THE PROTEST.

A full flood of joy seems to have burst out all around and about the Tory cam in this city over the discovery by the Mais of what that oracle is happy to think is a fatal error in the fyling of the petition against the return of SIR JOHN MACDONALD. An error has been madeone so natural that it has been shared in by the officials of the courts at Toronto but it is by no means fatal, and the petitioner's agents have promptly taken the proper legal steps to procure an emenda-The Mail may put aside as to the mistake, being unintentional, for the most earne steps have so far been taken, and will be continued, to bring to light the corrupt practices which had such an important influence in returning Sir John and depriving Kingston of its honest, proper representation. If the supporters of the chief corruptionist were as confident their organ pretends they are of the cleanness of Sir John's hands in the recent election, their rejoicing at the slight possibility of an escape from threaten d exposures is very illogical. To gentle men of such lofty purity the opportuni y of "distinguished." of displaying in court their remarkable virtue and of discomfiting the petitioner should be the occasion of the joy and not of the sorrow.
