WHAT SHALL WE WEAR?

STYLES THAT ARE APPROVED AT HOME AND ABROAD.

Latest Fashions as Expressed in Dresses for Evening Wear—Description of Some of the Picturesque Bodices That Are Now Worn.

There is a great variety in the cut of bodices. Many of the evening bodices are decidedly picturesque. One made in a pretty, old fashioned Louis XV satin brocade had a double puffed sleeve reaching almost to the elbow, draperies about the neck all made of chiffon, and intermixed with old point d'Alencon. This was accompanied by a jacket basque with large brocaded buttons, this basque cut up and plaited on either side at the hips. It was very much like the sketches handed down to us from the period of Charles I.

A unique gown for evening wear is shown in the accompanying cut. It is made in clear white muslin. The skirt and demi-train are bordered with a flounce. The low bodice is black velvet, and the sleeves and fichu are of white muslin.

There are two or three other items about evening gowns: Sleeves for young girls' dresses are often made open on the outside of the arm to show the point of the shoulder. A light blue satin gown brocaded with imperial bees illustrates the return to the fashions of Louis XVIII period in dressmaking. It has a trellis work of yellow leather like galon round the skirt and the top of the bodice, which at the neck and waist is bordered with a ruche. Many dresses are made with embroidered corselets, with narrow gold galons, placed round above the skirt hem, also round the bodices and wrists. The sleeves of all the demi-decollete dresses are made long, but in light material, such as tulle, gauze or muslin, fitting close to the arm. Some have narrow satin ribbon twined round the arm from the elbow.

New Ideas in Underclothing.

The newest idea in underclothing is the embroidered frills in colored cottons, which are applied to nightgowns principally. Many ladies will, however, prefer deep vandyked frills, embroidered at the edge in white, now fashionable in Paris, gathered full in the Pierrot style. Some of the nightgowns are made with puffings between the insertions, and hemstitched bands frequently replace lace. Flannel petticoats have double frills in two colors, or in a color laid on white, both pinked at the edge. Sometimes the frills have waved rouleaux of white silk or braid. Chemises are fitted to the figure and the seams filled in with veined insertion. All kinds of silk petticoats are worn.

NIGHTDRESS IN FINE CAMBRIC.

The nightdress shown in the cut is made in fine cambric, with a sailor collar and cuffs. It is trimmed with insertion down the fronts and with narrow tucks at each side.

The New Ribbons.

The new kinds are mostly reversible, with satin backs and terry or velvet borders of all kinds, as well as the cord edge. There are some curious mixtures of colors like plaids in the stripes and check braid borders and plush borders and entire plush ribbons. Chintz velvet stripes and shot stripes are new, as well as somber effects. Two inch wide and 2¾ inch and 3½ inch are the usual widths. A narrow width is used for strings, 2 inches wide generally, and ribbon velvet. The old cerise color is coming in, and solferino and magenta, emerald, royal blue and beaver—indeed, many browns. Baby ribbons also are much used.

Jewelry Notes.

Elsie Bee tells in Jewelers' Circular that:

Gold beads continue to be worn.

Tortoise shell hairpins, set with diamonds and turquoise, are fashionable.

Watches run small to medium in size, and there is a marked tendency toward decorative cases.

There are dainty little fobs especially provided for ladies.

Among watch chatelaine the novelty is a small affair that expresses itself in form of a flower or other motif, and which is fastened at one side of the corsage.

A fantasy has sprung up for necklaces of colored stones.

Solid Facts For Smokers.

Reasons why S. Davis & Sons maintain the quality of their brands. It has taken the best part of a lifetime to establish them. They have spent thousands upon thousands of dollars to introduce them. Having obtained the confidence of the public they wish to merit a continuance of same. A deterioration of quality in their brands would not alone destroy the structure upon which they have spent their time, money and labor, but would result in a loss of that confidence the public have favored them with that money again spent in advertising to introduce new brands could not purchase. Therefore; is it to be supposed that any sane business man would be so foolish as to destroy in a short time what it has taken so long to establish. Their brands, "Cable," "Mungo," "El Padre" and "Madre e Hijo," are undoubtedly the best value, the safest and most reliable smoke, and cost no more to the consumer than cigars of a much inferior quality. Why smoke other brands or permit dealers (for the sake of additional gain) to sell you these that you are in most cases unfamiliar with.

