INNISFAIL. A SONG FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY. When I slumber in the gloom Of a nameless foreign tomb,

By a distant ocean's boom-

Around thy em'rald shore May the clasping sea adore. And each wave in thunder roar -

Although now I've changed my plans, And embarked in selling Hums! And can beat each living man-Yet I love th Shamrock shore

And her maiden's I adore, As pure as virgin snow-How I long to see that land, E'en the shipwrecked on her strand.
