GILBERT WINS HIS CASE.

Some Interesting Revelations About Comic Opera Profits LONDON, Sept. 5 .- Gilbert has scored his lawsuit against D'Oyly Carte and Sullivan. London is astounded at the revelations in court of the enermous profits made by these three men. During the last eleven years from their comic operas - they have, at lowest estimate, cleared $500,000 each. Gilbert is kicking because he has not received more of the $300,000 divided between them from the profits of American copyrights. When the agreement was made between the two in February, 1883, D'Oyly Carte agreed to pay Gilbert and Sullivan each one-third of the net profits after deducting $20,000 a year for the rent of the theatre, also all taxes and expenses incidental to the performances. It was also agreed that accounts should be settled every three

This part of the agreement, Gilbert claimed, Carte has not lived up to. He had fallen behind in his accounts and had been using the money which he should have divided between his partners in building a new West End theatre. D'Oyly Carte also proposed to put money in Sullivan's attempts at grand opera, but would have no use for Gilbert's comical librettos; consequently, after "The Gondoliers" was produced, Gilbert began to call for a settlement of accounts. When Carte was disposed to dilly dally he went to law and asked to have receiver appointed. This Carte opposed

Sullivan, who was made a defendant in the case with Carte, explained in the court that he deprecated being mixed up in the quarrel, but opposed the appointment of a receiver. Gilbert said be did not care about a receiver if Carte would only set le accounts and give him his money. The court ordered this to be done. Carte must pay (Hilbert $5000 instanter) and settle accounts within three weeks.

A BELLEVILLE SENSATION. Elopement of a Drygoods Clerk and BELLEVILLE, Sept. 5.-Considerable exitement existed in the city to-day over an elopement which is said to have taken place the parties being a married man who is well known in the city and a woman of 40 who is also known to a large number of citizens. The man in question is about 50 years of age' and has a wife and family who are held in high esteem. He has for a number of years been employed as a clerk in the leading dry goods stores of the city, which position he was still holding.

The lady in the case is a dressmaker, who has of late years conducted a business in Front-street. She is neither young nor prepossessing, but it is said that for some time the man in question, who was at one time employed by the same firm as she was, has been paying undue attention to her. Some time ago he took a vacation, but has not returned and no trace of him or of the woman can be found; and from the conduct of the pair in the past, the conclusion reached was that they had left for parts unknown. The man's wife and family are prostrated with grief over the affair, and much sympathy is felt surance, for which he received $90, and that his partner in folly draw all her savings, amounting to between $200 and $300, with which to aid them in their flight.

GUELPH, Sept. 5 .- During the past two weeks Guelph has harbored an American boodler, who was run down on Thursday. George Bosenback was employed by Baken Bros., book publishers of Detroit, and succeeded in defrauding the firm out of some $500. His mode of operation was to secure the first payment on a book, which was sold on the instalment plan, and pecket it. When he heard that his employers were camped on his trail," he skipped out, coming to Guelph. Mr. Baken arrived in the city on Thursday, and procured a warrant for a long time. DUNNVILLE, Sept. 5.—The 9-year-old son o Mr. Henry Hoover of Selkirk met with singular adventure on Wednesday last, says The Press. Mr. Hoover has a farm situated about a mile from the village, where he lives, upon which there is a kind of slashing or brush pasture, to which the boy was sent by his parents to bring the cows, near the close of the day. It happened that a day or .two before the boy had been nearly overtaken by a neighbor's vicious bull that had by some means got into the enclosure, which pursued him so closely that he only escaped injury by hasty retreat over a high fence which enclosed some stacks of hay in an adjoining field. This very naturally frightened the little fellow so much that he was on the alert for a second attack on the evening question-and not noticing particularly where he was stepping, his foot happened to rest on what he thought to be a dried stick about the thickness of his arm, but which proved to be a huge black snake about three or four feet long. His snakeship, irritated no doubt by th unusual pressure, immediately coiled itself so tightly about the boy's legs that he was unable to free himself from its deadly embrace, and there is no doubt he would have been killed outright had it no been for the assistance of a large dog which accompanied him on this occasion. At the bidding of the boy the faithful brute seized the make in h teeth, and the little frightened fellow, bracing himself in an opposite direction so a not to be dragged, allowing the dog by great effort of strength to tear the snake loose. So great was the shock to the little fellow's nerves that he became temporarily ship of Athol, was burned Thursday. ONGE BELLE OF THE COUNTY. Jail Charged with Potsoning

Rather more than twenty years ago Robert Gray, a stalwart young farmer, married Mary Jane Cravat, the belie of Madison county, Mo., and settled down on a homestead near Frederickstown. After a whilethe shadow of disagreement rose between them. Then, Mrs. Gray ran off with another man. Her husband received her on her returnseveral months later, but, naturally, the old love between the two was dead. Things went from bad to worse. One day not long ago Mrs. Gray asked a neighbor who was going to town to buy her some arsenic, declaring that she intended to kill her husband. The man refused, and secured a promise that she would abandon her flendish purpose. But it seems that she did not. At any rate she purchased poison personally, and within 446 the ensuing week Robert Gray was a corpse, having expired in terrible agony.