Not up on Powder.—A Michigan woman got mad at a neighbor and wanted to scare her. She put five or six revolver cartridges into a head of cabbage and sent it over as a present to boil. It was boiled, but hot water doesn't explode gunpowder, and revenge is still unsatisfied.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

Speaking of a high church episcopal theological seminary in Chicago, the Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford recently said: "It contains two tons and a half of the fathers. What do the fathers know about Chicago or New York? What do the students who spend their time studying the fathers know about the present generation?"

Edison is Right.

In a few years, says Mr. Edison, the world will be just like one big ear, it will be unsafe to speak in a house until one has examined the walls and furniture for concealed phonographs.

It is also quite safe to assert that in a very short time the justly celebrated Diamond Dyes will be so universally used throughout the world that steam dyeing establishments will almost cease to exist, and families will do their own dyeing with Diamond Dyes, which are pure and unadulterated. If these dying establishments wish for a continuance of existence they will have to discard the crude and dangerous mill dyes, and use the Diamond Dyes.

Hundreds of ladies in Canada, who a few years ago had their dyeing done in city and town dye shops, now use the Diamond Dyes, as the work is done much better and at one-tenth the cost of dye shops.

Diamond Dyes to the ladies are as great a boon as is the telephone and telegraph to the business man.

Lively Times for Dallas Police.

The police of Dallas, Tex., had a lively time recently. Early one morning burglars were discovered in the business house of Coleman & Wagener, and after a desperate struggle in which several shots were exchanged the officers captured the ruffians. The safe had been blown open, and on the floor were drills, jimmies and other burglars' tools. One of the prisoners gave his name as David Archie, of Cincinnati, and the other claimed to be George Thompson, of New York. Late at night the police captured three men suspected of robbing houses in the residence portion of the city. They were loaded down with watches, jewelry and clothing. They gave their names as Mike Ryan and Mark Howard, of Chicago, and Will Eerins, of Kansas City.

Improved Smoking Arrangements.

Quite a change appears to be taking place in the general opinion as to the best arrangement of smoking room accommodations on some classes of passenger trains, and it is quite possible that the common smoking car will before long cease to form a part of the better class of trains. Quite a number of railroads have constructed their chair cars with smoking rooms of sufficient capacity to provide accommodations for the occupants of each car. The practice of thus furnishing a smoking room for each car is rapidly extending to the common day coaches, and a number of very prominent roads are putting a smoking compartment in nearly every car.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Quality Not Quantity.

Our Inducements—A good article at a fair price. It is a well known and indisputable fact that the celebrated and popular brands of cigars, "Cable," "Mungo," "El Padre" and "Madre e Hijo," have lost none of their original excellence. MISCELLANEOUS.

WHY!

WHEREFORE.

The virtues or merits of a remedy for pain do not consist in its being as good for relief as other remedies, but in being more prompt and sure, and therefore the best for the specific purpose. It is not an idle catchline that strikes the eye thus:

ST. JACOBS OIL

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAIN,

IS THE BEST.

It is the best cure for all aches and pains, and it holds

THE TRUE PROOF.

To this specific fact Archbishops, Bishops, Clergymen, Lawyers, Doctors, Governors, Generals, Senators, Members of Congress and Legislatures, U.S. Consuls, Army and Navy Officers, Mayors and Officials, testify and unite in saying: "We suffered pain;

OTHER REMEDIES FAILED,

and St. Jacobs Oil cured promptly and permanently." For the same reason finds what he seeks and needs, is not deceived and will have it at any price.

THE POOR MAN

HOW TO MAKE HOME-MADE CARAMELS FOR CHRISTMAS.

Anecdotes and Odd Bits of News Illustrating the Fads, Foibles and Peculiar Notions of the Gentler Sex—The Latest Fashion Notes.

Our candy was to be sold for 1 cent a stick, but the sticks were not vanity little snips by any means. Mrs. Cartwright made us a present of the molasses, Lois brought the sugar from home, Al Fay brought the vinegar, and Marjorie produced the butter.

These were the ingredients: a half-gallon of New Orleans molasses, a cup of vinegar, a piece of butter as large as two eggs, a good teaspoonful of saleratus dissolved in hot water.

We melted the sugar in the vinegar, stirred into the molasses, and let it come to the boil, stirring steadily. The boys took turns at this work.

When the syrup began to thicken, we dropped in the saleratus, which makes it clear; then flouring the hands, each took a portion, and pulled till it was white.

The longer we pulled, the whiter it grew. We ate some of it, but we girls were quite firm in saving half for our sale.

