A SONG FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY. When I slumber in the gloom Of a nameless foreign tomb, By a distant ocean's boom-

Around thy em'rald shore

May the clasping sea adore, And each wave in thunder roar -Although now I've changed my plans,

And embarked in selling Hams And can beat each living man-At the Trade. Yet I love th Shamrock shore

How I long to see that land, E'en tho shipwrecked on her stranc With lot of those good Hams !

And her maiden's I adore,