NEW YORK'S NEW LAW Two Cigaret-Smoking Boys Arrested While Enjoying Themselves Hiegally.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.-Policeman Downing of the Elizabeth-street station was on duty on the Bowery yesterday when he was approached by a grim-faced individual, who "Where have you been !" "I have been here all the while," replied,

Pte, Ellis, G.G.F.G., and Staff-Sergt, Simp-Downing. "Why, what's the trouble?" "A great deal," said the man. "A person is wilfully violating the law on you, just and here I've been looking for you for ten minutes. The criminal has probably escaped The policeman followed the man to the

you for neglect of duty." When the lad felt the policeman's band on his shoulder he cried, and 500 persons gathered in the space of five minutes. Abuse was heaped on the head of the policeman by the onlookers, who declared it an outrage to arrest a child. The policeman never felt more uncomfortable, but he was unable to explain that he had made the arrest against his own inclination. The man who had caused the trouble disappeared.

The boy was Meyer Levy, aged 7, of No 16 Ludlow-street. "Don't cry, there's a nice little boy," ten derly said the newly-appointed Justice; Ciarence W. Meade, who is being "broke in"

by Justice Smith. Justice Smith said, "Go right home Don't smoke any more cigarets. It is against Richard McManus, aged 15 years, of No

Mr. Carlisle (Dem., Ky.) referred to the than last season, at inconsistency of the policy which on the one hand offers a bounty for the planting of trees and on the other hand offers a bounty in the shape of a protective tariff for cutting down prices. He advocated the placing of lumber on the free list so as to get lumber from Canada.

Mr. Frye (Rep., Me.) argued against the amendment. There was $300,000,000 invested in the lumber industry the United States and a million men were employed in it. The competitor of the United States in lumber was Canada, where the wages of men employed in the business were from 25 to 35 per cent. lower than in the United States. How could any senator professing to believe in protection vote to expose that million of laboring men in the United States to competition with the lumbermen of Canada? The Senators from Maine had voted duties on iron ore, coal, wool and scores of articles which Maine's interest was to have free, because those Senators were protectionists, and now should the Senators from Minnesota, Kansas or Nebraska-because they thought lumber might be cheaper in those states if it was on the free list-vote to remove duties on lumber and still an nounce themselves protectionists! SOME HOT WEATHER PRECEPTS. The Time to Drink is Before You Are Thirsty. So It Is Said. Comfort in Summer depends almost as much on the food and drink that are taken into the system as on the clothing. If a man is careful about his diet, in particular about what he drinks, he may be reasonably comfortable in ummer, though he sits around all day with a silk hat, a tight-fitting collar, and freek coat. The uppleasant sensations of a hot day come as well from inside the body as outside. The feeling of parching thirst in the throat is more uncomfortable than the direct rays of the sun. The feeling that a man has eaten something that does not agree with him, or has had too many cold drinks, causes greater discomfort than torrents of perspiration. To be comportable there must be an equilibrium between the interior apparatus of the body and the external conditions and circumstances. No man who eats and drinks carelessly on a hot day will have this comfortable poise. A mistake many men make is not to drink until they are thirsty and not to drink anything at all cool until they are hot. A man may get up in the morning and feel fairly com-WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. - Senator Evarts fortable; and drink but little. When he gets tohis work it will be warmer; he will then ment to be proposed to the tariff bill: "That | drink beer, soda water, lemonade, or ice wathere shall be levied, collected and paid on | ter. In a little while he will be thirstier and this time on as the thermometer rises he will become hotter and thirstier. It is not that he has not taken enough fluid to quench any amount of thirst, but that the fluid was not taken until be was thirsty and therefore does not quench his thirst at once. Eating satisfies hunger almost at once, but the food is not taken into the system for several hours until the digestion and assimilation are completed. It is so with thirst even more than with hunger. Thirst is a local feeling, but it means that there is not enough water in the system. Pouring water down the throat puts water into the stomach, but not into the system for some time afterward, particularly if the water is cold. Coffee and tea quench thirst more rapidly when they are hot than when they are cold, because they are assimilated more quickly. Then after the victim of the heat is loaded up with cold water he begins to perspire more freely. This means that he has put into himself more water than his system demands, and that the boat au1 his overloaded system combined are working it off. As the perspiration trickles down his face he goes and takes more drinks, and so keeps up the uncomfortable round until night, when he tosses around damp and uncomfortable.

In the same way that a short run exhaust a man's breath and makes him sweat more than a long leisurely walk, so a number of iced drinks poured in rapidly tire a manmore and make him sweat more than a moderate amount of fluids taken at long intervals of time. The best time to drink is in the morn ng. The stomach is empty and the fluids will be carried through the system and mto the blood more speedily. A pint of moderately cool water then will do more to relieve thirst during the day than ten glasses of beer or soda water in the afternoon. A man is somewhat like a locomotive; if the water is not judiciously administered to the boiler there is an explosion. The time to lay in the supply of fluids is before the man starts for the day. If he wants to drink any more he may drink it slowly, and should not have it so cold that it will inflame t'e throat and the stomach and make them warmer. A cols bath makes the skin glow with warmth, So a cold bath of ice water in its reaction went among the impressionable colored warms the throat and stomach .- N. Y. World. Goodness Seldom Pays.