Then we made maple-sugar caramels. Have you ever tried them? They are splendid. You must have maple sugar to begin with; real sugar from the trees in Ontario if you can get it. You will need a deep saucepan. Then into a quart of fresh sweet milk break two pounds of sugar. Set it over the fire. As the sugar melts it will expand. Boil, boil, boil, stir, stir, stir. Never mind if your face grows hot. One cannot make candy sitting in a rocking chair with a fan. One doesn't calculate to, as Great-aunt Jessamine always says.

The way to test it when you think it is done is to drop a portion in cold water. If brittle enough to break, it is done. Pour into square buttered pans, and mark it off while soft into little squares with a knife.

Some people like cream candy. It is made in this way: Three large cupfuls of loaf sugar, six tablespoonfuls of water. Boil, without stirring, in a bright tin pan until it will crisp in water like molasses candy. Flavor it with essence of lemon or vanilla, just before it is done, add one teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Powder your hands with flour and pull it until it is perfectly white.

Plain Caramels—One pound of brown sugar, a quarter of a pound of chocolate, one pint of cream, one teaspoonful of butter, two tablespoonful of molasses. Boil for 30 minutes, stirring all the time; test by dropping into cold water. Flavor with vanilla, and mark off as you do the maple caramels.

Home-made candy is sure to be of good materials, and will seldom be harmful unless the eater takes a great quantity. Then the pleasure of making it counts for something.

These recipes, given in Harper's Young People, I can recommend, and if our girls are at all expert in making candies at home, I do not know anything much daintier for a Christmas present than a pound of delicious home-made candy done up in a dainty box or basket. Every one appreciates such a present.

"The Boy's Room."

I "fixed up" my boy's room out of as unpromising a lot of material as usually falls to the lot of mothers to work with—an odd lot of furniture, no two pieces alike, except a set of bottomless chairs. A commode and fancy back to an old bureau we built (my boy and I) out of dry goods boxes. The chairs we bought perforated bottoms for, and fastened them in with brass headed tacks, then stained them all with black walnut stain previous to varnishing. I decorated the bedstead, bureau and commode with a fruit picture which the merchant kindly saved for me from his pieces of cotton cloth. I had twelve pictures, with which I made a handsome decorated set of furniture.

I papered the walls with paper, cream colored ground, covered with a running vine with crimson buds peeping out, giving a rich warm tone to the room. I had an old ingrain carpet, drab ground with a pattern of different shades of wood color in running vine. This I ripped apart, washed each breadth and colored a portion of it crimson with dye. The dye colored the drab ground beautifully, while it only made the wood colors a little darker; so here was my carpet to match the rest of the room.

The draperies of turkey red, with lambrequins of cream color made of perforated shelf paper, harmonized with the other furnishing and made a cozy room for my boy, and it all cost less than five dollars. The girls say their brother's room is prettier than theirs, and I am repaid for my labor in witnessing his enjoyment.—Cor. Springfield Homestead.

A Real Helpmeet.

In the backwoods of Baker's River, Ore., a young couple are engaged in clearing a homestead. As the place is not yet self-sustaining the husband is obliged to go a distance to work at day wages. In such cases the wife stays at home, her only company being a Winchester rifle and a three-pound axe. After the morning housework she takes her axe and goes to clearing, chopping and burning brush. She can chop to the heart of a tree nearly as quickly as her husband can. She is well educated, has had no experience in roughing it, but is determined to aid her husband all that she can to secure a comfortable home.

FRILLS OF FASHION.

Figured materials are in high fashion.

The black marten is the darkest natural fur.

The newest stockings are all in bright colors.

Pockets in reefer jackets are cut on the outside.

Astrakhan is being used lavishly on cloth costumes.

Bows are not knotted, but tied with a narrow ribbon.

Tailor made gowns are the rage for out of door costumes.

A widow does not have bridesmaids nor does she wear a veil.

All the newest dresses have one flounce around the hem.

Any amount of trouble and expense is still lavished on shoes.

Feathers play an important part in the garnitures of the season.

All of the underwear of fleshy persons should be made with yokes.

Tartan shoes are among the most striking novelties yet evolved.

Velvet sleeves will undoubtedly remain in vogue during the winter.

Pretty fans are of crepe de chine, decorated with little crayon drawings.

The coiffure worn with a large hat is either loosely knotted or twisted at the back.

Collarettes made of velvet are considerably worn as a finish to street costumes of cloth.

The Population of Kingston

Is about 20,000, and we would say at least one-half are troubled with some affection of the throat and lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all our readers not to neglect the opportunity to call on their druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs. Trial size free. Large bottle 50c and $1.
