You know a strong man from a weak one by his irorclad spelling, and his hand writing helped you to verify your verdict. Some people have an idea that correct spelling can be taught-and taught to anybody. That Westbourn Terrace. is a mistake. The spelling faculty is born in a man, like poetry, music and art. It is a gift, it is a talent. People who have this gift in a high degree only need to see a word once in print and it is forever photographed upon their memory. They must be content to spell more or less like -like thunder-and expect to splinter the dictionary wherever their orthographical lightning halp no to strike. The: are 114,000 words in the unabridged dictionary. I know a lady who can spell 180 of them right. She steers clear of all the rest. She can't learn any more. So her letters always consist of those con THE MANCHESTER MAN, write upon a subject which necessitates the use of some other words, she-well she don't write on that subject. I have a relative in New York who is almost sublimely gifted. She can't spell any word right. There is a game called Verbarium H. Davis & Co., dry goods merchants, should give their hands, who are members sheet of paper, across the top of which is written a long word like kaleidoscopical or something like that, and the game is to see who can make up the most words out of that in three minutes, always beginning with the initial letter of the word. Upon one occasion the word chosen was cofferdam. When time was called everybody had built from five to twenty words except this young lady. She only had one word-calf. We all studied now ready and on hand at ment and then said, "Why there is no 1 in cofferdam?" Then we examined her paper. To the eternal honor of that uninspired unconscious, sublimely independent soul be it said, she had spelled that word "caff?" If anybody here can spell calf auy more sensibly than that, let him step to the front and take his milk. The
