Campbell vs. Campbell.

(To-the Editor of the British Whig.) Sir, -My attention has to-day been called by the defendant to your report of the case of Campbell vs. Campbell, disposed of at the last assizes.

That report is incorrect in one or two important particulars. The offer to settle was not made by the defendant or his counsel. After the opening of the case, the plaintiff's counsel, Mr. Richards, As the Property has been disposed of by Q.C., offered to accept a verdict for one shilling damages and costs. The defendant by his counsel stated in reply that he had made no "injurious aspersions," that any such were made by others and communicated by the defendant to the father of the plaintiff under such circumstances
