her grasp on the reins and control of the horse, and no damage was done.

It is high time the steam roller was removed. Several accidents have occurred lately on account of it.

A Playful Maiden's Trick. Brockville Recorder. A young man named George Butterworth had a summons issued last week against Miss Florence White, charging her with wilful damage to a bicycle. It seems the girl stood talking to Butterworth, and while doing so was playfully stabbing the tire of his bicycle with a hat pin. On Saturday he appeared before the police magistrate and withdrew the case, paying seventy-five cents costs. It is understood that previous to this, however, the girl's father paid him $7.40, the cost of
