MR. SMITH'S DISCOVERIES IN KONYUN-

Among the valuable documents—if it is proper to call incised titles "documents -which have been discovered in the great mounds of Konyunjik by Mr. Geo. Smith is a complete series giving the ancient Chaldean account of the deluge, which is very like that given in the Old much fuller than the Genesis edition of the story. The account is comprised in a Plain Soda Water, &c. vseries of legends relating to an ancient Chaldean king and hero named Izdubar. He is of giant stature, and had a court, a seer or astrologer, and officers. Having est his seer, and being unable to replace im, he determines to seek counsel Hasisadra; the sage who escaped, the d uge. A te protracted wanderings hough fabulous regions, he at last alights upon Hasisadra and his wife, and inquires the sage how he became immortal. The sage thereupon tells Izdubar the story of the flood and of the vessel which he built according to the directions of Hes, to save himself and his belongings from the uni on the world, to destroy the human family because of the wickedness of the chil dren of men. The deluge lasted six days and on the seventh day the storm - ceased when the vessel was stranded for seven days on the mountains of Nizir.
